Note

IN THE preparation of this volume, I have made free use of the "Dowse or Dows Family in America" by Azro M. Dows, brought out in 1890, though I have examined or had examined all the original sources from which he obtained his data. I have been constantly at work since 1880 on the Dowse family records, in England and Ireland, but it was not until 1912 that I found trace of Lawrence Dowse in Lincolnshire, England, and established the fact that he was born in Legbourne in Lincolnshire in 1613, baptized 6 June 1613, and that his ancestor John Dowse of Tathwell, near Legbourne, born in 1480, died in 1541. Lawrence Dowse's grandmother was Ann Dyon, of a good armorial family; her brother was vicar of North Preston and she was a cousin of Elizabeth Dyon, wife of Sir Robert Mounson, Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas. I am deeply indebted to Mrs. Suckling of Highwood, Romsey, Hampshire, England for her interest and aid.

I also have to thank Mrs. Mary L. Holman and J. Gardner Bartlett for their work.

But of all the people whom I have come in contact with in this work, I am under very special obligations to Worthington C. Ford for his careful scrutiny of the whole manuscript and for invaluable aid and work.

Preface

WERE genealogy confined to a list of names and the three "accidents" of life — birth, marriage and death — it would be dry indeed and of interest only to the family enumerated in its pages. There is a wider field opened to the study, in tracing contact with public affairs and with historical characters; in describing social customs and relations and in presenting a picture of a class, an occupation, or a region at a particular time and in a particular stage of development. It is permissible to go even further and, where absolute proof is wanting and present indications strong, to frame a hypothesis which will serve as a temporary bridge or explanation until proved or disproved. As the best results may follow a theory in science, so in history and genealogy a theory, partially tested by known facts, may serve to make up for a want of complete proof and point out possible fruitful lines of investigation. In no respect is this better shown than in establishing connection between American and English families, where so often all record and even tradition of origin have passed from memory.

In the case of the Dowse family the American line is fully developed. In England extensive search has given lines and connections and brought one line to the ocean's edge under circumstances that clearly indicate that a member of that particular generation left England and presumably went to an English colony. Names, time, social position and general characteristics — all unite in indicating the migration to Massachusetts-Bay of Lawrence Dowse of Legbourne, Lincolnshire, and the story is picked up in that Province and carried on with the same associations as were found in the English home. Positive proof in the shape of documents would only confirm what already stood as proven by every test which can be applied. The details will be found in the following pages and are open to the interested who may be tempted to add or take away from their consistent story; but the leading and essential features cannot be changed.

Other questions than this link joining the American line to its English origins are suggested.

The Randes were a family of Holbeach, co. Lincoln, a place once isolated by the waters of the North Sea, as its name shows.

The most distinguished member was Henry Randes, whose father added "alias Holbeach" to his own name and his son, on becoming a Benedictine monk at Crowland, also assumed the name of his birthplace and is better known as Henry Holbeach than as Henry Randes. At Cambridge, where he used the name Randes, he took B. D. 1526-27, was prior of his Order at Buckingham College, 1535, and became, irregularly but by the King's command, prior of Worcester, 1536. In 1538 while retaining the office of Prior he was consecrated suffragan, with the title of Bristol to the see of Worcester, of which Hugh Latimer, the martyr, was bishop. In less than two years he became the first dean of the cathedral church at Worcester and in 1544 was appointed Bishop of Rochester. Shortly after the death of Henry VIII he was translated to the see of Lincoln (August, 1547) and died in 1551. Thus he began and ended his life in Lincolnshire.

The family remained at Holbeach where the Visitation describes John, a brother of Henry Randes, as "husbandman;" two other brothers — Nicholas and Richard — without named occupations and who died before 1549. All three left descendants. Henry Randes himself, though a priest, took early advantage of permission to the clergy to marry, and by his wife, Joan Manett, left two sons, Thomas of Nettleham and Henry of the Close of Lincoln, and a daughter, Judith.

The Randes were found in many localities of Lincolnshire. Near to Holbeach they had homes in Whaplode, Fleet and Crowland. To the north of Holbeach the name occurs in the records of Boston, Frieston, Horncastle, Louth and Legbourne; and to the northwest in Bucknell, Nettleham and Lincoln. On the northern border of the county Barton upon Humber carries the name. These are the more important places where Rand or Randes — the name was apparently spelled both ways — lived. The incomplete records of the churches and parishes show too many losses to enable a full and definite connection among these families; but the distances from one town to another were not great and the spread of families had been going on for centuries. Enough is known to suggest — even to prove — a wide connection and almost entirely in Lincolnshire. Centuries of residing in one locality or in a group of neighboring parishes and towns, when removal was discouraged by cost and difficulties attending it, as well as by a disinclination to break old ties, could not but lead to wide family connections. The frequent use of the word "cosen" in old wills and letters, indicating a connection which cannot be traced, is evidence of this, and in the century of the first migration to America it would be quite safe to assume that the possessor of a name out of the usual could claim relationship with all of that name in the county. The Rand or Randes are a case in point.

Lawrence Dowse married for a second wife Margery Rand. Little is known of her, save that she was born in England and was the daughter of Robert and Alice (Sharp) Rand. The family name of his first wife — Martha — is not of record. Married in England, she accompanied him in his migration to Massachusetts-Bay and died at Charlestown in 1644. His second marriage probably took place in Charlestown, where his wife resided and to which he removed shortly after the marriage, becoming identified with that place. Margery Rand has left no trace of her origin, but conjecture would first associate her with Lincolnshire and with a possible connection with the Rande or Randes of that county. A single woman did not long remain unmarried in the new plantation, but a common origin in Lincolnshire — for Lawrence Dowse was from that county — and all the associations that implies may well have led to the choice.

The mother of Margery Rand was a Sharp, a name found prominently in the earliest movement of migration to Massachusetts-Bay. When and how Thomas Sharpe became interested in the plans of the London Company of the Plantation of Massachusetts-Bay, is not known. That he was a prominent mover in them is proved by his presence at Cambridge, August 26, 1629, at the meeting of the leading men who had determined to venture their lives, families and fortunes in the undertaking. With John Winthrop, Sir Richard Saltonstall, Thomas Dudley, Isaac Johnson and others, he pledged himself to be ready in March, 1630, to go to New England, there to "inhabit and continue." At that meeting the brain, bone and sinew of the plantation took the last measures to transfer their strength and hopes to the wilderness of New England. Such were the positions and influence of the twelve signers of the agreement that they moved the Company to transfer its charter and government to the new continent, and were themselves appointed to the highest offices in that government, even before they left the shores of England. In October, 1629, these officers were chosen and among them Thomas Sharpe to be of the Court of Assistants. He sailed with Winthrop and on the formation of the First Church in Boston, became a member, his name standing sixth in order. Before a year passed, he met with misfortunes sufficient to break the courage of any man. In January, 1631, his daughter died, "a godly virgin," wrote Thomas Dudley, who added: "The plantation here received not the like loss of any woman, since we came hither, and therefore she well deserves to be remembered in this place." Two months later Sharpe's house, "as good and as well furnished as the most in the plantation," Winthrop recorded, burned to the ground with the greater part of their household goods and other property. Quite discouraged Sharpe determined to return to England and in March, 1631, he took ship with Sir Richard Saltonstall, William Coddington and others, and never again set foot on Massachusetts soil.

Was Thomas Sharpe related to Alice Sharp, the mother of Margery Rand? The migration to Massachusetts-Bay took place in groups, a number coming from one locality or one congregation. Some went out of fear of the course political affairs were taking in England, for the King had forced the leaders of Parliament to define the rights of the people and a struggle to secure their recognition impended. Others were moved by a feeling that the conditions of living in old England had become too hard to be endured and a change to new lands and greater freedom from law and customs would hold out a promise of betterment. Others chafed at the efforts of church authorities to secure uniform practices in the church ritual, and to persecute those who could not find it in their conscience to conform, even outwardly and as a mere form. Many reasons could doubtless be found in the case of individuals, willing to give up their interests at home to seek a more favorable plan of existence in the plantation, but no reason could be more active or more urgent than family and church connection. No one knows where Thomas Sharpe lived in England. It has been assumed, but without proof in support of the assumption, that he came from Essex. A reference in the Archdeaconry of Essex of a date later than the migration states that Thomas Sharpe, Tabitha, his wife, Thomas Sharpe, Jun. and Anna Witta, "doe all refuse to bowe to the blessed name of Jesus, or to stand up at the Creed, according to the cannon; and doe scoffe at the minister and others that did kneel by the Communion table, according to the Rubrick; the said Sharp is a common depracer of the government ecclesiasticall, and of the rites and ceremonies of this church, since his comings from New England."

Even standing by itself the last clause is sufficient to indicate

Thomas Sharpe of the Bay plantation. If his wife were living at the time he went to Massachusetts he would almost certainly have taken her, as well as his daughter. The daughter was not a child at that time, as the words of Dudley show. It is possible he married again after his return to England — Tabitha — but a son old enough to be charged before the ecclesiastical authorities with non-conformity would have been by an earlier wife. If that was the case why had not that son migrated to New England and thrown in his lot with his father's adventure? The alternative is that Thomas Sharpe who sailed in the Winthrop party, was the Thomas Sharpe, Jun., of the archdeaconry entry. Even in that case the emigrant was too much of a person of position, worth and prominence to be merely the son of his father in all things; and further, it is not known that he held any views opposed to the Church of England in any of its activities. In fact the leading members of the Winthrop party expressly disclaimed such opposition and appealed to the Church for a fair examination of their sincere support. One of these Sharpes, whom the archdeaconry sought to discipline, may be the Thomas Sharpe of Massachusetts-Bay. If it was the son, the presence of parents and son in the same diocese would indicate, without actual proving, an Essex county origin.

Even so, the relations among families of Essex, Suffolk and Lincolnshire were close as the Visitations show. From these counties came a goodly part of the first planters in Massachusetts-Bay and family influence in leading to the migration must have been strong. In the absence of actual records would it be wholly wide of the mark to suppose that the Thomas Sharpe, certainly of Massachusetts-Bay and possibly of Essex county, was a relation of Alice Sharp, the mother of Mary Rand? Until actual evidence is discovered the supposition has much to sustain it, certainly more than any other supposition that can be advanced.

There was another Sharpe in Massachusetts — Mary, wife of Captain Richard Sprague, and she was the aunt of Margery Rand, wife of Lawrence Dowse. The origin of the Sprague family is another undetermined fact and without it no light is thrown on the origin of the Randes. * The parent of both Mary and Alice Sharpe was Nicholas Sharpe. That name is found once in Essex printed records. He married Agnes Tirrell and had an only daughter — Cicely — an only child. As names were handed down from generation to generation, the absence of Agnes and Cicely is good evidence that this was not the family of Thomas Sharpe who went to Massachusetts. In Sussex about the beginning of the seventeenth century were John Sharpe and his wife Alice Odyan, who had two sons, Thomas and Nicholas, the very names required by the problem before us.

There is also Thomas Sharpe, rector of Beckley, co. Sussex, ordained priest in 1612 by William Barlow, Bishop of Lincoln, thus touching upon the county of the Dowses and Randes. This Thomas Sharpe came of a Kent family and of him is told the following:

“Leaving Arundel thus in the custody of the London apprentices, let us now consider the state of the eastern part of the county during this period, so as to explain the vexations endured by the Rector of Beckley, a small parish near Northiam, on the border of Sussex towards Kent. This clerical victim was Thomas Sharpe, the younger son of John Sharpe, of Northiam, justice of the peace, and grandson of Richard Sharpe of Benenden, in Kent, who had settled in Sussex after his marriage with Alice, daughter of Nicholas Tufton of Northiam. The living of Beckley, which had been anciently appropriated to Battle Abbey, was at this time in the patronage of the Montagues, valued in the king’s books at £ 11. 6s. 8d., and this small preferment had been held by him many years, for his name appears in the ‘rating of arms and furniture, March 11, 1612; Beckley, Mr. Thomas Sharpe, parson, a musket furnished.’ The worthy clergyman had probably led a quiet loyal life, never dreaming that it would become a crime to love his king or reverence his own archbishop, until, after full thirty years of remote peacefulness, he was suddenly startled by some of those ‘horrid shapes and shrieks and sights unholy,’ the bare apprehension of which had extorted from many Parliamentarians the homage to peace before referred to. In his letter to Mr. Newton of Lewes, detailing his personal grievances, occurrences some months earlier are alluded to, and as it is dated ‘Feb. 3,’ we may safely add 1643 as that of the year, both as coinciding with other vexations then inflicted upon Sussex, and because the old clergyman did not long survive the harassing demands made upon him, though he yet lived long enough to see his aged wife’s augury realized, ‘that she should carry her hurt to the grave.’ They were both buried at Beckley; Anne, his wife, on August 22, and he, three months after, Nov. 21, 1643.

“To the right worshipfull his respected freinde William Newton, Esq., at his house near Lewes, present these,

‘Right worshipfull, — I have hearde so much good of you by this bearer, how forward and ready you have alwayes bene, upon every occasion, to reach forth youre helping hande for the reliefe of such as are oppressed, as hath emboldened me (though a meere stranger and altogether unknown of you) to flee for shelter to you. It hath bene my great unhappines to fall of late into the deepe displeasure of Collonell Morley. The occasion was this: About a twelvemonth since, there were certaine propositions sent down from the Parliament concerning the raying and maintayning of certaine forces for the defence of the countrie, with directions to summon in the freeholders at Battel before the commissioneres therein nominated, to shew their opinions thereof; whither I went in the simplicity of my hart (God knowes) speaking plainely and modestly what I thought of the businesse, and being pressed thereunto, gave also the reasons of my opinion, never suspecting it woulde be imputed as a crime to any man, to have dissented. This gayned me the repute of the greatest Anti-parliament man in these parts, as I have hearde the Collonell himselfe shoulde say of me. Hereupon, about the latter ende of May last, by virtue of a warrant from the Collonell, I was seized on by Captaine Cockeram, and was to be brought (to) the Collonell’s quarters at Lewes. It was both unseasonable for time and weather, when the Captaine came to me, and besides, the fast was neere at hande, wherefore I desired respite till the fast was over, promising then to appeare, which through his favour I obtayned. On the next day after the fast, I tooke my journey thitherwardes, but upon the way had certaine intelligence that the Collonell was removed further to Arundell, or thereabouts, so that in going to Lewes, I shoulde but loose my labour. This moved me, being weary, to turne in to a freindee house five miles short of Lewes, whence I sent a messenger presently to knowe the certainty, who brought me worde that the Collonell was removed. I sent another likewise to Mr. Herbert Hay, of Gline, to acquaint him with my businesse, who brought me this answeare, that he thought I might return home, till he hearde farther from the Collonell, whose return to Lewes was uncertaine, and yet, being not thus satisfied, I roade to Captaine Temple and made my case knowne to him, who tolde me that my dissenting from the propositions at Battel was not the businesse, but to give or lende monyes to the Parliament. Whereupon, (though I had given before as much as other ministers of like estate had done) yet I tolde hime I would doe as he shoulde thinke fitt, desiring hime to make my peace with the Collonel, which he promised me effectually to performe, and I verily believe he did so. Upon the 11th of June following, comes one of Captaine Cockeram's troopers into my house, without either knocking or calling, and enquires of one of my maide servants whether I was within, whereunto, shee not answering, as being abashed at the sterne lookes of one rushing in so rudely upon them, he passed through that room into another, and so into a thirde, where he founde me with one of my nephewes, who was come out of Kent to see me, and a brother-in-law of his was at the time also with me, telling me that his captaine had sent him to require me to be within, for he must speake with me, and was harde by coming on to me; and so he turned about, going the same way that he came, as if he had meant to have returned to his captain. I followed him, gently inquiring whether he knewe what the businesse was. He answered, because I came not to Lewes according to my promise. I replied, that I hearde by the way, that the Collonell was not there, and had sent a messenger to knowe it certainly, purposing to have repayred to him if he had not bene removed. With this and the like communication, he charging me with breach of promise, and I affirming the contrary, he came to the doore, where, insteade of going out, he only looked out, where spying a brother of his, a trooper likewise, yet not sent by the captaine, he called him in to him: whereat I confesse I was much troubled, suspecting least he might call in so many in like manner, as might rifle my house, before I shoulde come to speake with the captaine, to prevent which, and for no other intent (as God is my witsse) I stepped to the doore, shut it and bolted it. Whereupon they both drew their swords, and without so much as speaking one worde that I hearde, made at me, that had nothings in my hands to defend myself with, and one of them had a full blow at me, before I coulde gett within him, wherewith he brake a broade new sworde upon the outside of my legg against my knee, so as it was God's great mercy, that I was not slaine or maymed for ever, he stricking again with that part of his sworde which was left, but with the helpe of one of my nephewes, that [was] unarmed also as myselfe, I escaped the mischeife he intended me; the other of my nephewes being not come into the roome before, but ready to enter, seeing my danger, ranne suddenly backe, and catching a sworde that was at hande, rescued me from the danger of the trooper behind me; at last we having our handes together with theirs upon their weapons, they were perswaded quietly to departe out of the house into the streete, where my nephewes left them attending the comming of their fellowes, and I, having shutt the doores, abode in my house. It was not long but the captaine with his whole troope came and seeing one of their company bloody, by a light hurt of his hande in taking holde of my nephewes sworde, they came all riding as furiously into my close, as if they had bene to assault their enemy; where being alighted, they call in a great rage to have the doores opened, bouncing and laying on as if they had meant to have beaten downe the house upon us, as indeede they threat'ned to doe unlesse we opened. My wife and family being marveyulously affrighted by their violent raging and beating on the doores, and shooting diveres bulletts into the house amongst us, I stepped to the windowe, hoping by gentle speech to have pacified their fury, before I opened to them, but I could not be heard, more I entreated, the more clamourous and outrageous they were, crying, 'open, open the doores,' which I detracting, and perhaps denying to doe till they would heare me speake in mine own defence, they presently brake downe all the glasse they could come at, brake open two doores, and layed on upon the thirde, which I perceaved they would also force, and did myselve open unto them, Whereat they rushing in, I had at the least 20 drawne swordes and pollaxes lifted up at me, and had certainly been slaine, if the captaine and one other had [not] safeguarded my heade with their swordes, and restrayned the fury of the rest. It were endelesse to write all how they rifled my house, the meaner sort pilfering what they coulde closely lay handes on, breaking divers vessels, cutting in sunder divers skaines of fine linnen yarne, driving my maide servants up and downe all the roomes of my house, and one of them most uncivilly thrusting my wife, being a weake woman, and aged 60 years, that she fell backwarde against the stayres, and caught such hurt, as for some weeks she was scarce able to turne herself in her bed, and is yet so payned with it at times, that shee feares that shee shall carry it to her grave. In fine, they haled me out of my house, carryed me away with them to Rye in the [most] despitefull manner, as if I had been the vilest caitiffe alive; where I was intertained with as much scorne as the rude schismaticall people coulde put upon me, without respect of my quality or calling, and he, that had done me the first and most injury, voyced abroad that I and a couple more assaulted them, and would have slaine them, which when I contradicted, appealing to his owne conscience that he vilely slandered me, and saying perhaps that the Parliament (which he bare himself much upon) woulde as I hoped right me, he replied that the Parliament woulde believe him before me. To conclude, the captaine kept me prisoner, till he had compelled me to give security for £120 to the Parliament, and £20 to those two troupers that came first to me, for no other cause that I can conceave, then for that I did not stande still to be cutt in pieces by them: so he doubled the sum which the collonell had sett upon me, and besides, the dammage which I sustayned by the pilferings, and other spoile made by the rude company was little less than £20 more. Thus, worthy sir, I have geven you the sad relation of my first cruel and undeserved sufferings, wherein (I protest before God) I have not wittingly swarved in the least measure from the truth. Now besides all this (which I was resolved to have swallowed in silence) upon Sunday last, being the 28th of Jan'y, I was, a little before church time in the morning, seized on againe, and carryed downe to Rye, where Capt. Kenn demanded of me £100 more, by vertue of a warrant from Colonell Morley and other commissioners, which I must pay downe presently, or els be carryed away to Arundell. I pleaded that I had it not, as indeede I had not, my meanes not being greate, and myselfe knowne to be a man not beforehand with the world, but spending freely my whole yearely income in hospitalitye amongst my neighbours, and in workes of charity, and besides I still owed a great part of what was before drawne from me, but all that I coulde say woulde avayle me nothing, I must pay it forthwith, he had no power to alter the summe, which putt me into a great straight. At lenght, with much importunity I obtained, that, paying down £40, I should, upon security geven, have a month's day for the payment of the rest. I procured £40 with great difficulty, but how to compasse the rest I know not. All that little stocke, which I have left me will hardely pay what I have now and did before borrow for these two businesses. Besides, I owe £500, most of it being orphans goods intrusted into my hands, which I shoulde in time have waded out of, if these unhappy businesses had not fallen upon me. I perceave the Collonell is strangely incensed against me, by whose meanes especially, I verely thincke I knowe, even his, that hath most of all wronged me. I have lived for the space of 30 yeares last past in good repute with all men for the most sort, especially with those of the better sort, and still do with all moderate men that knowe me: only my zealous defending and maintayning and using the booke of common prayer hath drawn the envy of all the schismatickes of the country round about upon me, who traduce me as a malignant, a popish priest, and invent and spreade abroad all manner of horrible untruths against me, as an enemye to and detractory from the Parliament. Whereas all my parishe can beare witnesse with me how constantly I make mention of the two honourable houses, and earnestly supplicate the divine majesty for them in my publicke devotions, and I dare boldly challenge the most malicious of my secrete backbiting adversaryes, to prove it, if they can, that I am any wayes popish, heretical, or seditious in my doctrines, or scandalous in my life and conversation, whether I have defrauded any man, or oppressed any by unjust suites and molestations; and I wil be willing to undergo any censure for the first, and be bound to make double satisfaction for the second. Why then do I suffer, and suffer even unto utter ruine? but I am a foole to justifye myselfe; lett this plea obtaine my pardon, that the malitious calumnies of wicked whisperers have extorted it from me. I have abused your patience too long, I will shutt up all with this short request, that you woulde be pleased to interpose for me, to mollify the Collonell's exasperated minde against me, to obtaine, if it may be, a mitigation of this heavy ruining imposition, that I may not be forced to pay more than is already payed, which if I be compelled to doe, I shall have neither a bedd to lye upon, nor breade to putt into my mouth. Or if the remainder of my fine may not be remitted, yet at least that I may have till Michaelmas next for the payment of it; which if I may by your mediation obtaine, you shall oblige your poore petitioner to be a dayly oratour at the throne of grace for all manner of prosperity, with increase of grace to you here, and fulnesse of glory hereafter.

So prayeth your humble Supplyant,
THO. SHARPE."

The names Thomas and Nicholas are too common to allow of much conjecture, and even the suffering for religion's sake was at that time too widespread to offer the needed means of identifying the sufferer beyond any doubt. With these suggested lines of investigation the subject may be left to the future.

Such speculations in genealogy lead one far and yet safely, if there is back of them a reasonable basis of fact. With a renewal of the publishing activities of English local historical societies the stream of available records will rise to its former height and in the resulting mass of data the one or more links necessary to form a perfect chain of evidence may be discovered. In the meantime so little is known of the English history of those who first came to Plymouth and Massachusetts-Bay that every certainty becomes welcome. Intensive research will develop the facts which can be accepted and on those facts may be based a conjecture, carefully guarded from excess and useful to show the possible lines that promise the best results. It is such lines as have been suggested.

In Thomas Fuller's Worthies of England is to be found mention of an earlier Holbeche — Lawrence — a monk, who had also taken the name of his place of birth. What Fuller says is curious and characteristic of the writer, whose antiquarian tastes had inspired him to the labor of compiling the Worthies, though the volumes were not printed during his life. He died, it is said, crying out "for his pen and ink to the last." Of Lawrence Holbeck he wrote: "Lawrence Holebeck was born, saith my Author [Bale], apud Girvios; that is amongst the Fenlanders. I confess, such people with their stilts do stride over much ground, the parcells of several Shires, Norfolk, Suffolk, Cambridg, Huntington, Northampton, Lincolnshire. But I have fixed him right in this County [Lincolnshire], where Holebeck is not far from Crowland in Holland.

"He was bred a Monk in the Abby of Ramsay, and was very well skilled in the Hebrew tongue, according to the rate of that age: for the Englishmen were so great strangers in that language, that even the Priests amongst them, in the Reign of King Henry the Eighth, as Erasmus reporteth, Isti quicquid non intelligunt, Hebraicum vocant, 'counted all things Hebrew, which they did not understand;' and so they reputed a tablet which he wrote up in Walsingham in great Roman letters, out of the rode of common cognizance. Holebeck made an Hebrew Dictionary, which was counted very exact according to those days. I Pits doth heavily complaine of Robert Wakefield, (the first Hebrew Professor in Cambridg) that he purloined this Dictionary to his private use; . . . This Lawrence died anno Domini 1410." *

TATHWELL, LITTLE CARLTON, AND LEGBOURNE

County Lincoln, England

THE ancestors of that Lawrence Dowse who seems, in all probability, to be identical with Lawrence Dowse, early emigrant to Boston (see p. 14), were living in Lincolnshire, England, as early as 1361. The direct line has only been traced to John Dowse, of Tathwell, co: Lincoln, who died in the summer of 1541, making William Dowse and Thomas Dowse of Gayton his executors. They were probably his brothers and, it is possible, that John himself was born at Gayton. It is also probable that Richard Dowse of Frieston, who states that he was born in Gayton, was another brother (p. 29).

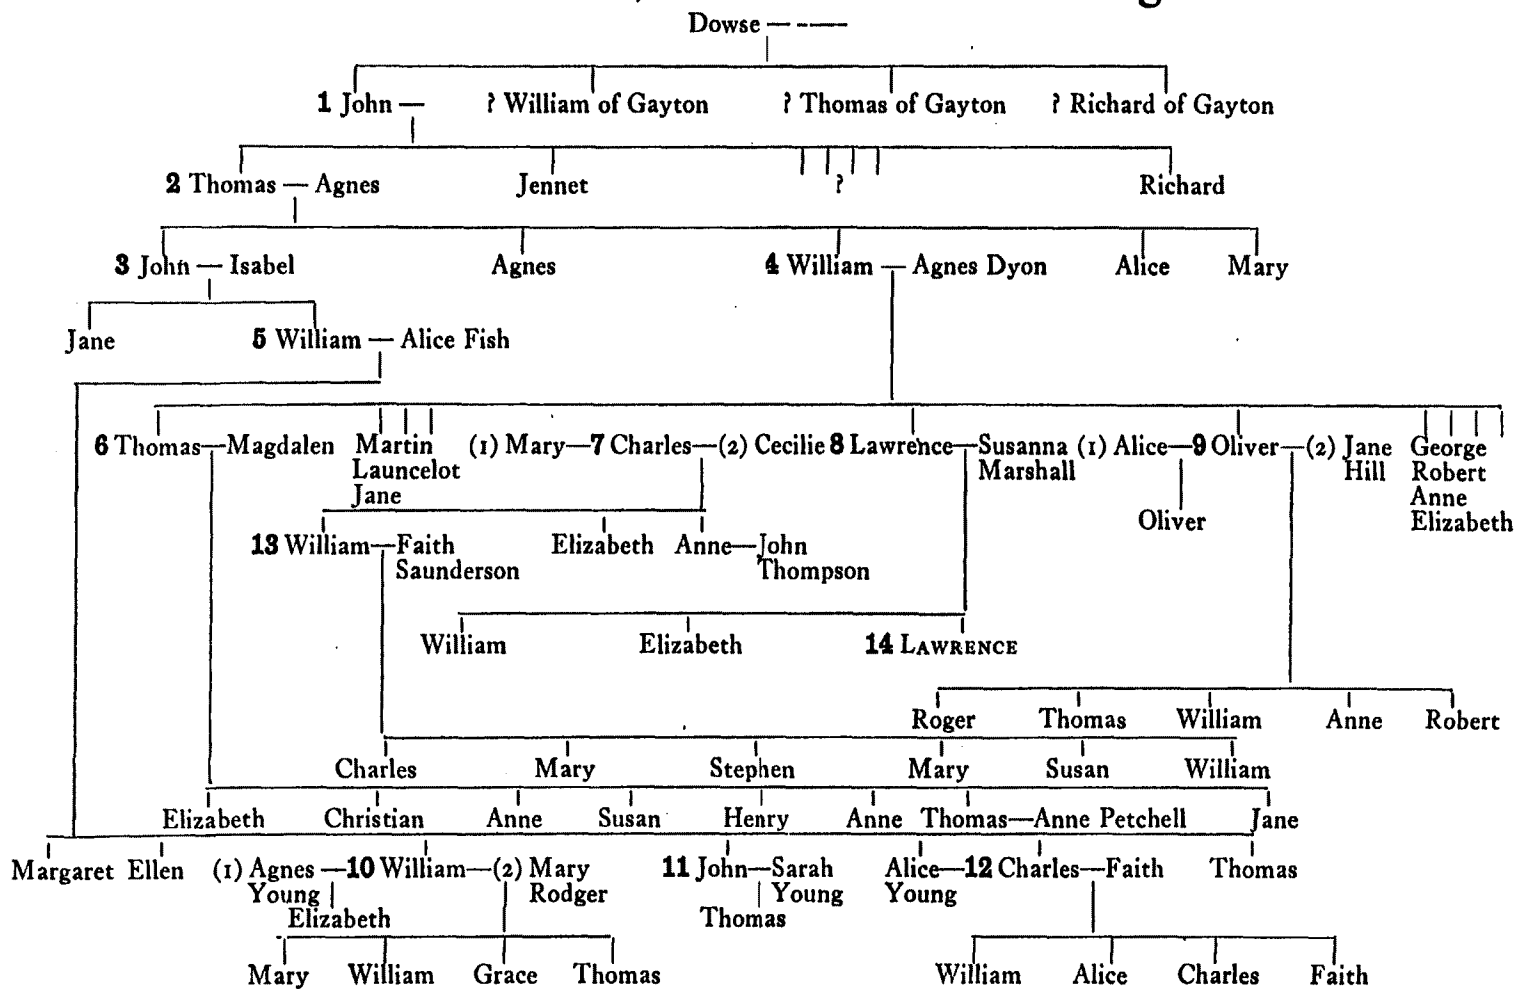

1. JOHN DOWSSE of Taythwell dated his will 22 July, 1541. He directs that he be buried in Taythwell and gives to the mother Church of Lincoln, 4d; to the holy sacrament as an oblation in the Church of Taythwell 12d; all goods to be equally divided between my six youngest children not married; eldest son Thomas Dowse, and my son Richard, one of the six aforesaid executors. Witnesses: William Dowse of Gayton and Thomas Dowse of the same, and Richard Smyth, vicar of Taythwell.

Proved 22 Aug. 1541, by Thomas Dowse, one of the executors, power reserved for granting like probate to Richard Dowse, co-executor, now in his infancy. (Consistory of Lincoln Wills, vol. for 1541, fol. 183.)

The will of Isabell Barker of Legbourne, widow, dated 1 Sept. 1618, although giving most of her estate to her relatives named Raithby, gave a small bequest to Magdalin, wife of Thomas Dowse (12d.) and to his daughters Susan and Anne 4s. each. (Consistory of Lincoln, vol. for 1618, part 1, no. 46.)

Thomas Dowse is mentioned in the will of his maternal grandmother, Jane Dyon, in 1570 (p. 22), in the rental roll of the Manor of Legbourne in 1608 and in the will of the above Isabell Barker. He was a carpenter and probably resided at Legbourne all his life.

Charles Dowse was made a supervisor of his will by his brother Lawrence in 1616; he witnessed the will of George Townend of Legbourne, yeoman, 12 Mar. 1613-4. His widow is mentioned in the will of James Dion of Legborne, 8 Dec. 1628.

8. LAWRENCE⁴ DOWSE (WILLIAM³, THOMAS², JOHN¹), was born in Little Carlton, and baptised there, 8 Feb. 1572-3, buried in Legbourne, 16 Nov. 1616; married at Legbourne, 24 May, 1604, SUSANNA MARSHALL, born probably about 1580, a posthumous daughter of JOHN and JOAN MARSHALL and sister to Francis Marshall of Legbourne.

The will of Frauncis Marshall of Legborne, co. Lincoln, dated 22 Nov. 1591. To my brother Oliver Marshall 2 oxen which I have at Haugham. To Josias Jonson a fillie. To Suzan Marshall my cow which Thomas Neave hath of mine, and her rent for the whole year which Neave is to pay, and the part of my sister Elizabeth her portion which was due me by her death, and 10s. which my father Jonsonne oweth me. To Marie Marshall, my sister, a cow which Richard North hath, and 20s. which my uncle Thomas Cooke of Fulstow oweth me. To Alice Jonson 2 ewes. To Oliver Marshall a hogge sheepe and a wether. To Marie Marshall a hogge sheepe and a wether. All residue to father-in-law Robert Jonsonne sole executor. Supervisor, William Ribie. Witnesses: Thomas Neave, Nicholas Marshall, Richard Rooke. Proved 4 Apr. 1592. (Consistory of Lincoln, vol. for 1592, fol. 129.)

The two wills show that the children were young at John Marshall's death, and that the mother Joan married again, Robert Jonson. Oliver Marshall married Francis, daughter of Charles and Elizabeth Hunt, after 1596 and had at least two living children in 1611. So he was born about 1574 and, as John Marshall probably named his children in the order of their ages, Susanna might have been a posthumous child. In his will, Francis gives her his whole share of his sister Elizabeth's estate, as if he were trying to make up the bequest that she failed to receive from their father. The sister Alice, evidently the eldest child, probably married Josias Jonson, who may have also been her step-brother. Joan, whose maiden name seems to have been Cooke, may have been connected with that Cooke family that married into the Dyon family (p. 20); the names are certainly suggestive.

After the death of Lawrence Dowse, his widow Susanna (Marshall) Dowse married at Legbourne, 29 June 1617, Charles Fairbanks. He may have been the son of Samuell Fayrebank of Grimoldby, co: Lincoln, yeoman who bequeaths in his will, dated 18 Nov. 1614:

To wife Elizabeth Fayrebanke household stuff and furniture, etc., and an annuity of 6/8. To daughter Dorothy Fayrebanke a bed, etc. Residue equally divided between sons Richard Fayrebanke and Charles Fayrebanke and daughter Dorothy Fayrebanke. Son Charles Fayrebanke sole executor. Supervisor, John Casshe, parson of Grimoldby. Witnesses: John Casshe, Richard Winter. Proved at Lincoln, 29 Nov. 1614, by the Executor. (Consistory Court Lincoln, vol. for 1614, part 2, fol. 2.)

By her second husband, Charles Fairbanks, Susanna had a son Samuel Fairbanks, baptised at Legbourne, 15 Mar. 1617-8, buried there 26 Mar. 1618. Apparently they removed to Boston, Lincoln about 1620, where Richard Fairbanks,* presumably the brother of Charles, had been living, and where Charles Fairbanks was buried on 9 May 1655. Susanna having died, he married a widow, Mary Bird, who survived him and was buried in Boston, 22 June 1656. It is probable that the Dowse children went to Boston with their mother and that Lawrence Dowse came to America with some of the many emigrants from that town.

Charles Fairbanks of Boston, made his will 30 Apr. 1665.

He bequeaths to wife Mary all household goods now in my dwelling house which are my own and which were my wifes. To said wife a mare and after her death to revert to her son Peter Bird. I have given bond to pay to Elizabeth Bird £20 at 21 or marriage or at my decease; to secure the same my son Samuel is to deliver to my wife 4 cows, a bond due me from Robert Tompson, a bond due me from William Kinge, miller, and sheep I bought at Wrangle. To son Samuel all my leases, a mare, and farm goods and products, etc. To son-in-law, William Banton, a horse, and to each of his three children, a lamb, etc. To my daughter Jane Frodingham 3 lambs, etc., and to her daughter Susan a lamb, etc. To Mary, the wife of my son Samuel, a lamb, etc. To Elizabeth Stedman a brown cow now in the possession of her father Thomas Stedman. To John Bird and to Elizabeth Bird his sister, a lamb each, etc. My son Samuel, at the appraisement of my goods, to deliver above bequests, if the legatees be there to demand them, that my wife, whom I make executrix, be not troubled therewith. Witnesses: Nicholas Brandon, William Banton, Thomas Cosen. Proved by the widow Mary Fairbanks, 6 Sept., 1655. (P. C. C. 195 Aylett.)

* Richard Fairbanks came to Boston, New England, in the Griffin in 1633, with John Cotton and Thomas Leverett — all from Boston, co. Lincoln.

Lawrence Dowse is mentioned in the following two wills, and as he specifically mentions the bequest that his daughter Elizabeth's "godmother Elizabeth Hunte" gave her there can be no doubt that Lawrence⁴ Dowse is meant.

The will of Charles Hunte of Legborne, co: Lincoln, husbandman, dated 18 June 1596. To daughter Cicilye Carter 12*d.* To daughter Anne Williams 12*d.* To daughter Joane Browen 12*d.* To daughter Francis Hunte 40*s.* at marriage. To Lawrence Dowse my servante 12*d.* All residue to my wife Elizabeth, she to be executrix. Supervisor, John Harnes of Legborne. (No witnesses.) Proved 9 Oct. 1596 by executrix. (Consistory of Lincoln Wills, vol. for 1596, fol. 140.)

The will of Elizabeth Hunte, widow, undated. To be buried in the churchyard of Legborne. To Lawrence Dowse a bill of 40*s.* that William dothe owe unto me upon that bill. To Thomas Readhead 6*d.* To Elizabeth Sheene 6*d.* All residue to my daughter Francis Marshall. My son-in-law Oliver Marshall to be executor. Witnesses: Thomas Beeston, William Beeston, John Dion, Oliver Marshall. Proved 28 Oct. 1611 by executor. (Consistory of Lincoln Wills, vol. for 1611, fol. 52.)

14. LAWRENCE⁵ DOWSE (LAWRENCE⁴, WILLIAM³, THOMAS², JOHN¹), was baptised in Legbourne, co: Lincoln, 6 June 1613, mentioned in his father's will in 1616. That he was the emigrant to America is beyond reasonable doubt. Much research in England shows no trace of this Lawrence Dowse there later than the migration. It is certain that Lawrence was born in 1613, that Lawrence of Legbourne disappears from the Legbourne Registers, neither marrying, baptising children, nor dying there; nor is he to be found in the 60,000 names of males over eighteen years old in about six hundred of the seven hundred parishes of Lincolnshire in 1642, given in the "Protestation Roll"; and finally, that his step-father Charles Fairbanks and his mother removed before 1627 from the little inland village of Legbourne to the important port of Boston whence many emigrants went to New England.

As the time of his father's removal from Tathwell to Bamburgh is not known, it is impossible to state where he was born, and since the date of his own removal to Little Carlton is equally uncertain, the place of birth of his children is also unknown. He was a lawyer and county justice and entered his pedigree in the Visitation of 1562.

She married after his death, 27 July 1614, ROBERT TOWNSEND.

John Dyon is mentioned in the will of his grandfather's cousin, John Dyon, Esq., in 1675, at which time he must have been about three years old. With John Dyon, Esq., the elder line from Robert¹ of Tathwell ceased, and this little John held the right of primogeniture, as he was the eldest son of the eldest son of Robert, the next youngest brother of John Dyon, Esquire. Dowse

of

FRIESTON AND BOSTON

COUNTY LINCOLN

of

FRIESTON AND BOSTON

County Lincoln

THE earliest ancestor to which the Dowse family of Frieston has been traced, is,

1. RICHARD DOWSE, born in Gayton about 1490, and probably a brother of John Dowse of Tathwell, and William and Thomas of Gayton (p. 3). The abstract of his will furnished is very scanty and carelessly done. In it he mentions only two children, but the context of other wills in the Frieston family shows that there were other children, probably by the second wife. At the time of his death in 1558, his widow was ALICE and she was living in 1571, but probably had died by 1586. The name of his first wife is unknown; that he had two is evident from the will of his son John a year later, and it is quite certain that by this first wife he had only this son John and a daughter.

Richard Dowse of Freston in the parts of Holland, co: Lincoln, yeoman, made his will 22 Dec. 1558. To be buried at Freston. To the high altar there 3*s.* 4*d.* To the church of Gayton where I was born, 3*s.* 4*d.* To Alice my wife. To John Dowse my son and Cassandra his wife. To Peter Romforth my son-in-law. To servants, bequests of farm stock. (Note appended by copyist; "This does not seem of interest, can give fuller abstract if required.") (P. C. C. Welles 30.)

Second Generation

2. JOHN² DOWSE (RICHARD¹), was probably born in Frieston, Lincoln, about 1523 and died there before 5 Nov. 1559; married CASSANDRA ——. It seems probable that after his death she may have married a Tuckney of Kirton. John Dowse had a daughter, probably posthumous, who married Anthony Hawkrige or Hawkredd. His "sister Hawkrige" is mentioned by Richard, son of John, in 1599, and at that time Anthony Hawkredd had a wife Isabel, who is said to have been a sister of William Tuckney of Kirton and this is substantiated somewhat in Anthony Hawkredd's will in which he makes Anthonie Tuckney of Cambridge a supervisor. The only way to account for the evidence is to assume that Isabel (Dowse) Hawkredd was a half-sister of William Tuckney. The fact that John Dowse had a daughter who married Hawkrige is given also in a pedigree of Dowse of Frieston. (Larken mss. vol. v, p. 652.)

The will of John Dowce of Frieston in 1559. To be buried at Freston. To Richard Bowles of Freston, esq. for tithes forgot, 6*d.* To wife Cassander 5 milch kine and other stock. To John Dowce my son stock and spoons, etc. To cousin Anthony Claymond. To Peter Romford 10*s.* Bequests to Thos. Browne, Adlard Claymond, Thomas Dowce, my servant, to Robert Dowce, my servant, Robert Dowce servant to Peter Romford, Thomas Hynde, Arthur Martyn, Cassander Romford, Katherine Dayle, Joan Lambarde. Wife Cassander and brother-in-law Peter Romford to be executors. Witnesses: Richard Messenger, vicar: Will. Sybsey: John Jackson; Alyn Tayler. Proved 5 Nov. 1559. (P. C. C. Chayney 51.)

Chancery suit, Dowse vs. Hawcred. (D-2-38, Temp. Jas. I.)

2 May, 1604, Thos. Dowse of Freston, co: Lincoln, Yeoman, complained that 17 years since, his father Thomas Dowce willed complainant £120 at 21, made his wife Beatrice executrix, and Richard Dowce of Freston, gent, supervisor and guardian of complainant. When complainant came of age 6½ years ago, said Richard Dowce paid him £60 on account of his legacy and gave a bond of £120 to pay the remaining £60 before Michaelmas then following. Shortly after said Richard Dowce made a will appointing Anthony Hawcred of Boston and John Wright of Tattershall executors, and soon died. Richard Dowce, son of said Richard and apprentice to said Hawcred, got the bond from said complainant and gave it to said Hawcred, agreeing to deed certain lands to complainant for same, but instead deeded them to his elder brother Francis Dowce, gent.

Complainant can not get the remainder of his legacy either from Francis Dowce, Richard Dowce, Anthony Hawkred, or John Wright.

CHILD:

- i. THOMAS, b. Dec. 1576, mentioned 1599, 1601, and 1604.

4. ROBERT² DOWSE (RICHARD¹), was probably born in Frieston, Lincoln, between 1530 and 1540, and died in Fishtoft about 1601. He apparently left only one son, although he had two daughters living in 1586. (A ROBERT DOWSE married in Boston 2 Aug. 1584, ESABEL LEAKE.)

Robert Dowse of Fishtoft made his will in 1601. To Thomas Dowse of Frieston 20s. To Margaret Simpson, my kinswoman. To Katharine Clay my kinswoman. To Rachel Ingram my kinswoman. To John Dowse my kinsman. To Thomas Dowse and John Dowse the younger, sons of John Dowse my brother. To William Dowse, my son. (1601, 2 : 108.)

- ii. EME, living in 1586, but probably deceased in 1601.

Third Generation

6. RICHARD³ DOWSE (JOHN², RICHARD¹), was probably born in Frieston, Lincoln, about 1545 and died there in 1599. He married at Boston, 6 May 1566, AGNES CLAYMOND, daughter of ANTHONY and JOAN CLAYMOND of Skirbeck and Boston. Anthony Claymond * was mayor of Boston in 1565. Since John, the father of Richard Dowse, mentions "cousin Anthony Claymond" and "Adlard Claymond," in his will in 1559, it is evident that Richard Dowse and Agnes Claymond were relatives. This Claymond family was early of Frampton and Wyberton and was armorial. William Wikynson alias Jackson of Wyberton gives a bequest to Roger Clamond and makes "master phylip Chaymond gentylman" supervisor of his will in 1527, "in the parish of Algarkyrk." John Dowse mentions in his will in 1559 "lands . . . in Fosdick and Alderchurch which descended to me after the death of my mother." It is quite possible that John Dowse's mother was a Claymond and a sister of Adlard Claymond, the father of Anthony. It is also possible that her name was Dorothy.

Lincolnshire Church Notes, 1 : 158. gives; "Ricus Dawse. — Freston Arg. 3 Hurtes betwe. 7 crosses botony fitchy G. † Sed sunt arma Clement uxoris ut dicitur."

Richard Dowse was one of the principal landowners in Frieston at the end of the 16th Century, being assessed at £8 to the subsidy of 1591.

Apparently Richard Dowse made two wills, one, according to

* Claymond and Clement on Boston Register:

† A foot-note calls attention to the fact that these arms are different from the Clement arms as usually given. Burke gives the arms of Claymond as, "Ar. three hurts betw. 6 crossslets fitchy gu." The arms of Roger Claymond of Wyberton, given in Lincolnshire Pedigrees (Gules, three roses argent) are quite different from these two which are similar. Roger Claymond's arms are similar to those credited by Burke to Clamond, "Ar. a chev. betw. 3 fleurs de lis gu."

the abstract sent, made 19 Dec. 1599, proved 18 Oct. 1599 (sic) in Lincoln before Thomas Randes commissioner; the other made 21 Sept. 1599, proved in the P. P. C. (42 Wallop) 12 June 1600. These two wills are almost identical in the abstracts, that of the one at Canterbury is much fuller. The following is the abstract of the one dated 21 Sept. 1599, with one addition from that of 19 Dec. 1599.

Richard Dowse of Freston, part of Holland, Linc. gent. To be buried in Freston Church. To Magdalen Westland my daughter a house, etc. To Henry Tindall (and his wife Katharine) his house for life. To Annas my wife 6 kine, other stock and houshold stuff. To son Richard two stooles "that was my father Clementes." To John Dowce, my brother. To Rebecca Dowse the wife of Anthony. Bequests to William Leake; George Wallis; my sister Hawcridge; Robert Megson; Thomas Dowce; * my sister Wright; Eliz. Sawer; Anne Dowce, daughter of Francis. Residue to John Wright and Anthony Hawkridge his brothers and exrs. Witnesses: Robert Megson, John Benn, James Clay, and Thomas Daye.

Lincoln, I. P. M. 42 Eliz. [1600]. Inq. taken at Boston after death of Richard Dowse of Freiston, gent. died seized of a messuage, mill and lands in Fishtofte, Fosdyke and Algarkirke. Francis Dowse, son and heir aged 33 years old.

The following case (Chancery Proceedings, Series 2, 224-32) seems to indicate that Richard Dowse's wife Agnes (Claymond) Dowse died before 1589 and that he had a second wife of the same first name.

[About 1589] Richard Dowce of Freiston, co: Lincoln, and Agnes his wife, late wife of Wm. Drope of Crofte, co. Linc. complain that said Drope by will gave to his brother Thos. Drope £60 to be paid in 2 years, and made said Agnes a residuary legatee and executrix, and directed if said Agnes remarried she should give bonds to said Thomas Drope to fulfill said will and the will of the father of said Wm. Drope. Said Thos. Drope made Richard Trewe and Wm. Greene his attorneys to receive said £60. Said Agnes paid them the £60 and they promised to give a receipt which they have not done, and they also stole from her certain evidences, among them a bond of £7. 6. 8, from one Robert Bentlie to said Wm. Drope. A summons is asked for said Trewe and Greene to answer.

* Son of Thomas² Dowse, whose guardian he had been.

8. ISABEL³ DOWSE (JOHN², RICHARD¹), was probably a posthumous child and born about 1560, since she is not mentioned in her father's will in 1559. She married about 1596, ANTHONY HAWKRIDGE or HAWKREDD of Boston, son of William Hawkredd, baptised in Boston, 3 Aug. 1561. She died in Boston, and was buried there 22 June 1614.

Anthony Hawkrige or Hawkredd, born about 1571, was mayor of Boston. He married (mar. lic. 24 July 1615) (2), Elizabeth (Hatcher) Ayscough, daughter of Thomas Hatcher of Careby and widow of Francis Ayscough of Thornton-le-Moor (d. about 1612). He died in Boston, 28 Apr. 1628. He made his will, 12 Aug. 1626.

- viii. SAMUEL HAWKREDD, bapt. 23 Dec. 1610; m. MARY —.
- ix. JOHN HAWKREDD, bapt. 12 June 1614, living 1628.

9. JOHN³ DOWSE, the elder (JOHN² the younger, RICHARD¹), was probably born in Frieston and after 1557 as he was a minor in 1587. He never married.

The will of John Dowse of Frieston, "singellman," Jan, 1611. To be buried in the churchyard of Frieston. 10. JOHN³ DOWSE, the younger (JOHN² the younger, RICHARD¹), was born in Frieston, probably about 1560-1570. It is impossible to say whether it was John the elder or John the younger who was the testator in 1611, but the wording of the will seems to point to its being John Dowse, the elder, and so that hypothesis has been adopted. John Dowse the younger's wife is unknown. He may be John Dowse of Leake (p. 43).

CHILDREN:

- i. RICHARD⁴.
- ii. JOHN.
- iii. ANN or AGNES.
- iv. KATHERINE.

Fourth Generation

11. FRANCIS⁴ DOWSE (RICHARD³, JOHN², RICHARD¹), was baptised in Boston, England, 20 Jan. 1566-7, and died in the winter of 1610-11, probably in Frieston; married 24 Oct. 1592, at Morton, ANNE THOROLD, daughter of RICHARD THOROLD of Morton by his wife JANE, daughter and heiress of Richard Coney of Morton, baptised 20 Jan. 1571-2, buried at Boston, Lincoln, 6 Mar. 1633-4.

Will of Francis Dowse of Frieston, gent., 10 Nov. 1610. To be buried in Freston Church. To John Therold of Morton, gent., and Thos. Therold of Cathorp [Caythorpe], Clerk, some writings obligatory. Witnesses: Richard Edward, clerk, Thomas Martin, Simon Horton. Proved 21 Feb. 1610. (1 : 504.)

The daughter Anne is not mentioned in this abstract, it is possible that the copyist omitted her, as she is mentioned in the pedigree, in the will of her grandfather, of her mother, and in her own marriage license.

Will of Ann Dowse of Boston, widow, made 28 Feb. 1633. To son Richard Dowse £18. To daughter Elizabeth Hume 40s. To daughter

- iii. ELIZABETH, b. about 1597; m. — HUME.
- iv. JANE, b. about 1599; m. — MATTHEWS.

12. ANTHONY⁴ DOWSE (RICHARD³, JOHN², RICHARD¹), was born about 1569 in Frieston; died after 1599; married at Boston, 29 June 1590 REBECCA TAYLOR, baptised at Boston, 17 Apr. 1571, daughter of Andrew Taylor of Boston (brewer, who died and left children and a widow, Agnes). Later Anthony and Rebecca Dowse sue for his property. There is no death record of Anthony or Rebecca, but it is possible that he is identical with an Anthony Dowse of Skirbeck whose will follows. There are children recorded on the Boston Registers which may be his grandchildren.

Anthony Dowse of Skirbeck, will, 21 Feb. 1612. To the poor of Skirbeck 2s. 6d. To Gartrude my wife all that she brought with her, etc. To son John Dowse, all my land and pasture upon condition that he pay to Anthony his brother £10 and to Anne Dowse my daughter, a bed, etc. Wife executrix. St. Botolph's Church, Boston, Lincolnshire

Anthony Dowse of Frieston had wife Rebecca in 1599, but it is evident that Gertrude was a second wife and not the mother of John and Anthony.

[From the Boston Parish Registers.]

John Dowse and Susanna Hudson, m. 1 May 1610. (Boston Parish Register.)

Anthony Douse of Boston, glover, aet. 26 and Suzan Dowse of Lincoln aet. 26, lic. 13 Feb. 1625. (St. Mark.) (Lincoln mar. lic.)

CHILDREN of Anthony Dowse of Boston, baptised there:

- i. REBECCA, bapt. 28 Jan. 1626.
- ii. Stillborn child, buried 28 Apr. 1628.
- iii. ANTHONY, bapt. 4 July 1629, buried 24 July 1629.
- iv. ANTHONY, bapt. 13 Feb. 1630-1.
- v. JOHN, bapt. 17 Sept. 1635, "of Anthony and Susan Dowse."

It seems extremely probable that these two men John and Anthony of Boston were the sons of Anthony Dowse who died in Skirbeck in 1613, and it is worthy of notice that Anthony of Boston named his eldest daughter Rebecca.

There is also recorded in the Boston Registers the family of a Robert Dowse:

- i. ANNE, bapt. 12 Sept. 1630.
- ii. MARIE, bapt. 8 Mar. 1631, buried 23 Jan. 1634-5.
- iii. ROBERT, bapt. 23 Mar. 1633.
- iv. JOHN, bapt. 21 July 1635, "of Robert and Judith."
- v. SAMUEL, bapt. 22 Apr. 1638, "of Robert and Elizabeth."

Robert Dowse, son of Richard and Agnes (or Anne) Dowse of Bennington, had sons John and Samuel in 1645-6. (p. 44.)

The wills following cannot be connected with the main line from the data at hand.

7 July 1600, ANN DOWCE of Frieston widow. To be buried in Freston Church. To sister Bingham at London, £5. To Peter Bartles, eldest son of said sister. To sister Burwelles children. To Richard Dowson [Dowse], my nephew. John Simpson of Brough my nephew. Residue to Willm. Wraye my brother and executor. Witnesses: Fras. Dowce, gent. and Robt. Megson. (1600, 191.)

LINDFORD

27 Dec. 1611, WILLIAM DOWSE of Lindford. To be buried in the church yard there. To Margaret Dowse, my daughter. To Peter Dowse my son. To George Dowse my son. To Marie Dowse, wife and executrix. Witnesses: John Freende, Richard Robinson, Nicholas Neeler, Peter Brittain, clerk. Proved 8 May 1612. (1612, 363.)

This William Dowse of Lindford may be father of Peter Dowse of Frieston (p. 41).

In the will of Thomas Dowse of Frieston in 1586, he speaks of Richard Dowse of Wrangle, which would lead one to think that the branch of the family in Wrangle were of kin to the Frieston Dowses.

The will of WILLIAM DOWSE of Wrangle, co. Lincoln, dated 25 Feb. 1587. To daughter Anne. Goods that were Isabel's. Daughter Grace. To daughter Audrey a cow given her by her grandmother. Richard Shingilton. John Gybson's children under age. James my man. Edward Dowsse. John Gybson. Wife Elizabeth executrix. Witnesses: Nicholas Francis, John Sallett, John Wylson. On Boston, Lincoln, records, unplaced in pedigree:

George Dowse buried 1 Apr. 1574.

And the following Dow records which are probably Dowse:

Isabel Dowe buried 30 Jan. 1562.

John Dowe buried 26 Mar. 1568-9.

Rachell Dowe buried 13 Mar. 1566-7.

Umphry Bate and Rebecca Dowe m. 18 Jan. 1561.

LEAKE

JOHN DOWSE died in Leake about 1640 and his will mentions his brother Thomas. His children living are Richard and Agnes. He leaves in hands of Thomas Tyndall a legacy for his son. It is possible that this John is identical with John³ Dowse the younger, (John², Richard) of Frieston who had in 1611 children, Richard, John, Ann or Agnes, and Katharine. (p. 39.)

3 Jan. 1638, John Dowse of Leake husbandman. To Richard Page, and Agnes his wife, and his children £10. To Richard Dowse, my son his wife and children £10 in hands of Thomas Tyndall. To Jane Page my grandchild. To Thomas Dowse my brother and his children 13s. 4d. Residue to William Freye, executor. Witnesses. Willm. Grymescroft, George Matthew. (1640, 268.)

The son, Richard Dowse, evidently died after the making of the above will but before its proving.

21 Mar. 1639. Richard Douce of Leake, husbandman. To wife Ann Douce the house I dwell in with 3 roods of ground under, 5 acres of pasture, after the death of my father John Douce. To son John Douce. To son Thomas Douce. To son Richard Douce. To daughter Grace Douce. Father Thomas Wakefield. Sister Page of Frisney. Wife Ann executor. Thomas Tindaile and Willm. Carden, supervisors. Witnesses George Dinley, Leonard —. (1640, 54.)

11 Mar. 1610. ROBERT DOUCE of Leake, husbandman. To be buried in the churchyard there. To Beatrice my wife all my goods whatsoever, she to be executrix. Witnesses: Thomas Fynne, Thomas Tawper, William Southe. Proved at Boston 11 Apr. 1611. (1611, 1, 208.)

ROGER DOWSE was buried in Boston in 1560. His widow AGNES married (2) Ralph Pell. He was presumably born about 1530 and had a sister Alice.

BENNINGTON AND SIBSEY

The data in hand on these two parishes show a line of Dowse in each and the men to whom the lines are traced, Richard Dowse of Bennington and Francis Dowse of Sibsey were apparently brothers.

1. RICHARD DOWSE, of Bennington died in 1624. His wife was named AGNES; she died in 1625 and it is probable that her native parish was Brington. Her father had died before her and her mother re-married to Richard Thompson.

He is mentioned in the wills of John Dowse of Frampton in 1653 and Richard Dowse of Sibsey in 1653. It is probable that Richard Dowse, of Bennington, father of this Richard was older than Francis of Sibsey, and if so this Richard in 1653 may be the representative of the elder branch.

BASSINGHAM

The family of Dowse of Bassingham of which only a very slight examination has been made, begins apparently with one ROBERT DOWSE, who was born approximately about 1490. WILLINGHAM AND HANTON

The Dowses of Willingham are probably as ancient a branch as any in Lincolnshire. ROBERT DOUCE of Wolynham is mentioned in 1380. (Calendar of Patent Rolls, 1361-4.) In South Willingham a message in the holding of Robert Douce is mentioned in 1524 (Lincoln Wills, 1 : 145) and in the will of Robert Ricker-
ing of Washingborough, he gives money to pray in Washingborough church for the "soulys off me Robert dowse and alson hys wyffe."
(Ibid., 180.)

It seems probable from the following wills that a Dowse of Willingham or Hainton had three sons, certainly George and Henry Dowse were brothers and it seems likely that Robert Dowse was another brother.

HAMPSHIRE AND WILTS

HAMPSHIRE AND WILTS

A BRANCH of the DOWSE family was early seated in Wiltshire on the border of Hampshire and owned land in both counties. One of the earliest mentions found in printed records of this family is one Walter Dowse who is mentioned in the I. P. M. of Thomas, Earl of Lancaster in 1327. (I. P. M. Wilts.) He is also mentioned in other estates as one of the vouchers for the truth of the statements in 1329 and 1332.

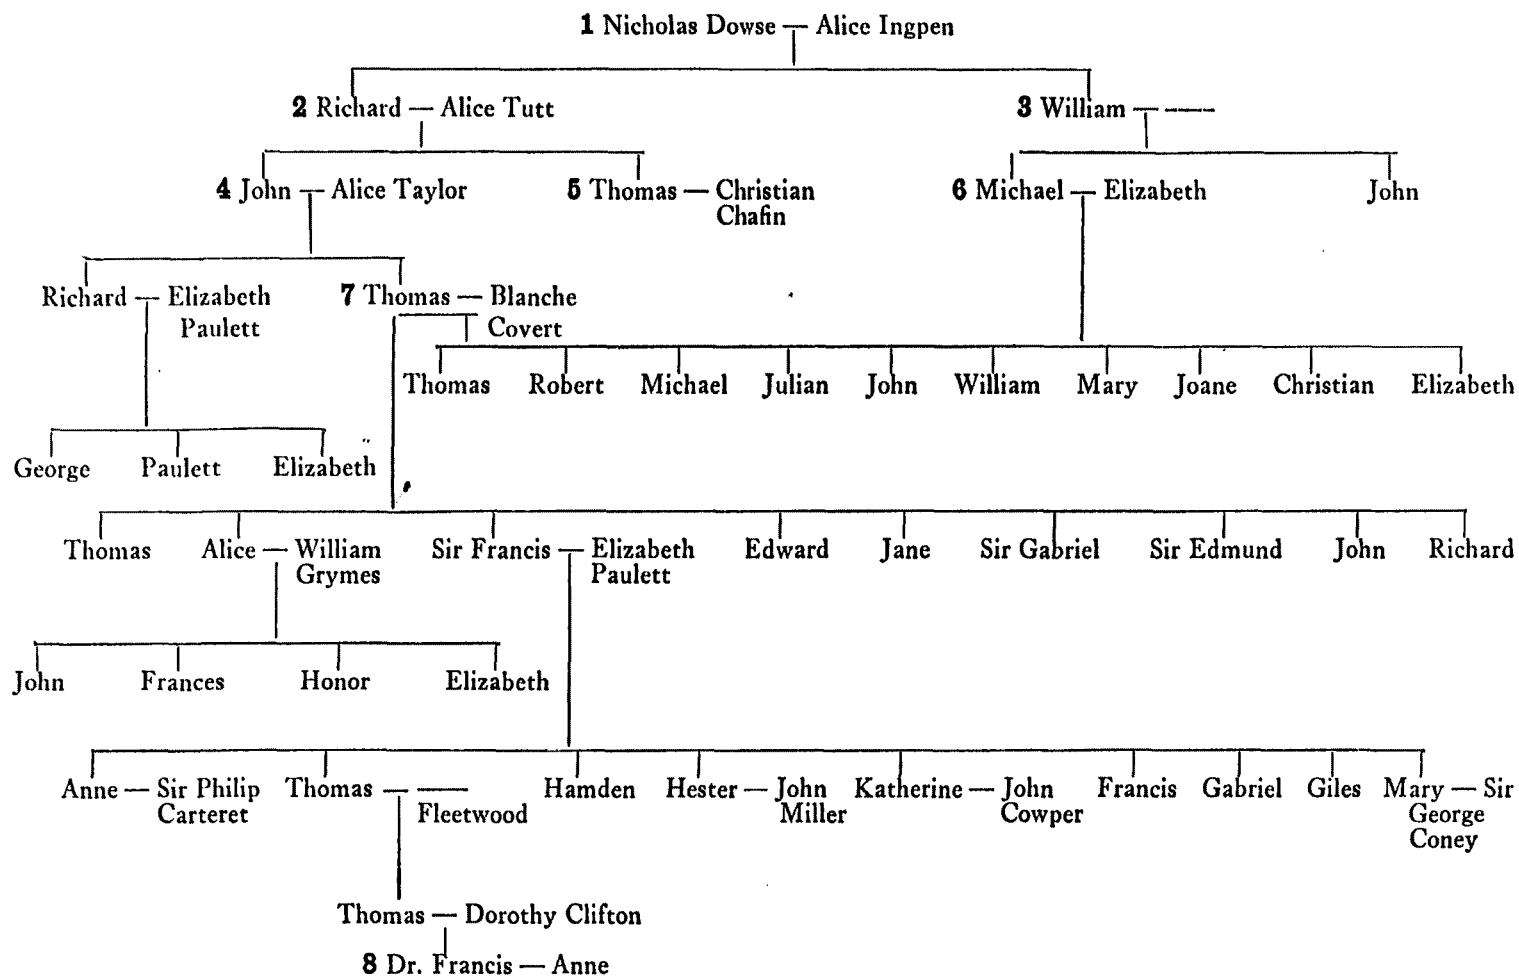

This family was of considerable size and spread into the surrounding parishes. Unfortunately the early records in many of these parishes have disappeared and the transcripts apparently have not been examined, nor have the wills of Hampshire and Wiltshire been subjected to any close examination. It seems as if none had been examined except those proved in the P. P. C. From the lack of record at hand it is impossible to make up exhaustive pedigrees. The ancestors of the Nether-Wallopp family have been worked out a little better than the others. This branch of the family bore arms: Or a chevron chequy argent and sable, between 3 greyhounds courant of the last. Crest: An heraldic tiger's head, per pale argent & or, horned and tufted sable.

1. NICHOLAS¹ DOWSE of "Hunsborne" (Hurstbourne Tarrant) co: Hants.* married ALICE INGPEN, daughter of — INGPEN of Gallaker, co. Hants., and had issue:

2. i. RICHARD², b. probably about 1480.
3. ii. WILLIAM, b. probably after 1482. He was probably the father of Michael and John Dowse.

* The county of Hampshire is called indiscriminately, Southampton, Southton, Southants, Hampshire and Hants.

Dowse of Hampshire and Wilts

NOTE. — Figures in heavy type refer to the number of the family in text.

2. RICHARD² DOWSE (NICHOLAS¹), was probably born about 1480, although, if he is identical with a Richard of that name living in Collingbourne Ducis, Wilts., in 1492, his birth undoubtedly occurred earlier. He married ALICE TUTT, daughter of GEORGE TUTT of co: Southampton and became possessed of Moorecourt in Southampton, which descended to his son John Dowse and grandson Richard Dowse.

CHILDREN:

4. i. JOHN³, b. about 1510; m. ALICE TAYLOR.
5. ii. THOMAS, b. about 1515; m. CHRISTIAN CHAFIN.

3. WILLIAM² DOWSE (NICHOLAS¹), may have been younger than his brother Richard. His name is given in the Visitation pedigrees, one of which was apparently filed by Sir Philip de Carteret and the other by William Grymes. It seems evident that Michael Dowse of Buttermere was near of kin to Thomas and John Dowse the sons of Richard. He probably was not a brother; since he mentions his brother John in 1586 and he apparently was too much the younger, but hardly young enough it would seem to be a nephew of theirs. It is quite possible that he was a cousin and a son of this William Dowse, and this supposition is borne out a little by the fact that Michael named a son William which name does not appear in the furnished records of the descendants of John. For lack therefore of any evidence to the contrary Michael is placed as a son of William Dowse.

6. i. MICHAEL³, b. about 1515 probably; m. ELIZABETH —.
- ii. JOHN, called brother by Michael in his will.

4. JOHN³ DOWSE (RICHARD², NICHOLAS¹), was born about 1510 probably, and died about 1558 in Moorecourte which he inherited from his father. He married ALICE TAYLOR, daughter of WILLIAM TAYLOR of Beaulieu, who died in Moorcourte about 1580.

Besides Moorcourte, he owned land in "More Malons" and the manors of Sparshott magna and Sparshott parva, in Romsey, Hants., and lands in West Wellowe, Wilts., and in Milton, Hants., etc. At the time of making his will his children were not of age, but in 1571 when Alice made her will the youngest son was a man with two children. It is he whom his uncle Thomas made his executor in 1562 and as he probably was of age then an approximate dating is obtained.

Will of John Dowse, 1559:

The xviii the November 1545 in xxxviiiith year of Henry VIIIth I John Dowce of Morecourte and More Malons in Countie of Southampton doe leave my discent in Fee to Richard Dowce my sonne and heyre in recompence of the Manor of Chilworth underwrytten which I have given unto Thomas my sonne and to his heyres males all and singular my II Manours of Sparshott magna and Sparshott parva in the parish of Rumse, Southants. If it happen both dye then to my brother Thomas Dowce and after his death to his children or if they dye before him he to dispose the said goodes amonge our Kynnsfolk and in such dedes of pitie and charitie as by hym shall be thought most best for our soules health. Probate granted 1558. (Somerset House, Welles 35.)

CHILDREN:

- i. RICHARD ⁴, b. about 1535, inherited Moorcourte, etc.; m. ELIZABETH dau. Lord THOMAS PAULETT, of Melplash, co. Dorset, 2nd son of William, Marquess of Winchester. Children: (1), GEORGE; (2), PAULETT; (3), ELIZABETH.
7. ii. THOMAS, b. about 1540; m. BLANCHE COVERT.

5. THOMAS ³ DOWSE (RICHARD ², NICHOLAS ¹), b. probably about 1515, died about 1562 without living issue, in Collingbourne Ducis, Wilts.; married CHRISTIAN CHAFIN, daughter of WILLIAM and AVIS (TYCHBONE) CHAFIN of Bulford, Wilts. She married (2), John Stumpe, and is said to have had three sons: Basil, James, and John. (Wiltshire Notes and Queries, viii : 532.)

It is stated that they matriculated at Lincoln College, Oxford, in 1575 and were aged 16, 18, and 16. If so, they were evidently not her children. John Stumpe, gent. the elder, was buried 6 May 1600. Christian Stumpe was buried 20 Nov. 1595.

Thomas Dowse apparently had children at the time his brother John made his will but they deceased before him, and he left the bulk of his property to his brother John's son, Thomas.

The will of Thomas Dowse, 1652:

The 18th of October in the fourth yere of Elizabeth by the grace of God of England, Fraunce and Irelande Quene 1562. (Somerset House, Streat 26.)

6. MICHAEL³ DOWSE (possibly WILLIAM², NICHOLAS¹), was probably born about 1515 and died between the 9 Aug. and the 17 Sept. 1586 in Buttermere, Wilts.; married ELIZABETH —, who outlived him.

When Thomas Dowse died in 1562 he gave to Michael Dowse “all my landes and tenements with their appertenances sett lying and being within the parish of Hursiborne in the Countie of Southampton,” and “six score wethers shepe going in his folde.” Thomas also speaks of a “cousin” Thomas Dowse of Fostebury, evidently not his nephew Thomas Dowse, who very likely was the son of Michael.

Who Michael's father was and his exact relationship to Thomas and John Dowse does not appear, but that he was of near kinship is evident.

7. THOMAS ⁴ DOWSE (JOHN ³, RICHARD ², NICHOLAS ¹), was born about 1540 probably at Moorcourt, died in the city of New Sarum (Salisbury) Wilts., in 1601; married before 1571, probably about 1565, BLANCHE COVERT of co. Sussex, who survived him.

He inherited the manor of Chilworth from his father as well as lands in Otterbourne, Emysworth, and Wartlyngton, Hants., in 1545 and in 1562 received from his uncle Thomas Dowse, the lands of the latter in Romsey, Hants. In 1569, he bought of Michael Fleming Gent., the manor of Bramshawe, alias "More Closes," in Wilts., and was living there in 1571. He also acquired the lease of the manor of Broughton which belonged to William Paulet and Roger Coram and had been sublet to James Jeffrys of Collingbourne, who sold his interest in it to Dowse for £1200. This manor of Broughton, Hants., was held by the Dowses until 1654. It seems possible that he settled Broughton on his son Francis before his death, as he was not living there when he died, having removed to Salisbury, and he does not make any disposition of the lands in his will. That he was much attached to Broughton is proved by the establishment of a school there, giving for its support land in Broughton, Mottisfont and King's Somborne which he had previously purchased. This school was founded the 24 April two days before he made his will and was for the parishes of Broughton and Bossington.

[The "indenture" referred to contains the following words, "that they (the children) may be the better enabled to know and serve Almighty God."

Thomas Dowse has a monument built into the chancel of the Church at Broughton with the following inscription:

HERE LIETH INTERRED YE BODYE OF THOMAS DOWSE ESQUE AND BLANCHE COVERT OF SLAUGHAM IN YE COUNTY OF SUSSEX THE ONLY WIFE OF THOMAS DOWSE. HE DYED IN ANNO. 1602 AND BLANCHE ANNO. 1608 THIS MONUMENT IN MEMORY OF THEM BOTH WAS MADE AT YE PROPER COST OF SR. EDMUND DOWSE KNT., THEIR 4TH SONNE, PERFORMED IN ANNO 1625.

8. SIR FRANCIS⁵ DOWSE (THOMAS⁴, JOHN³, RICHARD², NICHOLAS¹), born probably about 1571 in Bramshaw, his grandmother, Alice, in that year mentions her son Thomas' children, "Thomas Dowse the younger" and Alice Dowse, and it seems probable that none of the other children were born. Ann, a daughter of Francis, married Philip de Carteret who was born in 1584, and must necessarily have been much older than Ann, for even if her father was the eldest surviving son of his father she could not have been born before 1590 and probably was born about 1593. Judging from her age Francis was the oldest son. He married, probably about 1592, ELIZABETH PAULETT, daughter and Heiress of Hamden Paulett and became by this marriage possessed of Berry-Court in Nether Wallop, Hants. In 1623 he settled the manor of Broughton on his son Hamden Dowse who was married to Amabel Benn.

In 1630 Francis Dowse appointed one of his younger sons, Giles Dowse, Rector of Broughton.

23 July 1603, Sir Francis Dowse of Somerset at Whitehall was made Knight before the coronation of King James.

Sir Francis Dowse made no regular will but only a nuncupative one in which only a few of his children are mentioned.

Sir Francis Dowse late of Berry Court in the parish of Nether Wallopp, co: Southampton, deceased on 12 Jan. 1648, made his will nuncupative and gave to his daughter Mrs. Miller £210 and to her 3 children £10 each. To his son Mr. Giles Dowse £200 toward payment of his debts and £40 a year for life and to this son's 3 children £10 each. To the poor of Wallopp £5 and to Goddard his man £10. He willed that the watchers should be satisfied for their pains by his son Mr. Thomas Dowse and "devised him to give them content." Residue to said Thomas Dowse his sonne. There being present Thomas Goddard, Ann Jerome, Michael Ling, John Prangnell, confidence Dalby. 19 Nov. 1649 Commission to Thomas Dowse Esq. son of the deceased to administer, etc. (P. C. C. Fairfax, fo l. 172.)

On folio 181, this same will is repeated but in place of the witnesses is that of "Mal: Walker, advocatus." The will was confirmed 3 Dec. 1649, in the suit between Thomas Dowse Esquire the eldest son and residuary legatee, Plaintiff, and Giles Dowse, Hester Miller, alias Dowse, widow relict of John Miller deceased and Mary Coney alias Dowse, wife of George Coney Esquire, children of said Sir Francis Dowse deceased, etc., etc.

Sir Francis Dowse contributed to his Majesty's Expedition against the Scots in 1639.

CHILDREN:

- i. ANNE^e, b. about 1592; m. Sir PHILIP DE CARTERET, Seigneur of S. Ouen and of Serk, Jersey, b. Feb. 1583-4. (Payne's Armoriale of Jersey Families, 83.)
9. ii. THOMAS, b. about 1595; m. a daughter of Sir Gerard Fleetwood.
- iii. HAMDEN, b. about 1597, probably died without issue. His father settled the Manor of Broughton on him and his wife

AMABEL, daughter of Sir ANTHONY BENN, Recorder of London, in 1623. After his death she married at St. Benet and St. Peter, Paul's Wharf, London, 25 May 1640, Anthony Fane and after his death, Henry Grey, 4th Earl of Kent. She eventually sold the manor to Sir John Evelyn of West Dean, Wilts., and it passed out of the Dowse family.

- iv. HESTER, b. about 1599; m. JOHN MILLER.
- v. KATHERINE, b. about 1601; m. JOHN COWPER of Ditcham.
- vi. FRANCIS, b. 1602.
- vii. GABRIEL, b. about 1604.
- viii. GILES, b. about 1606; m. and left three children. Sir George Coney in his will of 15 Sept. 1665, gives, "To the three daughters of Mr. Gyles Douse dec'd £30 which said sum was (as is supposed) left in my hands, or in the hands of my late wife in trust for them at their full age of 21 years." To this amount he adds £10 "for interest."
- ix. MARY, m. Sir GEORGE CONEY before 1648 and died before 1665.

9. THOMAS⁶ DOWSE (Sir FRANCIS⁵, THOMAS⁴, JOHN³, RICHARD², NICHOLAS¹) born probably about 1595 in Nether Wallop, died before 1656; married a daughter of Sir Gerard Fleetwood of Crawley, co. Hants. She may have been named ELIZABETH, as in June 1656, an act of administration was issued to Elizabeth Kekewich, alias Dowse, wife of George Kekewich the relicte of Thomas Dowse late of Nether Wallop in the Countye of Southampton, to administer goods, chattels and debts of said deceased.

CHILD:

- 10. i. THOMAS⁷; m. DOROTHY CLINTON.
Probably other children.

10. THOMAS⁷ DOWSE (THOMAS⁶, Sir FRANCIS⁵, THOMAS⁴, JOHN³, RICHARD², NICHOLAS¹) of Nether Wallop, married DOROTHY CLINTON daughter of ROBERT CLINTON of Stourton.

CHILD:

- 11. i. Dr. FRANCIS⁸, b. 1676; m. ANNE —.

11. Dr. FRANCIS⁸ DOWSE (THOMAS⁷, THOMAS⁶, Sir FRANCIS⁵, THOMAS⁴, JOHN³, RICHARD², NICHOLAS¹), was born in Nether Wallop, Hants, 1676, and died there the 16 Sept. 1760, aged eighty-four years; married ANNE — born 1682, died 18 June 1757, aged seventy-five years.

It is possible that Dr. Francis Dowse may be a great-great-grandson of Sir Francis, instead of a great-grandson as above but the probability is that his grandfather, Thomas Dowse who married Miss Fleetwood is identical with Thomas, the son of Sir Francis Dowse.

There is a monument in the Nether Wallop churchyard with the following inscription:

HERE LYE THE REMAINS OF FRANCIS DOUCE DOCTOR OF PHYSIC SON OF THOMAS DOUCE, ESQUE WHO DIED 16TH OF SEPTEMBER 1760 AGED 84 AND ALSO THE REMAINS OF ANNE DOUCE HIS WIFE WHO DIED 18TH OF JUNE 1757 AGED 75.

Dr. Dowse left a bequest to Nether Wallop, for the support of aged men and women and for schooling for boys and girls. The following excerpts from his will show the rather peculiar conditions of his bequest. The "Pyramid" is still in good condition.

A copy of the last will and testament of Francis Douce, Esq., Doctor in Physic, as far as relates to his benefaction of One Thousand Pounds, left to the Parish of Nether Wallop, in the County of Southampton:

IMPRIMIS. I give to the Parish of Wallop (provided they do not suffer my pyramid to be injured) the interest of £1000 as they now stand, which I shall dye possessed of in the Southsea annuities at the Southsea House for ever, to be made use of for the following purposes, viz.: To help support the men and women who are past their labours and do dwell in that Parish of Lower Wallop, to be distributed by twelve of the heads of the Parish or as the majority of the Jury (meaning the twelve men), and if they do not do justice I cannot help that.

I order that out of the said interest money, that the boys and girls of the said Parish are taught to read and write and cast an accompt a little way, especially those who cannot pay for schooling or learning, but they must not go too far least it makes them saucy and the girls all want to be Chamber-maids, and in a few years you will be in want of Cooks.

I give this Charity provisionally that my Pyramid shall be kept in good order and the iron rails painted every second year at the charge of the Parish, and if the Parish boys do climb or injure it they shall not only be deprived of their learning but shall also be punished, and if the Parish do not keep the Pyramid in good repair this Charity shall cease and be void and subsist no longer.

LONDON CHURCHES AND PROBATE RECORDS

LONDON CHURCH REGISTERS

IN the London churches the name of Dowse is found and a systematic search in their registers brought a number of references, which are now printed in the hope that they will assist others in their family lines. Widely differing in time and place these references can be brought into no connection and whatever opportunity they offer for surmise or suggestion must be used with caution. It is safer and more reasonable to state the facts without explanation, than to give explanations that rest upon grounds so uncertain as to be misleading. Lawrence Dowse (1613–1692) and Elizabeth (Ballard) Dowse (1674–1701) in Charlestown, Mass.

MASSACHUSETTS

1. LAWRENCE¹ DOWSE, baptised in Legbourne, Lincolnshire, England, 6 June, 1613, died in Charlestown, Massachusetts, 14 Mar. 1692, aged seventy-eight years. He married first, probably in England, about 1640, MARTHA —, who was buried in Boston, Mass., in Oct. 1644. He married secondly, probably in Charlestown, Mass., about 1645, MARGERY RAND, born in England about 1625, died in Charlestown, 12 Apr. 1714, daughter of ROBERT and ALICE (SHARP) RAND.

There is no reasonable doubt that Lawrence Dowse, who was baptised in Legbourne in 1613, and the emigrant Lawrence Dowse were identical, for the reasons given on p. 14, supra. The emigrant Lawrence was born about 1613, for his age is given as about forty-four in 1659, seventy-one in 1684, and seventy-eight in March 1691-2. He was probably in America in 1642.

There were other immigrants by the name of Dowse, Ludovic Dowse of Sherborn, and Francis Dowse of Boston, with no relationship between them, nor was Lawrence Dowse of probable kin to either.

The earliest mention found of Lawrence Dowse in the colony is in the Salem, Mass., Court. "20-12-1643-4, Lawrence Dowse and his wife are to have 5*s*. witness fees." The case was one where Jabez Hackett, Thomas South, William Prichard and Thomas Winterton were fined for drinking. The charge for the witnesses is to be allowed by the persons fined proportionately, only Lawrence Dowse and his wife are to have 5*s*., half by John Smith and half by persons fined, and Mary Rowden by John Smith, 2*s*. 6*d*. Thomas Putnam 20*d*. by the three. John Smith was a servant of Henry Walton's but the records are silent as to the reason for his helping pay the fees. (Essex Quarterly Court Files, 1 : 61.)

The appearance of Lawrence Dowse in the Essex County case indicates that he went first to that county. He soon, however, moved to Boston, for his son John was baptised there in Oct. 1644. It is also possible that he came directly to Boston from England, though in that event he would have been called Lawrence Dowse of Boston in the court minute. In 1634, Richard Fairbanks of Boston, England, supposed brother of Charles Fairbanks of the same town, who was the step-father of Lawrence Dowse, came to Boston, Mass., with Leverett. He may have influenced the emigration of Dowse.

Lawrence was admitted to the First Church of Boston, 22 Mar. 1645, becoming a Freeman, 26 May 1647. In order to be this, he had to satisfy certain requirements as to religion and property and his qualifying within two or three years shows that he had a certain standing in the community thus early.

Soon after his second marriage, perhaps before it, he removed to Charlestown, Mass., the home of his wife's relatives, being there in 1646. He was admitted to Charlestown church, 21 Mar. 1652; was made Constable in 1656; and a tything man in 1678 and 1679. He served on juries 16 Dec. 1657, 20 Jan. 1658, and 10 July 1663, being also a Grand Juryman in 1676, 1682, 1683, and 1684. He was evidently a favorite of his wife's people; her uncle, Capt. Richard Sprague, husband of her mother's sister, Mary (Sharpe) Sprague, left Margery Dowse a legacy, and his widow gave him and his daughters, Elizabeth and Mary, legacies in her will.

He early became associated with Francis Willoughby, who was Deputy Governor of the Massachusetts-Bay 1665-1671 and with Lawrence Hammond and Richard Waldron acted as his agent. The Governor remembered him in his will, proved 10 Apr. 1671, for he left to "coz. Laur: Hamond," forty shillings to assist his wife, "to Laur: Dous four pounds" and to Edward Wilson three pounds "as a token of my love." After the Governor's death, Lawrence Dowse continued to advise Mistress Margaret Willoughby, the widow, for on the 19 Dec. 1671, he witnessed a power of Attorney granted by Margaret Willoughby to Richard Waldron. A year later, 1 Oct. 1672, Edward Collins petitioned the court that Lawrence Dowse, Thomas Rand, Jonathan Wade of Medford, and Joseph Cooke of Cambridge be made Commissioners, but there is no record of its being done.

The transactions of Lawrence Dowse in real estate are interesting. The following deed was drawn in 1646 but not recorded until 1654, and possibly Dowse did not sign it quite so early as 1646, since he became possessed of the land of Alice Rand in 1649. The main body of the deed is followed by many clauses whereby each grantor of the land stated the amount and signed the clause. Among those who signed were Robert Long, Michael Long, George Bunker, James Browne, Thomas Allen, Joshua Todd, Joanna Stephenson, Ralph Sprague, Francis Norton, William Brakenbury, Joseph Hills, Richard Louden, Thomas Wilder, Richard Stowers, John Goold, Stephen Fosdick, John Fornell, William Bachelor, and Lawrence Dowse.

The Charlestown Records (Boston Records, III. 114.) show that Alice Rand, on the 26 Jan. 1649, sold to Lawrence Dowse, various parcels of land purchased of several persons; that Mr. Lawrence Dowse of Charlestown deeded land to Marius Sully towards payment of housing and land sold to Alice Rand for £27 10s., in the same year, and on the same date that Mrs. Rand sold the land to Dowse, he also bought some of George Hepburne. These deeds are not recorded except in the Charlestown book.

Lawrence Dowse calls himself planter and husbandman; by trade he was a carpenter, as nearly all the original emigrants had to qualify in a trade, skilled men being a necessity of the infant colony.

The original will of Lawrence Dowse is not in existence. It was not signed and administrators were appointed. The will is copied in the old book of records. The copy is as follows:

Probate of the Last Will and Testament of Laurence Dowse and Admcon granted to Margery Dowse Samll Dowse Nathanll Dowse nominated and appointed in said Will. 21 Nov. 1692. (Ibid., p. 17.)

Since Lawrence Dowse died 14 Mar. 1692, and administrators were not appointed until November of that year, it lends color to the plausibility that the will was unsigned and came before the Court. An inventory following was filed with the will.

CHARLESTOWN 30 July 1730.

All the heirs at law were cited to appear 3 Aug. 1730. Citation to be served by Deacon Saml. Dowse. On 24 Nov. 1730, the Judge appointed Ebenezer Brooks, Samuel Brooks and Samuel Brooks, jr., all of Medford to examine the quantity of land, etc. Their return is almost illegible but it is clear that the land bounded on Capt. Ebenezer Brooks, on land in the possession of Dorothy Dowse (widow of Nathaniel) and Mary Dowse (widow of Eleazer) widows.

The heirs were cited to appear: "Charlestown novembur the 17, 1732 by vertue of this citation I have cited all partys consarned to apear this day att time and plas mentioned THOMAS HARRIS."

RELIEF GILL

In the paper where the Judge suspends his final Judgment and where he evidently lists the children, there are four names which may be written there as possible heirs. They can not be witnesses as there are no signatures. One of them is undoubtedly a Dowse, Sarah Godfre, who was the daughter of Nathaniel Dowse. The other two, Dority Jones, widow, and Mary Jones, widow, may also be of kin, but how is not shown. Since the daughter, Mary, of Lawrence Dowse, who was dismissed to Boston and who is mentioned in his will, is not included in the column of children, she undoubtedly had deceased and probably without issue.

Lawrence Dowse himself always spelt his name with the final "e" as did his forbears in England. The stone-cutter who carved the inscription on his gravestone omitted it from both his first and last names as well as from the word "deceased" although he added it to the latter. Some of his descendants have dropped it from the name, which is to be regretted as the name of Dowse is distinctive in England and America. He sleeps in the old burying ground in

Charlestown, his rather ornately carved stone bearing this inscription:

 HERE LYES Y BODY OF

He married first in Charlestown, 8 Aug. 1670, ANNA † LUDKIN, born in Charlestown, died there,

* The heavy figures with an asterisk show what families are to be found in this volume. Families that are not so marked will be found in Azro M. Dows, The Dows or Douse Family in America, 1890.

† Anna, Anne, Ann, and Hannah are all used interchangeably.

26 May 1676, daughter of AARON and ANNA (HEPBURN) LUDKIN. He married secondly in Charlestown, 7 Mar. 1676-7, FAITH JEWETT, born, probably in Rowley, 8 Oct. 1652, died in Charlestown, 26 Feb. 1738, daughter of MAXIMILIAN and ELLEN (— BOYNTON) JEWETT.

Samuel Dowse was a cordwainer or shoemaker in Charlestown throughout his very long life, being made a freeman there, 7 Oct. 1674. The admissions to Full Communion in the First Church give:—

9 Feb. 1672 Samuel Douse.

15 June 1673 Hannah Douse the wife of Saml Dowse (deacon Ludkin's daughter).

23 Sept. 1676, Faith Dowse: the wife of our br: Samuel Dowse. (Her father Deacon Jewet of Rowley.)

On the 23 Mar. 1674, Samuel Dowse was one of two men "to look after the boys" in the Church for the ensuing six months; was a tything man in 1679, and Deacon in 1712. In this last year he was also Sealer of weights and measures in Charlestown. He served in King Philip's War, being in Major Savage's company under command of Lieut. Gillam from February to May, 1676, being credited, 24 June, 1676, with £2 2s., for service. It is possible that after his second marriage, he may have lived in Boston for a short time since his daughter Anne was baptised in the Old South Church in 1679. He was evidently not quite sane at the time of his death by reason of his extreme age, so his will was disallowed.

. . . I Aaron Ludkin for and in consideration of a mariage had and solemnized between Samuel Dowse of the same town and Anna his wife, deced, and Daughter unto Mee the said Ludkin and for the great goodwill and affection which said Dowse hath unto her Shown . . . Samuel Dowse's disallowed Will was as follows:

In the Name of God Amen I Samuel Dowse of Charlestown in the county of Middlesex and Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England being infirm in Body by reason of age yet of Sound mind and memory Thanks be to God therefor Do Make and ordain this my last Will and Testament . . .

SAML. DOWSE

EBENEZER GROVER
STEPHEN BADGER JUNR
SARAH GODFREY.

Presented 12 July 1735 by Maximilian Dowse.

Two of the witnesses thought he was of sound mind when he signed the will but the third doubted it. Proving of the will was suspended by the Judge until he knew "the Widow's Mind relating hereto."

Faith Dowse, the widow, signed an assent, 25 July 1735, "as there remains a doubt about my Said Husbands Sanity at the time of his making his will . . . to the setting aside the will and administering the estate accrding to the Law." The eldest son and mr Harris for himself and as guardian for two children also desire the will be not proved, but Ebenezer is to signify his mind about it. The will was disallowed.

“Maximilian Doves,” mariner, with Stephen Badger, Potter, and John Sprague, Gunsmith, all of Charlestown, as sureties, bonded for Maximilian Dowse, admitted administrator of the estate of Samuel Dowse, late of Charlestown, deceased, together with Thomas Harris.

Thomas Harris, Taylor, with Edward Larkin and Samuel Larkin, Chair makers, all of Charlestown, as sureties, bonded for Thomas Harris, admitted administrator of the estate of Samuel Dowse, late of Charlestown, deceased, “together with mr Maximilian Dows.” The bond was for £1000.

The inventory of Deacon Samuel Dowse, late of Charlestown, deceased, was appraised 13 Aug., 1735, amount £347 8s. 9d.

His real estate was given to Capt. Maximilian Dowse, the eldest son as it would not admit of division without injury, “he paying to his brother Ebenezer and his sister Mary . . . and to the lawful Heirs of his Sister Sarah Deced.” The heirs signed an assent to the division, 14 June, 1736, they being: Thomas Harris “for the two children wiliam and mary person by power of gardenship,” Maxll Dowse, Thomas Harris jun. James Capen jun. Thomas Harris, as attorney for Ebenezer Dows.

Two accounts filed by Thomas Harris contain these items:

To Boarding mother Dowse from the 3 day of april 1735 To this 16 Day of october 1736: being 79 weeks 25 whereof being at 15/ per week and 54 weeks at 12/ per week.

The second, filed in 1741, gives:

October the 16th 1736. To octobr 16 1737 to keeping his mother Douse 52 weeks, and from the 16th of october To the 26 of February . . .

It is evident that Faith died 26 Feb. 1738.

4. ELIZABETH² DOWSE (LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 15 Mar. 1647, died, probably in Charlestown, after 1732. She married first, in Charlestown, 18 June 1674, as his second wife, THOMAS LARKIN, born in Charlestown, 18 Oct. 1644, died there of smallpox, 10 Dec. 1677, aged thirty-three years, son of EDWARD and JOANNA (—) LARKIN. She married secondly about 1678, as his second wife, JOHN DYER † of Boston, born in Weymouth, Mass., 10 July 1643, died in Boston, Mass., 2 June 1696, son of Deacon THOMAS DYER. THOMAS LARKIN married first, 13 Sept. 1660, Hannah Remington of Charlestown, died there, 8 Nov. 1673. The names of her parents are unknown. JOHN DYER married first about 1670, Mary Bicknell, born in Weymouth about 1655, died 1677, daughter of John and Mary (Shaw) Bicknell.

Elizabeth Dowse is recorded in the First Church Records as follows:

Admitted to Full Communion, 3 Oct. 1675:

Elizabeth Larkin the wife of Thomas Larkin (sejant Dows: d)

Dismissed to the 1st ch. of Boston by the name of Drew [Dier].

She was admitted to the First Church Boston, 6 July, 1679.

* Hannah, daughter of Samuel Dowse, baptised in the Old South Church, Boston, 27 June 1686. Probably a mistake for Mary.

† The printed Church records of Charlestown, as well as Wyman's Genealogies and Estates of Charlestown both state that Elizabeth married secondly — DREW — a misreading of the old record.

Wyman does not give any administration to Thomas Larkin, but his heirs, namely his three daughters, sell Thomas Rand a house in 1692 and more property to John Newell the same year. If he had any other children living at the time they would undoubtedly have also signed the deeds, hence both his sons by his second wife, Elizabeth Dowse, must have died before 1692.

Administration on the estate of John Dyer, late of Boston, Iron monger, deceased was granted to Elizabeth Dyer, his relict, and John Dyer his eldest son, 11 June 1696. His inventory, taken by Wm. Griggs, Robt. Gibbs, and Thomas Jackson, amounting to £854 11s. 11d., was sworn to by Elizabeth Dyer and John Dyer of Boston, 20 Aug. 1696. (Suffolk Probate, 11 : 171.)

The estate was distributed, 2 Mar. 1698-9, the residue of the personal estate amounting to £331 10s. 10d. to Elizabeth, his relict widow and his six children, being John Dyer, the eldest son, and Benjamin, Joseph, Elizabeth, Mary, and Sarah Dyer. The house and land were given to the eldest son, John Dyer, subject to Elizabeth's dower, he to pay to his brothers and sisters, their shares, and also, on Elizabeth's death, to pay them their shares, and also, on Elizabeth's death, to pay them their shares of her dower.

Elizabeth Dyer, Widow, John Dyer, Cooper, and Benjamin Dyer, all of Boston, and "Nathanll Dowse Glasz. of Charlestown" bonded for Elizabeth Dyer and John Dyer as adms. of estate of John Dyer, late of Boston Deceased, 11 June 1697. (Suffolk Probate, New Series, 16 : 68.)

Letters of Guardianship from Elizabeth and Mary Dyer Daughters of John Dyer deced unto their Mother Elizabeth Dyer

The same day Elizabeth was granted guardianship of her son Joseph Dyer and daughter Sarah Dyer, "both children of your sd late husband John Dyer" and minors under fourteen years of age.

On her bond, William Hough, Tallow Chandler, of Boston and Nathaniel Dowse, Glazier, of Charlestown appear as her sureties for all the children, the bond being signed 16 Mar. 1698.

After John Dyer's death, Elizabeth probably returned to Charlestown with her children. In 1716, her son, Joseph Dyer, buys of his brother-in-law, Benjamin Kettell, a house in Charlestown, occupied at the time by Thomas Lord and John Edmands. In 1717-18, Elizabeth Dyer, widow, with Joseph Dyer, mariner, Elizabeth Dyer, jr., Sarah Dyer, and Mary, wife of Benjamin Kettell, sells land in Charlestown to Samuel Sweetser.

- viii. SARAH DYER, b. 6 Feb. 1692, bapt. 12 Feb. 1693, 1st Ch. Boston, adm. to Charlestown Ch., 23 Nov. 1729.

5. JOHN² DOWSE (LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., in 1649 (deposed, aged 22, 8 Nov. 1671), died in Charlestown, 28 Nov. 1677, of smallpox. He married in Dorchester, Mass., 31 Aug.

1672, RELIEF HOLLAND, baptised in Dorchester, 16 May 1650, died there, 7 July 1743, aged 93, daughter of JOHN and JUDITH HOLLAND. She married secondly, in Dorchester, 9 Mar. 1680-81, TIMOTHY FOSTER, born about 1640, died in Dorchester, 16 Dec. 1688, son of EDWARD and LETTICE (HANFORD) FOSTER. She married thirdly in Dorchester, 9 Mar. 1691-2, HENRY LEADBETTER, born about 1635 died in Dorchester, 20 Apr. 1722. Timothy Foster married first, in Dorchester, 13 Oct. 1663, Ruth Tileston, daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Tileston and widow of Richard Denton, whom she married 11 Dec. 1657. He died 28 Dec. 1658. Ruth died in Dorchester 5 Dec. 1677. Henry Leadbetter married first in Dorchester, 18 Mar. 1658-9, Sarah, daughter of Thomas Tolman, who died after 1678.

John Dowse was a shoemaker and possibly was plying his trade in Dorchester before his marriage but after that event he made his home in Charlestown. With his wife, he was admitted to the church there:

16 May 1675, John Dowse and Relief Dowse (his wife: her father mr. Holland Sometime of Dorchester) and Mary Dowse (the daughter of our brother Sejant Dowse) Dismissed to the 2d ch: in Boston (blotted) 1691.

John Dowse lived only five years after his marriage but during those five years his wife, Relief, had four children, the last posthumous. He was one of two men appointed "to look after the boys" in the church, his term to begin 23 Mar. 1674. He served in King Philip's War under Capt. John Cutler, receiving fourteen shillings pay, his name also appearing as Douss in an assignment of wages dated, 24 Aug. 1676. (Bodge's King Philip's War, 286, 374.)

Administration on his estate was granted to Releefe Dowse, his widow, and to Laur. Dowse, 2 Apr. 1678.

JACOB GREENE JR.

At a County Court held at Cambr. Apr. 2th 1678 Releife Dowse the relict widow of the above named John Dowse deced, is granted administration on the estate of her abovesd husband Deced, as also Laur: Dowse her father and they being Sworn do Say that this is a true Inventory of his estate. (Middlesex Co., Probate, 6392, vol. 5, p. 65.)

From the will of John Holland, made 16 Dec. 1651, filed Sept. 1652, it is evident that since he was a man of property, Relief must have been heiress to considerable wealth. He left a double portion of one-half his estate to his son John and the rest to be divided amongst his children, excepting that Mr. Mather was to have a silver cup of the value of forty shillings. He mentions only one of his children by name — John. His wife, who had received one-half the estate, married secondly a Mr. Kimwright and went to Cambridge Village. The inventory of his estate mentions debts in Virginia, Library, musket, swords, tobacco, property in the Barbadoes, Ship, plate, pewter, etc. Relief must have been a fairly well-to-do young widow, and, since only one of her children, her daughter Relief, reached maturity, the latter must have also had a fair portion.

It does not appear that Relief had any children by Henry Leadbetter although she was only forty-one when she married him, but she had children by John Dowse and Timothy Foster; Foster had some by his first wife, and so did Henry Leadbetter. At the time of her third marriage, Foster's eldest child by his first wife was twenty-seven and his youngest sixteen, while Leadbetter's youngest was thirteen. It is probable that there were some of each family in the same household.

Upon her second marriage, Relief went back to Dorchester to live, taking with her her two surviving Dowse children. About ten years later, her only son by Dowse was drowned being then a lad of thirteen years. That her relations with the Dowses in Charlestown remained pleasant is shown by her choice of Nathaniel Dowse, her brother-in-law, for one of the Trustees in her marriage agreement with Henry Leadbetter in 1691. Lawrence Dowse in his will, made the same year, rather strangely omits to mention either her or her daughter. The daughter, Relief, then the wife of Michael Gill, petitions in 1735, almost forty-five years after the death of Lawrence, for a share of some of his property. (p. 105.)

7. JOSEPH² DOWSE (LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., about 1654, died there, 13 Mar. 1694. He married in Charlestown, 11 July 1678, MARY GEORGE, baptised there, 15 Apr. 1677, death unknown but probably about 1694, daughter of JOHN and ELIZABETH (—) GEORGE.

Joseph Dowse was a carpenter. In the birth records of his children he is called "Lieutenant," so he probably held that office in the military company of Charlestown. He served in King Philip's War under Captain Moseley, 10 Dec. 1675, receiving on 24 June 1676, £2 14s. 10d., for his services. He was in garrison at Billerica, 30 Nov. 1675, receiving £2 14s. pay. His name, spelt Douss, appears in an assignment of wages, 24 Aug. 1676, in which his brothers, Nathaniel "Dowse" and John "Douss," also appear. Land granted him in Narragansett, No. 2 (Westminster), was given his daughter Margery in 1733.

Joseph Dowse was only about forty when he died. It seems probable that his wife died about the time her youngest child was born. She releases her dower in two deeds before that time but fails to do so a couple of months after Alice's birth.

Joseph Dowse left no will and apparently no administration was taken on his estate. His heirs evidently amicably settled it among themselves.

9. BENJAMIN² DOWSE (LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 3 Dec. 1658, died there, 18 July 1723. He married first, in Roxbury, Mass., 7 Apr. 1680, MARY HEWINS, born in Dorchester, 9 Aug. 1660, daughter of JACOB HEWINS, died before 1709. He married secondly, 11 May 1709, TABITHA BROOKS, born 31 Mar. 1674, died ———, daughter of GERSHOM and HANNAH (ECCLES) BROOKS, of Concord, Mass. She married secondly, 4 Aug. 1727, John BLYTH [or BLIGH], possibly of Salem, born 27 Jan. 1665, son of JOHN and MARY (GOLT or GOTT) BLIGH.

Benjamin Dowse was a tailor. After his first marriage he lived in Roxbury for some years, being admitted to the church covenant there 25 Feb. 1681, and to full communion 12 Apr. 1685. He returned to Charlestown before 1716, and succeeded his brother Nathaniel as Treasurer of the town. He served in King Philip's War, as did his brothers, his captain being Joseph Syll, from 25 Nov. to 3 Dec. 1675, (Bodge, 272.) He apparently had no children.

Tabitha and Eleazer Phillips were bonded for £200.

10. NATHANIEL² DOWSE (LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 24 Nov. 1659, died there, 23 Aug. 1719. He married in Charlestown, 7 Sept. 1685, DOROTHY EDMANDS, born in Charlestown, 27 June 1668, died there, between 10 Dec. 1733 and 7 Jan. 1734, daughter of JOHN and HANNAH (DADY) EDMANDS.

Nathaniel Dowse was a glazier by trade. He was admitted to the First Church in Charlestown, 19 June 1686; chosen town clerk, 2 Mar. 1696, and served as town treasurer from 1702-1719. In April 1705, with two others, he was chosen at Charlestown to renew bounds and run lines between that town and Boston, and in 1708, with his brother Eleazer and two others again served in the same capacity. On 7 Feb. 1699, he was made guardian of Mary Griffin, a minor, fifteen years of age.

Nathaniel Dowse, like almost every other able-bodied adult in the colony, fought against the Indians in King Philip's War. His name appears in an assignment of wages, 24 Aug. 1676, with his brothers, Joseph Douss, and John Douss, his own named being spelled "Douse." In another list, Nathaniel Douse, is credited with receiving, £1 — 07 — 04, wages.

Since Nathaniel Dowse was town clerk and treasurer there are many deeds in his name that appertain only to him in his civic capacity. The following are those of family interest.

I Mehitable Hilton of Charlestowne . . . widdow for . . . Wit: Jno Cutler Junr, Thomas Lord Junr, Jonathan Edmunds. (Ibid., 36 : 492.)

It is interesting to note that the daughters of Nathaniel Dowse sign their names to legal papers. This is somewhat unusual, because ordinarily the girls received so little education in this period of colonial life.

Nathaniel Dowse had three sons, two of whom died unmarried at the age of twenty-five, the other at the age of twenty-two, this latter one, John and the eldest, Nathaniel Dowse, jr., died before the father and no administration was taken on their estates. The third son, Benjamin Dowse, jr., so-called on account of his uncle Benjamin, died after his father and undoubtedly had received his double share of the latter's estate as was customary. The administration papers of Nathaniel Dowse in the Middlesex Registry contain only the citation issued after the death of Dorothy and the filing of her will.

Dorothy Douse Widow and William Smith marcht both of Charlestown, bonded for Dorothy as administratrix of her late son Benjamin Dowse's estate (single man) late of Charlestown deceased, intestate, 12 Oct. 1720. Wit: Remember Hooper, Francis Foxcroft. (Middlesex Probate, 6385.)

Caleb Lamson, Stone cutter, Stephen Badger, Junr, Potter, and Nathaniel Lamson Stone cutter, all of Charlestown, bonded with Capt. Kidder of said town for the administration of Benjamin Dowse late of said town deceased. Joseph Kidder also bonded. 21 Jan. 1733. (Ibid.)

This really followed the death of Dorothy, and was the result of the following:

To Capt Kidder Mr Caleb Lamson and all the Heirs at Law of Mr. Nathaniel Dowes and his Son Benjamin Dows both late of Charlestown Deced and all Concerned Greeting.

Whereas the Said Kidder and Lamson have desired me to Commit Administration on the Estates of the Deceas'd Persons aforementioned to Some Sutable Person You are thereby cited to appear before me on Monday next. . . . Jan 14, 1733/4.

Jonathan Remmington J. pro. (Ibid., 6398.)

In the inventory of Benjamin's estate, amounting to £252 10s., is mentioned debt due the estate of Dorothy Dowse deceased.

IN THE NAME OF GOD AMEN I Dorothy Dowse of Charlestown, widdow, . . . being infirm in body yet of Sound mind and memory thanks be to God therefore Do make and ordain this my last will and Testament . . .

11. HON. JONATHAN² DOWSE (LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., about 1661, died there, 26 Jan. 1745. He married first in Charlestown, 18 Nov. 1694, ELIZABETH (BALLARD) GILBERT, born there, 24 Feb. 1674, died there, 22 Jan. 1701, daughter of Lieut. SAMUEL and LYDIA (WISWALL) BALLARD, and widow of — GILBERT. He married secondly, in Charlestown, 3 July 1701, KATHERINE (WINSLOW) HERBERT, born in Boston, Mass., 2 June 1672, baptised in the Old South Church, 15 Sept. 1672, died, probably in Charlestown, between 1740 and 1744, daughter of EDWARD and ELIZABETH (HUTCHINSON) WINSLOW, and widow of JAQUES HERBERT.*

Edward Winslow, father of Katherine, was a mariner. By his first wife, Sarah, he had born in Boston, John, b. 1 June 1661; Sarah, b. 10 Apr. 1663, Mary, b. 30 Apr. 1664-5; by his second wife, Elizabeth Hutchinson, Edward, b. 1 Nov. 1669; Katherine, b. 2 June 1672; Elizabeth, b. 22 Mar. 1673-4; Susanna, 1675; Anne, 7 Aug. 1678. With his wife Elizabeth, he attended the Old South Church, for they had John, Edward, Sarah, and Mary baptised together there, 19 Nov. 1671, and Katherine, on 15 Sept. 1672; Elizabeth, 18 Oct. 1674; Susanna, 15 Aug. 1675, and Anne, 8 Dec. 1678. Edward Winslow of Boston, Mariner, made his will in 1680, proved 1682, giving to his wife Elizabeth all the estate for life, including what she brought with her, but if she married again, one third to her and the rest to his children equally, but John and Edward were to have a double portion. He made her executrix and John Joyliffe and Isaac Addington, overseers. He died, "suddenly," 19 Nov. 1681.

At the time of his father's death, Edward Winslow, jr. was only thirteen years old, and whatever the father left was used in bringing up the family. Edward became a goldsmith and from time to time advanced sums of money to his mother to help bring up his younger sisters. On 2 Mar. 1709, his mother, Elizabeth Winslow sold him the property her father had left her, stating that he had from time to time advanced money until it amounted to £350, and making that the purchase price to him. A year later, or possibly the same year, since both sales occur in March, Edward Winslow sold this property to Jonathan Dowse for the same consideration of £350.

* The marriage intention of Jaques Herbert and Katherine Winslow was dated July 16, 1695. Boston Records, xxviii, 348. Wyman, in his Genealogies and Estates of Charlestown, states that Katherine was probably the daughter of Henry and Elizabeth (George) Herbert and the Dows-Dowse Genealogy states unqualifiedly that she was so.

Of these younger children, Katherine, Elizabeth, Susanna, and Anne, no marriages are found excepting that Susanna married John Alden, 22 Nov. 1722, at the age of forty-seven. "Katherine Herbert now Dowse" was admitted to full communion in the Old South Church, 27 Mar. 1698. This was three years before she married Jonathan Dowse, and possibly she was admitted after her first marriage and then "now Dowse" added after her second one. She would not have been admitted to communion unless she had been baptised somewhere, and no such baptism is to be found in the early church records of Boston. When her first child was born 6 Aug. 1703, he was baptised two days later, in the Old South Church. It is evident that they did not bring the child all the way from Charlestown, where his father was a member of the church, to Boston for the baptism; Katherine came home to her mother to have her first child, and had it baptised in her home church, naming it after her father and the brother who had been so good to them all. This shows that Katherine had people living in Boston when the child was born, and with other items considered, it can not be doubted that it was her mother.

The names of Katherine's other children are interesting. Her second son she also named Edward, the first of the name having died; her third son she named Joseph; her first daughter, Katherine, for herself; her next, Elizabeth, for her mother; her next son Lawrence, for Jonathan's father, and the last child, they called Nathaniel. The ties between the Winslows and Dowses are shown in the next generation, when the Dowses who became members of Trinity served as Sponsors for Winslows and vice versa.

Jonathan Dowse became a man of much prominence in Charlestown. He was a shipwright by trade; was made a Freeman or voter, 11 Oct. 1676. He served as selectman of Charlestown for some years, beginning in 1700, was appointed special justice of the Inferior Court of Common Pleas, 27 June 1718, and a Justice of the Court of Common Pleas the following December, serving until 1741. He was said to be "a man of high repute, and one of his Majestie's council."

The records of the first Church of Charlestown state: "Entered into Covenant 1695 — 6m — 18d. Elizabeth w. of Jonathan Dowse," and, 23 Feb. 1700, "Mr Jonathan Dows" was admitted to full communion.

There are many land transactions of Jonathan Dowse's on the Middlesex County books. Not only did he become a wealthy man, with many investments in real estate, but he was one of a committee, consisting of Charles Chambers, Esq., Capt. Joseph Whittemore, and Mr. Ebenezer Austin, Sadler, and himself, to handle real estate belonging to the town. All these deeds are omitted.

The deeds give a good life history of Jonathan Dowse. Beginning life as a mariner he soon became a master-mariner, then a shipwright, and finally a Civil servant. From the deed is also gained the information that his wife Katherine must have died after 1740 and before 1744, as he does not make any provision for her in his will. She was probably buried in the tomb in the old Charlestown yard. This tomb bears a coat of arms, of two quarterings. They are not Dowse ^{of America} arms, as no arms have been found belonging to Lawrence Dowse's forbears of that name in England. They ~~possibly may have belonged to Katherine ^(Windsor) Herbert, but as nothing is known of her ancestry it can not be decided.~~ One of the quarterings is ~~similar to~~ that of the Winslows. The tomb was probably acquired by Jonathan Dowse in 1725 since it bears the inscription "the Hon Jonat. Dows Esqr. 1725," ~~and it is possible that he bought it of some one whose arms were already carved upon it.~~

The name is spelled "Dows" in some of the deeds. It must be borne in mind that these deeds are all copied records and the registers of those days never were very careful to make an absolute copy so far as spelling was concerned. This statement can be easily proven by comparing the original of a will with its copy, it will be true in substance but vary in spelling. The only way to know how a man spelled his name is to get his own signature to some original paper. Jonathan Dowse's original will is still extant and he signed it plainly "Jonathan Dowse." His two sons also signed plainly "Dowse" to the bond they gave for their executorship. When Jonathan Dowse's name was carved upon the tomb, the final "e" was again omitted. The old stone-cutters were not educated men and frequently made mistakes in spelling, no one was as accurate in that regard as in the present time, and when a word or name was cut in stone it could not be altered.

Only one of Jonathan Dowse's children, by his first wife, Elizabeth (Ballard) Gilbert was living in 1726, his son Samuel.

When Jonathan Dowse died he must have been about eighty-three years old. He made his will a few months before his death.

IN THE NAME OF GOD AMEN I Jonathan Dowse of Charlestown in the County of Middlesex Esq. being very aged but of perfect Mind and Memory (Thanks be to God) do make and ordain this my last Will and Testamt in maner following, Vizt. In the first place I give my plate to all my Children Share and share alike. Eleazer Dowse was a master-mariner and hence called Captain Dowse. Judge Sewall refers to him in his Diary as attending the funeral of Governor Dudley in 1720, and speaks of him frequently. In March 1708, Eleazer Dowse and his brother Nathaniel were chosen to run lines and renew the bounds between Boston and Charlestown.

The First Church has the record under date of 9 June 1706, admitted to Full Communion; "Mr Eleazer Dows [and] Mrs. Mary (w. of sd Dows.)"

His inventory amounted to £1122 10s., a very large estate for the time and in addition to this, he had £720 cash at interest. The inventory was filed by (illeg., probably Barnabas) Davis, the administrator of the estates of Eleazer Dowse and Mary his wife both of Charlestown, date destroyed. The estate was divided to Jonathan Dowse, Mary Trow, and Elizabeth Davis. assented to by Jonathan Dows, Bartho Trow, and Barnabas Davis, 21 May 1742. (Middlesex Co., Probate, 6389.)

The folder, 6397, Middlesex Co., Probate, called "Adm. Mary Dowse," contains only the Bond. "Jonathan Dowse Joyner, Bartholomew Trow, Cordwainer, Barnabas Davis, Shipwright, John Phillips, Gentleman, and David Edmands, Hatter, all of Charlestown," bonded 24 Nov. 1739, the two latter being sureties for the three former, who were appointed administrators of the "Estate of Eleazer Dowse and his widow Mary Dowse late of sd Town Deced." It is evident that the above inventory and division should belong in this folder rather than in that of Eleazer Dowse, or that Mary's bond should be added to her husband's estate.

She married there, 3 June 1708, THOMAS HARRIS, JR., born in Charlestown, 13 Nov. 1686, died, probably in Charlestown, about 1765, son of THOMAS and HEPZIBAH (CROSSWELL) HARRIS.

Thomas Harris, jr., was a tailor, being called so in deeds as late as 1736, but in the settlement of his estate, he is called a "potter." His son John was a potter and, perhaps, in his old age, Thomas assisted this son.

20. MAXIMILIAN³ DOWSE (SAMUEL², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 12 Oct. 1688, died after 1742. He married in Charlestown, 27 Dec. 1711, SARAH FOSDICK, born in Charlestown, 30 Apr. 1693, died after 1742, daughter of JONATHAN and SARAH (SPRAGUE) FOSDICK.

Maximilian Dowse was a mariner. In 1742, he sold his home and the pew in the church, so possibly may have removed from Charlestown. The younger son, Maximilian Dowse, jr., is not mentioned as married or deceased in the Charlestown records. He may have gone elsewhere with his father. The probability of their removal is also evidenced by there being no will or administration of Maximilian Dowse on the Middlesex County records.

21. SARAH ³ DOWSE (SAMUEL ², LAWRENCE ¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 19 Mar. 1691, died probably in Charlestown, about 1735. She married there, 11 July 1712, WILLIAM PINSON, birth unknown, died between 1719 and 1724, parentage unknown.

William Pinson was a sea captain and probably an emigrant to the country. He owned no land in Charlestown. In 1718, he sailed for North Carolina and apparently was never heard from. Sarah died probably about 1735, for in that year, guardianship of her minor children was granted.

Thomas Harris, jun, Taylor, with Maximilian Dowse, mariner, as surety, both of Charlestown, appointed guardian of Mary Pinson, a minor aged 17, daughter of William Pinson, late of Charlestown, dec'd, 18 July 1735. He was also appointed the same day, guardian of William Pinson, her brother, aged 19. Thomas Harris, jr., was their uncle by marriage, and Maximilian Dowse, their own uncle.

"Mr. William Pinson" was baptised in First Church, Charlestown, 19 July 1713, a year after his marriage, and his widow Sarah was admitted to the same church, 13 Sept. 1724.

22. EBENEZER³ DOWSE (SAMUEL², LAWRENCE¹) born in Charlestown, Mass., 4 Sept. 1693, died in Billerica, Mass., between 1778 and 1781. He married in Rowley, Mass., 23 Nov. 1715, MARY HUNT, born in Billerica, Mass., 1 July 1696, died, probably in Billerica, after 1778, daughter of SAMUEL and RUTH [MARY?] (TODD) HUNT.

Tradition says that Ebenezer Dowse went to Billerica in 1708. As he would be only fifteen years old in that year, he was probably apprenticed to some carpenter in Billerica. One authority states that he died two weeks after the battle of Saratoga in 1777 and another claims that he died in 1781; but he was living in 1778 and his death is not recorded. He left no will and his estate was not administered.

The name of Ebenezer Dowse appears as "Dows" on his headstone — the fault of the cutter — and his descendants adopted that spelling, a corruption of a good old English name (now traced back as Dowse for generations in England) greatly to be regretted.

Benjamin Dowse owned a house and land in Billerica. It was probably a grant from the town as no deed is recorded of its purchase. He sold this in 1725.

They settled the estate of her first husband, Joseph Foster, before they left, and the only other heirs than the widow appear to be her two daughters. It is fairly evident that Mary (Dows) Foster died without issue.

At the time of his marriage he was forty-three years old. He served with his brother Eleazer in the French War in 1757. He served also in the Revolution, enlisting 20 Aug., and being discharged, 29 Nov. 1777. He again enlisted, 10 Dec. 1777, and was discharged Mar. 1778. Since she was alone it is probable that Samuel had deceased, and as she does not appear in the Census of 1790 as Sarah Dows, it is probable that she had either died or remarried.

"Mrs. Relief Gill is now deceased" and estate is to be distributed to the devisees, i.e., to Ebenezer Kent, Attorney to Michael Gill, eldest son, now in Newfoundland; to granddaughter Mrs. Relief Ellery of Charlestown; Heirs of John Gill decd; Heirs of Mrs. Relief Barrow; Michael Gill, grandson; heirs of Elizabeth Cheever, 17 Nov. 1759.

Gill do hereby . . . Consent to the Distribution . . . , 19 Nov. 1759. (Ibid., 36 : 463.)

It is seen that at the time of her death Relief (Dowse) Gill had only one living child, Michael Gill, her eldest son, and that he was living in Newfoundland.

30. MARY³ DOWSE (JOSEPH², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 22 Feb. 1688, death unknown. She married in Charlestown, 25 Aug. 1716, STEPHEN BOUCHER, birth, death and parents unknown.

Stephen Boucher, or Butcher as it is often spelled, was a barber in Charlestown. With the other heirs of Joseph Dowse, Stephen and his wife Mary divide up the father's estate. After the baptism of their daughter, Mary, they vanish from Charlestown, and apparently did not go to Boston. The marriage of a Stephen Butcher (int. Bucher) of Boston and Sarah Cox of Lynn is found on the Lynn records, as occurring, 26 Feb. 1740-1, while the intention of this couple given in Boston, 11 Feb. 1740 spells his name "Boucher" and hers "Cock." Possibly this was a second marriage of Stephen.

A Stephen Butcher, Sadler, of the Barbadoes who died in Boston, had John Ruggles, Mariner, and John Briggs, Merchant, of Boston appointed his executors, and they gave bonds in Court, with Thomas Phillips, Innholder, and Richard Hall, Perukemaker, 18 Oct. 1715. In the account is mentioned "Carrying your negroes on Shoar." An Inventory filed, 8 Oct. 1715, mentions slaves, gold ring, silver buckles, watch, etc., and this personal property was sent on the sloop "Flying Horse," to the Barbados for Mrs. Ann Butcher on 8 Aug. 1718. (Suffolk Co., Probate, 7 : 407, 21 : 76, 82.)

It is possible that Stephen Butcher who married Mary Dowse may have been a son of this Stephen Butcher or some connection of his. They may have gone to the Barbados. They must have gone out of Middlesex and Suffolk counties for there not only is no mention of them but none of their children appear to have become householders in those counties later.

32. ALICE³ DOWSE (JOSEPH², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 7 Jan. 1694, death unknown. She married in Charlestown, 31 Oct. 1720, ROBERT WRIGHT.

There is no mention of Alice Dowse after 1733, when she appeared in a case in Court; no will or administration of Robert or Alice Wright and no deeds. Possibly they removed from Charlestown. She owned the covenant in the Charlestown Church, 25 Aug. 1723.

36. DOROTHY³ DOWSE (NATHANIEL², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 1 May 1691, died, probably in Boston, after 1740. She married in Billerica, Mass., 10 Sept. 1712, JOSEPH KIDDER, born probably in Billerica, about 1689,* died between 15 May 1736 and 9 Feb. 1736-7, son of EPHRAIM and RACHEL (CROSBY) KIDDER.

Joseph Kidder was in early life a mariner and although he was an innkeeper for a few years, he undoubtedly returned to the sea. He lived in Charlestown until after 1727, probably moving to Boston about 1730. He had kept "The Cranes" tavern in Charlestown, and in 1734 became the proprietor of the Green Dragon Inn. This famous old Inn was probably built when the property was owned by Lieut. Gov. William Stoughton and was kept as an Inn by Alexander Smith who died in it in 1696. He was succeeded by Hannah Bishop and then by John Cary in 1697 who kept it for several years. In 1712, Richard Pullen was Innkeeper there and in 1734, Joseph Kidder. After his death, the property was sold in 1743 by the grandnephew of Gov. Stoughton, Rev. William Cooper, to Dr. William Douglass who lived in it and it is called in his estate his "mansion house" in Green Dragon Lane. It was inherited by Douglass's sister, Catherine Kerr, who in turn sold it to St. Andrew's Lodge of Freemasons, who again established it as an Inn, it being for a short time called "The Freemasons Arms," but reverting to the older name of "Green Dragon" before the Revolution, when it became celebrated as a rallying place of the patriots. St. Andrew's Lodge owned the property for more than a century.

Joseph Kidder sold his rights to his father's estate and, with his wife, and the other heirs of her father, sold out their rights in the Dowse property. He may have died at sea.

Joseph Kidder of Boston . . . do . . . constitute my well beloved wife Dorothy Kidder to be my . . . Attorney . . . hereby granting . . . full power . . . to bargain . . . all our Right . . . in the Real Estate . . . of her Father Mr. Nathaniel Dowse late of Charlestown . . . Gentn. . . Deceased, 3 June 1731. Wit: Blackett Jekyle, Jos. Marion. (Middlesex Co., Deeds, 35 : 57.)

* The Dows-Dowse Genealogy, by Azro M. Dows, states that Joseph Kidder was born in Billerica, 21 Apr. 1689; the Genealogies and Estates of Charlestown, by Wyman, gives the date of his birth as, 21 Apr. 1683, the Vital Records of Billerica give the birth of a Joseph, son of James Kidder, jr., and his wife, Elizabeth as occurring, 21 Apr. 1683. Joseph Kidder of Charlestown and Boston was undoubtedly that son of Ephraim Kidder of Billerica, who was "at Sea" when his father's estate was administered in 1724. Other records place his birth, unfortunately not recorded, as about 1689.

When Dorothy died is not known. Her children became members of Trinity Church where her cousin, Joseph Dowse, was churchwarden for many years.

39. HANNAH³ DOWSE (NATHANIEL², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 28 Oct. 1697, died there, 23 July 1723. She married in Charlestown, 16 May 1715, THOMAS MOUSELL,* born there, 9 Mar. 1691-2, died there, 4 Feb. 1733, son of RALPH and ANNA (FOWLE) MOUSELL. He married secondly, 11 Nov. 1731, Sarah (Lynde) Phillips, born in Charlestown, 25 Feb. 1699-1700, died after 1737, daughter of Nicholas and Dorothy (Stanton) Lynde, and widow of Jonathan Phillips. She married thirdly, 10 Feb. 1735-6, Ezekiel Cheever.

Hannah Dowse was only about twenty-six when she died. Her rights in her father's estate were left by him to her children, and were handled by their stepmother, her third husband, Ezekiel Cheever, and Caleb Lamson, who served as their guardians. To her children was also willed the property their father would have inherited if he had not died before his mother. Their grandmother, Anna (Fowle) Mousell left the following will:

I Anna Mousell . . . of Charlestown, widow, . . . I give . . . to my daughter Anna Mousell . . . my best feather bed . . . furniture . . . linnen . . . also . . . profits of my estate . . . for one year after my death . . .

I . . . give . . . to my son Samuel Mousel . . . all my real estate, my dwelling house . . . also one piece of Upland . . . lying . . . partly on Capt. Dowse. Also one piece of land lying . . . southwesterly on . . . land . . . of my late son Thomas Mousell.

My will is to settle all my real estate . . . on Son Samuel Mousell . . . provided he pay out . . . one fourth part . . . to my daughter Anna Mousell . . . one fourth . . . to my daughter Mary Whittemore . . . and one-fourth . . . to the four children of my late son . . . Thomas Mousell . . . Also to my Granddaughter Mary Mousell . . . twenty pounds . . .

Whereas my son Samuel is now abroad . . . my daughter Anna . . . is to keep possession of estate . . . until he return . . . should he never return . . . all real estate . . . to daughter Anna . . . provided she pay out . . . legacies . . . as heretofore mentioned.

I appoint . . . my sons . . . Samuel Mousell and Jabez Whittimore . . . Executors . . . 27th day of April, 1738. Filed 13 Dec. 1742. (Middlesex Probate, 15614.)

The daughter, Anna Mousell, made her will ten years later. Since she does not mention her brother Samuel, nor any heirs of his, he probably died unmarried before her. Possibly he never did return from "abroad."

I . . . Anna Mousell of Charlestown . . . single woman . . . being of sound mind . . . tho weak in body . . . Imprs My will is that . . . my debts be paid by my dear Kinswoman Mary Mousell . . . who now lives with me, . . . and whom I appoint sole Executor of this my last will . . .

Item I give . . . unto my sister Mary Whittemore . . . silk robe . . . and to her daughter Anna a pair of Gold Ear Rings.

Item . . . to Hannah Thomas and Joseph Mousell, children of my brother Thomas Mousell deceased . . . a gold ring.

Item . . . to my Kinswoman, Mary Mousell . . . all the remaining part of my estate, 21 Jan. 1748, filed, 12 Mar. 1757. (Ibid., 15615.)

It is evident that Mary, the youngest daughter of Thomas and Hannah (Dowse) Mousell lived with her Aunt Anna Mousell until the latter's death.

Thomas Mousell was a master-mariner and hence called "Captain" Thomas Mousell. He acquired considerable property in Charlestown for so young a man.

Administration of the Estate of Thomas Mousell was taken in 1733. The bond is signed Sarah Mousell, Stephen Lemmon, Joseph Lynde, but is not filled in.

April 30 1733 I appoint Mrs. Sarah Mousall of Charlestown Widow Administrx on the Estate of her late Husband Capt. Thomas Mousell late of sd town Deced with Joseph (sic) Lemmon Esqr and Joseph Lynde Gentleman both of sd town Sureties.

In the Inventory, taken 19 July 1733, is mentioned as being "In the best Room" twelve leather chairs, large looking glass, Japanned tea table, 2 pictures with gilt frames, pair dogs with brass heads, glass ware on mantle tree, pewter teapot and salver, etc., and also in the rest of house, rugs, curtains, linnen, chest with legs, chest with drawers, pewter, bedsteads, desks, wigs, silver porringers, walnut chest of "drawyers," silver canister and teaspoons, and negroes, in all an estate of £971 12s. 4d. The widow's thirds were set off to Sarah on 27 Feb. 1733-4.

Sarah Mousell Relict . . . of Thomas Mousell late of Charlestown Deceased . . . Humbly Sheweth That her sd Husband at his decease left three children the youngest being then near ten years old, . . . and since his Decease hath had a Son born which is now about two years and three months old and weakly . . . Wherefore your Petitioner . . . prays that there may be a consideration Allowed out of the . . . Estate to sd Infant . . . Sarah Mousall. June the 9th 1735.

He owned, as shown by a memorandum in the papers, 117 acres of land at Sunderland. The distribution of the estate mentions heirs as, the widow Sarah Mousell, who received one-third, while two-thirds were given to "Thomas the Eldest Son," "To Mary," "To Hannah," so it is not surprising that Joseph's mother wanted her son recognized. (Middlesex Probate, 15626.)

Caleb Lamson of Charlestown, Stonecutter, was appointed guardian to Thomas Mousell "in his 11th Year" Son of Thomas Mousell late of sd Town Decd, with Joseph Frost, Gentleman, and Nathaniel Frothingham, Joyner, as sureties, 3 Sept. 1733. (Ibid., 15630.)

Capt. Ezekiel Cheever was appointed guardian of Hannah Mousell, a minor, aged seventeen, daughter of Thomas Mousell, mariner, etc., at her own election, 17 Aug. 1733. (Ibid., 15627.)

Caleb Lamson was also appointed guardian of Mary Mousell, aged twelve, daughter of Thomas Mousell, etc., same sureties, 3 Sept. 1733. In this guardianship is found an account signed, 16 Apr. 1733, by Mary Mousell "of lawful age" in which is mentioned her share in Benjamin Dowse's estate and "Money Due from your Mother Cheever." (Ibid., 15629.)

Evidently, it was considered best for the interests of all of the heirs of Nathaniel Dowse to sell some of their inheritance and they petitioned the Court for the power to so do.

v. JOSEPH MOUSELL, b. 4 Mar. 1732-3, posthumous, living 1757.

40. ELIZABETH³ DOWSE (NATHANIEL², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 7 Mar. 1701, died in Boston, Mass., probably about 1765. She married first, in Charlestown, 7 July 1721, JOHN EDES, born there, 5 Nov. 1698, died there of smallpox, 2 Dec. 1721, son of JOHN and GRACE (LAWRENCE) EDES. She married secondly, in Charlestown, 31 July 1729, SAMUEL CLARK, JR., born in Boston, probably on 11 Oct. 1694,* died there before 1747, son of SAMUEL and SARAH (AVIS) CLARK.

John Edes, Elizabeth's first husband, lived only a few months after his marriage and apparently she had no child by him. Administration on his estate was granted to his widow, 19 Jan. 1721-2, but she declined to serve so a second administration was granted to

* Samuel Clark married, 8 Sept. 1692, Sarah Avis. On 11 Oct. 1694, Samuel, son of Samuel and Mary is recorded as born. There is no other mention of Samuel with wife Mary, but Samuel and wife Sarah had:

Sarah, b. 30 Mar. 1696, (m. 1 Nov. 1716, Robert Harris, by Cotton Mather.)

James, b. 2 Dec. 1697.

John, b. 19 Oct. 1699.

William, b. 26 Oct. 1701.

Mary, b. 15 Apr. 1704, (m. 6 June 1723, Nathaniel Vial, by Cotton Mather.)

Abigail, b. 4 Dec. 1710, (m. 9 June 1737, Francis Bramham, by Samuel Mather.)

William, b. 25 Dec. 1712.

Elizabeth, b. 21 Mar. 1715, (m. 17 Jan. 1737, John Stevens, by Samuel Mather.)

It is more than probable that in the first entry of the child Samuel that his mother is given Mary by mistake. Samuel Clark, shipwright, of Boston, made his will, 16 July 1747, filed 10 Jan. 1748, mentioning "daughter-in-law Sarah Clark," widow of son Samuel Clark, deceased, and her two children, Nathaniel and Samuel, and again speaks of her as "my said Son Samuel's Wife the aforementioned Elizabeth," the latter being correct. He gives to granddaughter Sarah Clark, daughter of said son Samuel; to son John Clark; to daughter Mary Vial; to granddaughter Sarah Burnham (or Bramham); to three grandsons, Charles Robert and William Harris; to sons, James and William Clark and daughter Elizabeth, Stevens. Son James, Executor, and friend, Deacon William Larabee, overseer. Wit: John Brown, Timothy Brown, John Proctor. From the mention of Sarah, dau. of son Samuel, evidently not a child by Elizabeth (Dowse) (Edes) Clark, it is probable that Samuel Clark, jr., is identical with the Samuel who married, 25 Apr. 1717, Patience Maier, by Cotton Mather and had baptised in the North Church, Sarah, 17 May 1719; Hannah, 5 Feb. 1720; Patience, b. 30 June 1722; Samuel, 4 Aug. 1723; James, 15 Nov. 1724.

his mother, Grace (Lawrence) Edes, on 30 Mar. 1724, and after her death, to his brother Daniel Edes, 30 Mar. 1758.

In 1735 and 1736, Samuel Clark, Jr., and Elizabeth, his wife, join with her sisters, Dorothy (Dowse) Kidder and Sarah (Dowse) Godfrey, in selling property of Nathaniel and Dorothy (Edmands) Dowse, their parents. (See under Dorothy's account.) Just when Samuel Clark died has not been ascertained; a Samuel Clark, mariner, had an administrator appointed, 23 Feb. 1747. This was possibly the administration of Samuel Clark, jr., but in the deeds he is called like his father, a shipwright.

No proof has been found of a third marriage for Elizabeth, and it is possible that she was the widow Elizabeth Clark, who had appointed as administrator, 1 Jan. 1765, Theophilus Lillie, since this Elizabeth owned a pew in the New North Church.

CHILDREN baptised in the New North Church, Boston, Mass.:

- 108. i. SAMUEL CLARK, bapt. 3 May 1730, died young.
- 109. ii. NATHANIEL CLARK, bapt. 10 Aug. 1731.
- 110. iii. SAMUEL CLARK, bapt. 12 May 1734.

41. SARAH³ DOWSE (NATHANIEL², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 30 Nov. 1704, died after 1740, probably in Boston, Mass. She married in Boston, 14 Sept. 1732, JAMES GODFREY, birth, parentage, and death unknown.*

James Godfrey was a mariner. They lived for a number of years in Charlestown, then removing to Boston.

James and Sarah Godfrey join with the other heirs of her parents in selling his property. (See account of Dorothy.) Evidently James knew that he might not be on shore to attend to the matter for he gave his wife a power of Attorney as follows:

I James Godfrey of Charlestown . . . Marriner . . . do constitute my well beloved wife Sarah Godfrey to be my . . . attorney . . . hereby granting her . . . full power . . . to bargain . . . all our Right . . . in the Real Estate . . . of her late father Mr. Nathanael Dowse late of Charlestown . . . Gentn. deceased, 11 Sept. 1735. Wit: Jos. Marion, Wm. Story. (Middlesex Co., Deeds, 37 : 58.)

The last mention found of Sarah and James is in this deed:

I Sarah Godfrey . . . wife of James Godfrey of Boston . . . by power of Attorney . . . in consideration of fifteen pounds . . . paid by John

* The Dows-Dowse Genealogy states that Sarah (Dowse) Godfrey married secondly, 17 Oct. 1744, Joseph Burbank. This must be an error, for the Vital Records of Bradford, Mass., give the same date for the marriage of Joseph Burbank to Sarah Dowse.

Trumball of Charlestown pipe maker . . . do confirm unto him . . . my right . . . in that certain pew in the meeting house in Charlestown . . . which was part of the estate of . . . my father . . . Nathaniel Dowse, 5 Aug. 1740. Wit: Davis Whitman, Rachel Kidder. (Ibid., 50 : 657.)

CHILD probably born in Charlestown, Mass.:

111. i. SARAH GODFREY, bapt. 13 June 1736. (A Sarah Godfrey married in the New North Church, 19 Jan. 1758, John Jhonnot.)

45. SAMUEL³ DOWSE (JONATHAN², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 20 July 1700, died about 1 Nov. 1746. He married before 1743 ISABELLA —, who died 4 Sept. 1745. He was published to marry, 27 Sept. 1746, ELIZABETH SEWALL but probably died too soon to fulfill his intention.

Samuel Dowse left no children, but his will and inventory are so interesting that they have been included here and he is, therefore, carried forward as a head of a family. It is possible that his wife was English, as there seems no clue to her or her aunt mentioned in his will. He was an important and wealthy man. In 1722 he was probably the only surviving heir of his mother and bought from two of the heirs of his grandfather, Samuel Ballard, their share of his property.

We John Pomroy of Boston . . . Mariner and Lydia his wife and Ebenezer Thornton of Boston . . . shipwright and Elizabeth his wife (which said Lydia and Elizabeth are two of the Grandchildren and heirs of Samuel Ballard late of Charlestown . . . shipwright deced) for . . . the Sum of Forty-Six pounds . . . paid by Samuel Dowse of Charlestown . . . Gentlm. another of the grandchildren of the sd Samll Ballard . . . Do . . . Quitclaim unto the sd Samll Dowse All our Right . . . in . . . that certain Dwelling house and land whereof the said Samll Ballard dyed seized . . . lying in Charlestown, 19 Feb. 1722. Wit: Isaac Paine, Martha Thornton. (Middlesex Co., Deeds, 22 : 196.)

Samuel Dowse left the following Will, and his Inventory shows the belongings of a wealthy citizen of the day. He gives to his step-mother's sister, Susanna (Winslow) Alden, one hundred pounds, because of her kindness to him and his late wife.

IN THE NAME OF GOD, AMEN. I, Samuel Dowse of Charlestown, in the County of Middlesex in New England Gentleman, being at present very Sick and weak in Body, but of Sound and disposing Mind and memory (blessed be God for it) and not knowing how Soon it may please God in His allwise Providence to call me out of this Life, do therefore make and ordain this my Last Will and Testament, in manner and Form following,

ROBERT LUIST
JOSEPH PHILLIPS
THAD MASON

Middlesex Ss Decembr 9, 1746

Messrs Joseph Dowse Nathaniel Dowse and Henry Newman presented the foregoing Inventory on oath as including so much of his Estate as is in this Province (exclusive of what is plainly disposed of by will)

S. DANFORTH J. Prob.

(Middlesex Co., Probate, 6401.)

Samuel Dowse left no children and as seen in his will the bulk of his estate went to his brother, Joseph Dowse, Esq.

48. KATHERINE³ DOWSE (JONATHAN², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 17 May 1707, died in Concord, Mass., 8 Nov. 1782. She married first, in Charlestown, 12 Nov. 1724, THOMAS WYER, born in Charlestown, 14 Oct. 1704, died before May 1747, son of WILLIAM and ELEANOR (JENNER) WYER. She married secondly, in Charlestown, 12 May 1747, ISAAC JOHNSON, (his second wife), died in 1748, son of ELEAZER JOHNSON.

Katharine (Dowse) Wyer was admitted to the First Church of Charlestown, 31 Dec. 1727. At the time of her marriage she was only a little over seventeen years old, and her husband was just twenty.

CHILDREN born in Charlestown, Mass.:

By first husband, THOMAS WYER:

112. i. WILLIAM WYER, b. 21 Apr. 1728, living 1748.

113. ii. KATHERINE WYER, b. 14 Sept. 1731, probably died before 1748, since her grandfather Wyer made no bequest to her in his Will.

By second husband, Capt. ISAAC JOHNSON:

114. iii. SAMUEL JOHNSON, b. 1748, non compos mentis.

49. JOSEPH³ DOWSE (JONATHAN², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 14 Jan. 1709, died in Salem, Mass., 30 Jan. 1785, being buried from St. Peter's Church, there, 7 Feb. 1785. He married in King's Chapel, Boston, 14 Dec. 1734, JANE STEEL, born in Boston, 20 Apr. 1709, died in Boston, being buried from Trinity Church, 24 Mar. 1788, daughter of THOMAS and JANE (ALLEN) STEEL.

Joseph Dowse was the eldest son of his father by the latter's second wife, Katharine Winslow. His father gave him a portion of his estate, as he did to his brother Nathaniel, but the bulk of the property went to Samuel, the eldest son by the first wife. Samuel, dying without children, bequeathed the most of his property to Joseph who thus became an unusually wealthy man. Joseph settled in Boston after his marriage and becoming a member of the Church of England, evidently his wife's form of religion, he joined Trinity Church where he was a Warden in 1740. He also served on important committees of the town, such as that for erecting a brick building for an office of the Judge of Probate for Suffolk County on Queen (now Court) Street. He was auditor of various town accounts in 1759; on a committee to visit schools 1762, and on perambulating committees in 1754, '55, '56, '62, '63.

He was a merchant at the time of the great fire of 1760 and his property on Milk Street was destroyed. He opened an insurance office on King Street near the Long Wharf and used a policy specially printed for him, the first known use of such a policy in the Province. He also claimed £173 damage on Charlestown property in the fire of 17 June 1775.

Shortly after the fire of 1760, Joseph Dowse went to Salem, having been appointed Surveyor of the Port of Salem with a salary of forty pounds. Mrs. Mary (Vial) Holyoke, in her interesting diary, gives many glimpses of the family. On the 20 Apr. 1760, she writes, Uncle Simpson and aunt Came to Salem, tarried at Mr. Lechmere's.

The Surveyor came with them.

17 Sept. 1761, Uncle Simpson and aunt came. Mr. Dowse and Walter spent the evening here.

22 Nov. 1768, My Cousin Jonson and Miss Katy Dowse here.

7 Feb. 1785, I was at Mr Dowses funeral with the Dr and Childr. He was Carried into (St. Peter's) Chh. a sermon.

17 Feb. 1785, We D. tea at Mrs. Dowse.

26 Sept. 1794, She went to Boston in the Stage and on 1 Oct. called at Mrs. Dowses. Mrs. Dowse had been dead some years but her daughters were living in Boston and she probably called on them.

18 Dec. 1795, she notes the Misses Dows and Miss Paine at Mr. Turner's.

In an interleaved almanac of this same Mrs. Mary Holyoke, who was the second wife of Dr. Edward Augustus Holyoke, is noted under 20 Apr. 1775, that Tommy Dowse was buried.

We hear that Joseph Dowse Esq; is confirm'd in the Office of Surveyor and Searcher of his Majesties Customs for the Ports of Salem and Marblehead, in the Room of Jonathan Pue, Esq; deceased. (Boston Evening Gazette, 11 Aug. 1760.)

Doctor William Bentley, pastor of the East Church Salem, under date of 8 Feb. 1785, in his diary states, "Jo. Dowse buried on the 6th instant."

There are many deeds in the name of Joseph Dowse, in Middlesex, Suffolk and Essex Counties. He first appears in these records in 1739.

Oliver Smith proceeded to sell all the property of Joseph Dowse, and deeds are found in the various registries where his lands were situated. The following examples contain mentions of the family:

Oliver Smith, acting as attorney for Jonathan Dowse of the parish of St. Peter Carmarthen, Wales, for five shillings paid by Margaret Dowse, Catherine Dowse and Isabella Dowse, quits to them all right the said Jonathan has in the estate of his father, Joseph Dowse, Esq., late of Salem, deceased, 1 Jan. 1786. (Suffolk County, Deeds, 186 : 235.)

Margaret Dowse, Catherine Dowse and Isabella Dowse, all of Boston, for five shillings quit to Oliver Smith of Boston, land on Milk St., Boston, formerly the property of their late deceased father, Joseph Dowse, Esq., 1 Mar. 1786. (Ibid., 186 : 235.)

It is evident from the above that Jane (Steel) Dowse returned to Boston after her husband's death. Both Joseph Dowse and his brother Nathaniel sympathised with the British in the War, and their unmarried sons left the country. Joseph signed address to General Gage, June 11, 1774, on his arrival at Salem.

123. ix. THOMAS, bapt. 1 Oct. 1752, buried 20 Apr. 1775. Mrs. Holyoke twice writes "Tommy Dowse buried," on this date and the account book of Gideon Clough, Sexton of St. Peter's, Salem shows in 1775: "Apr. 20, Mr thomas Dowse buried in the church yard with under Barrss [bearers] and tolling grants and Standly Bells, 1.10.0 to opeing the toambe and the paul 8. o. o, to my attendance at the house and six poarters 9. o. o."

50. ELIZABETH³ DOWSE (JONATHAN², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 13 Nov. 1710, died after 1746. She married, 31 Aug. 1730, Boston, MORREAU SARRAZIN, birth, death, and parents unknown.

Elizabeth's husband owned no land in Boston nor is there any mention of him or Elizabeth in the probate records of Suffolk or Middlesex counties. They had one child baptised in Boston, but no further mention is to be found in church or town records of the name of Sarrazin. It is evident from her father's will that he did not approve of his son-in-law and that he was anxious to provide for her, as at the close of the marriage, a lump sum of four hundred pounds was to be paid her or her surviving children or child. When her brother Samuel, who was to pay this money, died two years later he left his sister, Elizabeth Sarrazin, five hundred pounds outright, her husband having died in the interim.

* These dates are from the copy of the Christ Church books in City Hall, Boston. It is an evident error in each case.

† These dates are also from copied records, but possibly so stand in the originals as elderly women are not apt to be accurate as to ages.

CHILD born in Boston, Mass.:

124. i. JONATHAN SARRAZIN, bapt. 15 Apr. 1731, Christ Church, Boston.

52. NATHANIEL³ DOWSE (JONATHAN², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., baptised there, 6 Feb. 1715, died, probably in Charlestown, about 1783. He married (published in Charlestown, 11 Jan. 1746) MARGARET TEMPLE, born 1724, died in 1771, aged forty-seven years, being buried from Christ's Church, Boston, 18 June 1771, daughter of Hon. ROBERT and MEHITABLE (NELSON) TEMPLE of Boston and granddaughter of THOMAS TEMPLE of Stantonbury, Bucks, England.

Nathaniel Dowse was a sea-captain, having his residence in Charlestown where he was a parishioner of the First Church in 1763. His father and his brother Samuel both made him bequests of land in Charlestown, but like most sea-faring men he was probably a poor business man, for he appears to have so mishandled his property that he left an insolvent estate. He also suffered a property loss when Charlestown was burned by the British, 17 June 1775, for which he afterwards sought redress in the courts, estimating his losses at £600. In 1759, for some reason his children went to Concord and were warned * from town: "Allowed Caution of Concord against Samuel Dowse, Nathaniel, Pascal, Robert, and Edward, who came from Charlestown about 3 mos. preceding 21 Feb. 1759." (Middlesex Co., Court of Sessions, 1748-61, p. 526.) His wife may have gone there with the children, while he was at sea.

* The custom of warning was one by which the town tried to protect itself against possible town charges. If anyone came into a town who was not vouched for or bonded by someone, the town issued a formal notice that the person was not accepted as an inhabitant; then, if later they became impoverished, their support fell on the town from which they came and not on the town to which they had moved. Many a valuable citizen was warned on his first entry into a town. See Benton, Warning out in New England, 1911.

Margaret Temple
From the original by Jonathan B. Blackburn in the Wentrop Collection to me in his last Will, Jane Dowse releases her dower, 10 Sept. 1773. Wit: Ann Hubbard, Jonathan Dowse. (Middlesex County, Deeds, 75 : 103.)

In 1887, there was in the possession of Robert C. Winthrop of Boston, a portrait of a young lady dressed in green silk trimmed with lace, seated on a garden bank with flowers in her hand. It was painted by Jonathan B. Blackburn who was in Boston, 1750-1765, and represents a daughter of Hon. Robert Temple. Robert C. Winthrop, Jr., stated that he was not sure that it was Margaret (Temple) Dowse, but at the time it came into the possession of his father, who was a grand nephew of hers, about forty years before, tradition associated it with her name. There is no reason to doubt but what it was a portrait of her, left by her father on his hasty departure from Boston at the outbreak of the War.

Nathaniel Dowse died insolvent and intestate.

Nathaniel Dowse, merchant, with Joseph Cordis, merchant and Samuel Nicholson, Esq. as sureties, all of Charlestown, was appointed administrator of the estate of Nathaniel Dowse late of Charlestown, deceased, intestate, 3 Feb. 1783.

The inventory of his estate, made 7 May 1783, amounted to £234. The estate owed among others, Pascal Dowse of Boston and Nathaniel Dowse of Medford. At the public sale of his effects, 7 Oct. 1783, they bought his clothing. These two sons received in the settlement about fifty per cent of what was owed them.

All but Nancy and Edward were baptised in Trinity Church, Boston.

54. MARY³ DOWSE (ELEAZER², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 26 Apr. 1697, died after 1749 and before 1762. She married about 1719, Capt. BARTHOLOMEW TROW, who died in Charlestown, being buried, 27 Oct. 1758.

Bartholomew Trow served in Moulton's Regiment under Pepperrell at Louisburg, 1745. He owned the covenant in the Charlestown church, 6 Aug. 1720, but was not admitted to full communion until, 13 Oct. 1754. In 1749, he is called "cordwainer" in deeds but in 1749, the last deed found, he is called "gentleman." With his wife, Mary, her brother, Jonathan Dowse, and her sister, Elizabeth (Dowse) Davis, he joined in selling property of their father, Eleazer Dowse, in 1740 and 1741, while in 1749, Bartholomew and Mary deed to their brother Jonathan Dowse, money his father had left the latter provisionally. (See under Eleazer² Dowse.)

Bartholomew Trow left no will and no administration was taken on his estate in Middlesex County. His wife probably survived him and died about 1762, for in that year their children sold some of Mary's father's property.

55. ELIZABETH³ DOWSE (ELEAZER², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 10 Feb. 1699, died probably in Charlestown, between 20 May and 16 July 1743. She married about 1718, BARNABAS DAVIS, born about 1698, bapt. in Charlestown, 2 Feb. 1718, died probably in Charlestown, about 1767, son of JAMES DAVIS.

Barnabas Davis was a shipwright. In 1740 and 1741 he joined with his wife's brother and sister in sales of some of the real estate of their father, Eleazer Dowse. (See under Eleazer² Dowse.)

57. JONATHAN³ DOWSE (ELEAZER², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 21 Feb. 1705, died there, after 1767, probably about 1774. He married first, in Charlestown, 19 May 1726, ELIZABETH UPHAM, born there, 6 Mar. 1699–1700, died there, 19 June 1730, of smallpox, daughter of PHINEAS and MARY (MELLEN) UPHAM. He married secondly, in Queen Anne's Episcopal Church, Newbury, Mass., MARY BLANCHARD "of Littleton," born about 1709, Charlestown, died there, 25 July 1752, of childbirth, probably daughter of THOMAS and SARAH BLANCHARD. He was published to marry, 2 June 1754, Elizabeth Wendover, but apparently did not carry out his intention.

Jonathan Dowse was a joiner by trade. His father-in-law, Phineas Upham, died in 1720, his wife, Mary, surviving him. Whether she died in 1739, leaving her rights in Upham's estate to be distributed to the heirs, or some other Upham relative died about that time, a necessity arose for a guardian for Elizabeth (Upham) Dowse's only surviving child, Eleazer Dowse and his father was appointed.

Jonathan Dowse of Charlestown, Joyner and Walter Russell of Cambridge Husbandman bothe in the County of Middlesex, bonded for Jonathan as guardian of Eleazer Dowse a minor in the 13th Year of his age. (Middlesex Co., Probate, 6393.)

Wit: Edward Larkin, Michael Gill. (Ibid., 59 : 352.)

Jonathan Dowse left no will and no administration was taken on his estate. He evidently settled his estate before he died, for with his children, whose rights were only contingent upon his death, he deeded away his real estate.

Although the deed was drawn in 1767, it was not recorded until 1774. Probably Jonathan and his children made arrangements among themselves to take effect on his death. He may have been in feeble health at the time the deed was drawn.

Fourth Generation

64. SAMUEL⁴ DOWSE (MAXIMILIAN³, SAMUEL², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 17 Oct. 1712, probably died there, between 1736 and 1752. He married in Newbury, Mass., 2 Oct. 1733, ALICE CALL, baptised in Charlestown, 9 Dec. 1716, died there, 4 Feb. 1754, daughter of CALEB and ANN (WAFFE) CALL.

Samuel Dowse probably died soon after 1736, the year his second child was born. He does not appear in the land records, there are no will and no administration on his estate in Cambridge. His youngest son is said to have died in 1762, but no guardianship of him is found. When Samuel Dowse, Jr., was eighteen he chose a guardian, but his father may have been dead for years. This is more probable than not since there were but the two children.

Richard Sutton of Charlestown, Leather dresser, and Abraham Hasey of Cambridge, hosewright, bonded for Richard Sutton as "Guardian unto Samuel (at his own Election) a Minor upwards of fourteen years of age son of Samuel Dowse, late of Charlestown . . . deceased." (Middlesex Co., Probate Records, 6402.)

In 1764, Samuel⁵ Dowse, sells property of his mother's and at this time is evidently the only heir.

163. ii. JOHN, b. 11 Mar. 1736, d. 13 Sept. 1762, Martinique, West Indies.

70. BENJAMIN⁴ DOWSE (DOWS) (EBENEZER³, SAMUEL², LAWRENCE¹), born in Billerica, Mass., 6 Feb. 1716, died in Billerica, about 1793. He married in Tewksbury, Mass., 24 Aug. 1749, HANNAH MEARS, born there, 21 Apr. 1728, died after 1793, daughter of ROBERT and HANNAH (FROST) MEARS.

Benjamin Dows was a farmer in Billerica. His name appears in the sittings in the church there about 1736. He paid the minister's rate in 1755 and a province tax in 1776.

The Massachusetts rolls give the service of Benjamin Dows of Billerica. This Benjamin⁴ Dows was fifty-nine when the service began and sixty-one when it ended and he had a son Benjamin who was twenty-three when the war opened. It would seem as if it must have been the junior who served, but the service is not given as of Benjamin Dows junior and the younger man is always called "junior" in all mention of him. There is, however, no pension record for Benjamin Dows as probably would have been if it was the junior since the latter lived until 1821. The probability is that it was Benjamin Sr., who served but the doubt cannot be absolutely solved.

Dows, Benjamin, Billerica. Private, Capt. Jonathan Stickney's co., Col. Bridge's regt. of Minute Men, which marched on the alarm of April 19, 1775, (service not given); also, Capt. Jonathan Stickney's co., Col. Solomon Kidder's co., Col. Brook's regt., company return endorsed, 1776, "said Dows reported at White Plains"; also, 3rd Corporal, Capt. Edward Farmer's co., Col. Jonathan Reed's regt.; enlisted Sept. 29, 1777; discharged Nov. 8, 1777; service, 41 days; company marched to reinforce Northern Army; roll sworn to in Middlesex county. (Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the Revolutionary War, 4 : 937.)

Benjamin Dows did not trade in real estate and there are only a few deeds of his on the record books.

Benjamin Dows of Billerica . . . Yeoman . . . in consideration of bringing unto me and my wife during our Natural lives the one half of all the produce . . . and of Love . . . which I bare unto my Son Joseph Dows of Billerica . . . husbandman . . . Viz my homestead . . . being the one half of the house lot . . . of my father Ebenezer Dows given me by deed from him bearing date June 6th 1741, signed, 30 June 1783. (Ibid., 112-39.)

Benja Dows of Billerica . . . Yeoman . . . in Consideration of . . . Money paid me . . . by my Son Joseph Dows . . . Confirm unto him . . . the other moiety . . . of said estate you have heretofore had, Hannah Dows releases her dower, 23 Nov. 1783. (Ibid., 112 : 40.)

Benjamin Dows left a will which for some reason was never probated. Also the heirs signed a release which was never recorded. The two old papers are now in the possession of Azro M. Dows of Lowell, Mass.

In the name of God Amen, I Benjamin Dows of Billerica . . . Yeoman, being of sound disposing mind . . . Ordain this my last will and Testament, and dispose of my worldly Substance as follows:

He married, 7 Nov. 1751, MEHITABLE PAYSON of Dorchester, daughter of JONATHAN and ANN PAYSON (died 20 Nov. 1783), born in Dorchester 30 Sept. 1725. John Dowse died intestate and Thomas Williams, appointed administrator presented an inventory, 26 May 1790, of a total of £65. 10s. "It appearing that the personal estate of the said John Dowse is insufficient to pay his debts, and that the widow Mehitable Dowse is in distressed circumstances, etc., granted, to allow her out of the said estate the sum of thirty pounds a year." 72. EBENEZER⁴ DOWSE (DOWS) (EBENEZER³, SAMUEL², LAWRENCE¹), born in Billerica, Mass., 29 Dec. 1719, died there about 1790. He married in Chelmsford, Mass., 18 Jan. 1758, ELIZABETH COREY, born in Chelmsford, 4 Mar. 1729, died in Thetford, Vt., 9 Dec. 1798, daughter of JOHN and RUTH (KEYES) COREY.*

* Elizabeth (Corey) Dowse is known to have been born about 1728. In 1753, Betty Corey, a single woman, with her sister Ruth, was caring for the young children of John and Ruth Corey in Chelmsford, and on this account, and because they had nursed their father and mother in their last illness, asked to be given some of the property which their brother John had evidently taken. The young children were Priscilla, b. 5 Feb. 1745-6; Joanna, b. 17 Nov. 1748; Benoni, b. 11 May 1752. Since there was no other Elizabeth Corey of marriageable age living in Chelmsford in 1758, and since Elizabeth (Corey) Dowse, named a daughter Ruth and one Joanna, it is evident that the parents of Ebenezer's wife were John and Ruth (Keyes) Corey. See Middlesex Probate, 5200, 5202.

In the printed rolls of the Massachusetts Soldiers in the Revolutionary War, service is given to an Ebenezer Dowse, but the Pension record of Eleazer Dowse of Sherborn shows that this service belonged to him and that the name Ebenezer is a mistake of the recorder.

Ebenezer Dowse was a farmer in Billerica, paying a minister's rate there in 1755, and a province tax in 1776.

He left no will and his widow petitioned the Court as follows:

Billerica Janr 22nd 1790 I Elizabeth Dows of Billerica in the County of Middlesex wido of Ebenezer Dows of said Town yeoman Deceast Intestate being unable to administer on the estate of my Deceast Husband pray the Honoble Judge of Probate . . . To give administration to Asa Spaulding of sd Billerica Gentleman Which will be agreeable to your Honours humb servant Elizabeth Dows Test Isaac Barron, Nathaniel Hill.

Asa Spaulding gave bond in Court, with Isaac Stearns and Moses Jaquith as sureties, 19 Mar. 1790. Strangely enough Ebenezer is called "Edward" in the bond.

An account was filed in court dated 8 Nov. 1791. A distribution is signed by Elizabeth Dows, Moses Jaquith, Joanna Jaquith, Nath. Dows, Ruth Dows. (Middlesex Co., Probate, 6388.)

78. ELEAZER⁴ DOWS (EBENEZER³, SAMUEL², LAWRENCE¹), born in Billerica, Mass., 26 Dec. 1734, died about 1793. He married (published in Westford, 4 Mar. 1763) LUCY PROCTOR, born in Westford, 10 Feb. 1732-3, died after 1786, daughter of THOMAS and HANNAH (BARRON) PROCTOR.

Eleazer Dows was a farmer in Billerica, where he paid a province tax in 1776 of 18s. id. He was a soldier in the French War in 1757, being injured in the forehead by a bomb when Fort Ticonderoga was stormed in 1758. He mortgaged his farm several times, each time paying off the obligation.

The Census of 1790 lists an Eleazer Dowse in Billerica, with a family consisting of two males above sixteen and one female, in his family, with one other person.

This is probably Eleazer, a son, and his wife or daughter. Lucy his wife was living in 1786. After his death, Lucy Dows, "spinster," with Jesse Dows sells the property. A widow was frequently called "spinster," even a married woman was often so-called, it did not then convey the idea of single woman as at present, so it seems probable that this Lucy was the widow of Eleazer and not his daughter who would be about twenty-four years old. It should be remembered, though, that she may have remained with her father until after his death, and have been empowered by her brothers, other than Jesse, to act for them in the matter.

125. NATHANIEL⁴ DOWSE (NATHANIEL³, JONATHAN², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., bapt. 22 May 1748, in Trinity Church, Boston; married 15 Feb. 1783, in Medford, Mass., ANNE, daughter of RICHARD and ANNE CAREY of Charlestown, bapt. 8 Mar. 1752; d. 29 Feb. 1824. Her will, probated 27 Apr. 1824, gave property to Carey connections. Nathaniel Dowse was a resident of Ward 9, Boston, in 1780; a sea-captain, news of his death at Bombay was received in Charlestown 14 Apr. 1792.

151. ELEAZER⁴ DOWSE (JONATHAN³, ELEAZER², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 2 Mar. 1728, died in Sherborn, Mass., 25 June 1807. He married first, in Charlestown, 9 Nov. 1749, EUNICE DANA, born in Oxford, Mass., in 1726, died in Charlestown, 18 Sept. 1764, daughter of JOSEPH and MARY (WOOD) DANA. He married secondly, in Charlestown, 18 Apr. 1765, MEHITABLE (BRETNALL) BARKER, born in Chelsea, Mass., 14 Jan. 1732, died in Sherborn, Mass., 16 Mar. 1809, widow of David Barker whom she married 27 Dec. 1759.

Eleazer Dowse was a leather dresser by trade. He was the only son of his father by the latter's first wife, Elizabeth Upham, inheriting some estate through her. After he became of age, he lived in Charlestown until the burning of the town by the British, on 17 June 1775. He claimed as a loss at the time, house £266; barn, work-house and smoke house, £73 6s. 8d.; fences and trees, £12; personal estate, £15; cartage of personal effects, £2 10s.; total, £369 10s. The property was situated at 132 Main Street, Charlestown. Eleazer Dowse never returned there but went instead to Sherborn, Mass., settling there on the Southville road.

He was a signer to the petition of 24 Nov. 1773 against the importation of tea, and is said to have been in the battle of Bunker Hill. One of the name enlisted in Capt. Amos Foster's company 28 July 1780 and served in Rhode Island; and again 30 Nov. 1781, in Capt. John Hayward's regiment, to reinforce the Continental Army in a time of need; but this may have been the son.

He was not admitted to the Church until 23 Dec. 1764, but his wife had been a member since 15 Sept. 1745. His admission took place three months after her death and doubtless it was that event that caused him to declare himself publicly.

His grandfather, Eleazer Dowse, had given instructions in his will that if his son Jonathan had a son, the latter was to have one hundred pounds out of the estate given to his daughter, Mary (Dowse) Trow, so in 28 July 1749, just after he became of age, Mary and her husband Bartholomew gave him land to that value and also his father gave him in September of that year a piece of land. (See account Jonathan³.)

Eleazer Dowse of Charlestown, leather dresser, for £143, mortgages to Mary Brewster of same, Widow, property purchased of George Burroughs of Newbury, Mass., Mehetable Dowse releases her dower, 20 Aug. 1770. Wit: Mary Davis, Isaac Rand. (Middlesex County, Deeds, 70 : 256.)

This was Eleazer Dowse's homestead from which he fled in 1775. Later he sold the land.

we Abigail Russell of Holliston Widow and Simon Lealand of Sherburn, Yeoman . . . in Consideration of . . . one hundred and fifteen pounds . . . to us in hand . . . [paid] by Eleazer Dowse of Sherburn (Leather Dresser) sell . . . him . . . Upland . . . in Sherburn, 12 Oct. 1778. Wit: John Stone, Jona Russell. (Ibid., 80 : 24.)

In 1779 he bought lands in Sherborn from Ruth Lealand and Samuel Bullard and in 1780, he bought more of Moses Holbrook and Adam Lealand; in 1792, he bought still more of John Brown of Dover, Mass., Meriah Brown releasing her dower, and in 1794 he again purchased property in Sherborn from Adam Lealand whose wife Prudence released her dower. (Ibid., 117 : 415, 416, 417; 126 : 259.) He never sold any of the land in Sherborn, but the purchases were added to the original homestead.

On 29 Sept. 1792, Eleazer Dowse and eighteen other men of Sherborn bought land of Adam Lealand, for 30s., for a burying place. Prudence Lealand released her dower. Wit: Betsey Badcock, Becca Dowse. (Ibid., 112 : 448.) From the small amount of money given for the purchase of the plot it is probable that Adam Lealand really gave the land and the deed was for purpose of ownership merely.

It is evident that Eleazer Dowse, whom tradition states was "a man of natural refinement & much moral worth," was excellent in business judgment. He not only raised a large family but gave them all a good education, and when in middle life he lost all he had in the War, by his industry he succeeded in again getting together a good estate. As might have been expected, he left a careful will.

I Eleazer Dowse of Sherburne . . . do make and publish this my last will and testament in manner following:

- 1st I give and bequeath to my beloved Wife Mehitable Dowse all . . . My Messuage . . . together with all my real and personal Estate . . . being in Sherburne . . . during her natural life.
- 2d I do hereby give to my son Joseph Dowse Fifty Dollars on account of his extra kindness and attention to me and my beloved wife.
- 3dly I do hereby will that whatsoever shall remain after the desease of my beloved wife Mahitable Dowse and the payment of the aforesaid legacy of Fifty Dollars to my Son Joseph Dowse. Of my real and personal Estate . . . shall be equally divided between my Sons Eleazer Dowse Joseph Dowse John Dowse James Dowse and Thomas Dowse and my Daughter Eunice Morse . . .

4thly And I do hereby will that provided the Income of my real Estate . . . shall not be sufficient for the Support of my wife . . . during her natural life my son Joseph Dowse shall have power to provide for her comfort and relief and be compensated out of the remains of said Estate

5thly I do hereby appoint my Son Joseph Dowse Sole Executor to this my last will and testament hereby revoking all former wills by me made. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and Seal this 29th Day of January in the Year of our Lord one thousand Eight Hundred and three.

The will was filed in Court, 7 July, proved 25 Aug. 1807.

The inventory of "Mr Eleazer Dowse" yeoman was made, 28 Sept. 1807, and contained among many other things, "old silver teaspoons," "old silver tablespoons," old books and pewter, mahogany teatable, in all $140.70 while the real estate was valued at $2000.

162. SAMUEL⁵ DOWSE (SAMUEL⁴, MAXIMILIAN³, SAMUEL², LAWRENCE¹), born in Charlestown, Mass., 5 Mar. 1734, and probably lived and died in the same place. In 1752 Richard Sutton of Charlestown, leather dresser, and Abraham Stacy of Cambridge, housewright, were appointed guardians, "at his own election." By occupation he was a leather dresser. He married in Charlestown, 8 Apr. 1756, ABIGAIL, daughter of SETH SWEETZER of Charlestown. She was born 29 Nov. 1734, survived her husband, married (2) James Bradish, Jr., by whom she had no children, and died Sept. 1804.

Samuel Dowse was in Capt. Isaac Hall's company and marched from Medford to take possession of Dorchester Heights in March, 1776, at the request of Washington. The service lasted only four days, but at the end of March he was in Capt. Stephen Dana's company, Col. McIntosh's regiment, and for seventeen days was in the lines in Boston. The name is found in the year 1777 as a private in Capt. Joseph Fuller's company, Col. Samuel Bullard's regiment, enlisting 20 Aug. 1777, discharged, 29 Nov. 1777, having been at Stillwater. On 10 Dec. 1777, he was in Capt. John Stetson's company, Major Edward Proctor's detachment and was discharged 1 Mar. 1778, serving under Major General William Heath. It is possible that all or a part of this military experience belongs to the son.

170. JOSEPH⁵ DOWSE (BENJAMIN⁴, EBENEZER³, SAMUEL², LAWRENCE¹), born 5 Feb. 1760, in Billerica, Mass., where he was a farmer. He married (1) 23 May 1784, in Billerica, SARAH, daughter of SAMUEL and JUDITH (POLLARD) SPRAGUE, born 27 Oct. 1768, died 8 May 1809. He married (2) 29 Jan. 1811, in Billerica, MARY, daughter of ISAAC and RHODA (WILSON) SPRAGUE, and niece to his first wife, born 3 Sept. 1789, died, 23 Jan. 1841.

Joseph Dowse applied for a pension in 1833 and gave an account of his service in the War for Independence, which is supplemented by information drawn from the Massachusetts archives. In 1776 he enlisted for six months in the company commanded by Capt. John Minot of Chelmsford, Mass., Col. Dike's regiment, and marched to Dorchester Heights about Sept. 1, where they joined the regiment of Col. Howe and was employed with others in building forts and doing guard duty until the term of enlistment ended. In the spring of 1777 he engaged for two months with Capt. John Minot, Col. Josiah Whitney's regiment, marched to Warwick Neck, Rhode Island, 10 May, and was discharged 9 July 1777. On August 15 he again enlisted for four months, under Capt. Stephen Russell, Col. Samuel Bullard's regiment, marched from Chelmsford to Bennington, Vermont, arriving the day after the battle. He was with General Warner's brigade in the Northern Department, was in the battle of Stillwater, Sept. 19 and fought under Gates. He states he was at the taking of Burgoyne, but early in October he was ordered to Albany, and then to Esopus, which the British had burned 3 Oct. 1777. From there he went to Tarrytown and White Plains, Westchester Co., New York, and received his discharge at the latter place 30 Nov., reaching home on Thanksgiving day in December. Six months later, 16 June 1778, he enlisted in Capt. Asa Lawrence's company, Col. Thomas Poor's regiment and served more than eight months in fortifying and screening the passes of the North River in that regiment which was raised for that special purpose under an act of the General Court, 20 Apr. 1778. He was discharged 11 Feb. 1779, and, apart from five weeks' service at Albany under Col. Samuel Danney, protecting the place against Indians, he took no further part in the contest.

He lived in Billerica from that time, bought a pew in the new Unitarian Church, 8 Dec. 1799, but twenty-nine years later, 9 Oct. 1829, became a deacon in the recently organized First Baptist Church, a position he held for ten years.

444. EDMUND ⁷ DOWSE (BENJAMIN ⁶, JOSEPH ⁵, ELEAZER ⁴, JONATHAN ³, ELEAZER ², LAWRENCE ¹), was born 17 Sept. 1813, in Sherborn, Mass., where he attended the public schools. He fitted for college at the "Old Wrentham Academy," Wrentham, Mass., where George V. N. Lothrop, our one time minister to Russia, was among his school-mates. In 1836 he was graduated B.A. from Amherst College, in the same class with the late Hon. Ensign Kellogg of Pittsfield, Mass.; the late Gov. Alexander H. Bullock, who was his college room-mate; Roswell D. Hitchcock, D.D., of Union Theological Seminary, New York City; the late Dr. Nathan Allen of Lowell, Mass., a writer on medical topics, whose name is familiar in Europe and America; and Stuart Robinson, D.D., one of the leading divines of the Presbyterian church in America. Soon after graduation Dr. Dowse studied theology with the late Dr. Jacob Ide of Medway, Mass., and was ordained and settled 10 Oct. 1838, as pastor of the Pilgrim Church, with which he united in his youth.

Rev. A. H. Coolidge of Leicester, Mass., contributes the following: "The circumstances of the settlement and long pastorate of Dr. Dowse are quite remarkable and perhaps unique, and are alike creditable to pastor and people. He was a native of Sherborn, and his whole life had been passed there. He was well known by all the people. His venerable and saintly grandfather, Dea. Dowse, his father and mother, and other members of the family were members of the congregation and church under his pastoral care. His young wife was also a native and resident of the town. She was a beautiful singer, a woman of superior character, much beloved by all, and is still remembered with respect and affection. Her early death was mourned by all the people, adults and children alike.

"The time of Dr. Dowse's settlement was regarded as a somewhat delicate and critical period in the history of the church. It was far from strong in number or in means; the unhappy relations occasioned by the separation of the church from the Unitarian society had not yet been healed; the church was somewhat divided in opinion, though not in feeling, in relation to the controversy between the old- and the new-school theology; the temperance agitation was then awakening the interest of the people, and they were earnestly discussing the momentous question of American slavery, and not altogether in accord with reference to the most desirable method of its treatment by the pulpit. At such a time, when these important and exciting questions, upon which there were wide differences of opinion and feeling, were under earnest discussion, when portentous 'events' were casting 'their shadows before,' the selection of a pastor was a more than usually delicate undertaking. Qualities were needed which are not often combined. It was important that the candidate for the office should be a man of ability and energy, abreast with the advanced movements of the time, but not radical, positive but judicious, true to principle but practical, in a word endowed with sound common sense and Christian grace. It was a rare expression of confidence in the youthful candidate, so thoroughly known, so identified with all the interests of the community, when he was selected pastor of the church.

"It is perhaps enough to say of Dr. Dowse, while living, that the people have never had occasion to regret their choice. These qualities, together with his manly, Christian character, his genial, friendly, and sympathetic spirit, have been in a large degree sources, on his part, of the success and harmony of his ministry of more than half a century." *

With his father and grandfather among his parishioners, he has been associated with the christenings, marriages, and deaths of several generations of descendants of Eleazer Dows (151), and after the form of Dr. Dowse shall have passed from earthly sight, his kind and genial face will long be remembered by many of the now young readers of this work.

Rev. Edmund Dowse has always taken an active interest in educational matters. He has served fifty years as member of the school committee of Sherborn, and it was largely through his influence that the Dowse High School of the same place was founded from funds contributed by Thomas Dowse. He was a chaplain of the Christian Commission in the Civil War, in the army of the Cumberland and Tennessee. He was a member of the Massachusetts Senate in 1869 and 1870. The degree of D.D. was conferred upon him, June, 1886, by his alma mater, Amherst College.

The semi-centennial anniversary of Dr. Dowse's ordination and installation as pastor of the Pilgrim Church in Sherborn was fittingly observed 10 Oct. 1888. Rev. A. H. Coolidge of Leicester, who participated, contributes the following account: "The day was delightful. The celebration was opened with a salute of fifty guns by a battery from Natick, manned by veteran soldiers of the Civil War. A large concourse filled the meetinghouse. It was composed of present and former members of the church and society, many representatives of the ministry, members of the state senate, of which Dr. Dowse had been chaplain in nine consecutive sessions, and other personal friends. The society and friends had made every provision for the success and enjoyment of the celebration. Gilmore's Orchestra, and Mrs. Jennie Patrick Walker as vocal soloist, added greatly to the character and pleasure of the occasion. A bountiful collation was served in the town hall. The services occupied the morning and afternoon, and there was also a reception, with addresses, in the evening. An interesting feature of the anniversary was the presence of the six longest settled active Congregational pastors of the state. Rev. E. E. Sturgis, D.D., of Natick presided. The opening address of welcome, in behalf of the church and people, was by Rev. A. H. Coolidge, pastor of the First Congregational Church in Leicester for thirty-one years, but for nineteen years before his ordination one of Dr. Dowse's people. Dr. Dowse responded in an appropriate and appreciative address. The impression made by him upon those present is truthfully given in a report of the press: 'In appearance Mr. Dowse gives but little indication of the touch of passing years. His voice filled without effort the spacious house. His discourse was given in the impressive, earnest, yet cheerful way with which most of his hearers had been familiar for many a long year. He was warmly applauded at its close.'

"Rev. D. S. Talcott, D.D., Dr. Dowse's predecessor, and afterward professor of sacred literature in Bangor Theological Seminary, was present and spoke tenderly of the past. Addresses were also made by other clergymen, by representatives of the senate, and by class-mates of Dr. Dowse. Hon. G. C. Crocker of the state senate, after characterizing Dr. Dowse as a model chaplain, who prayed not at, but for, his hearers, presented him a generous sum of money, as an expression of regard from his senatorial friends. Rev. Edward Strong, D D., performed a similar graceful act in behalf of friends in the neighboring towns. In responding, Dr. Dowse, standing with a purse in each hand, said that both his hands and his heart were full. Dr. Dowse entered thus upon the second half century of his ministry with renewed vigor, and with the congratulations and best wishes of all his friends.*

He married 20 June 1883 in Taunton, Mass., FANNY LEE, daughter of HENRY G. and FRANCES L. (WILLIAMS) REED of TAUNTON. She was born 25 May 1856, in Taunton. They reside in West Newton, Boston and Wianno, Mass.

He was appointed proctor at Harvard in 1873 and attended the Harvard Law School. After taking his degree he studied for a year as graduate, in Roman history and philosophy. In 1876 he began practice in Boston, making a specialty of patent law, and eventually had offices in New York. His clients were mostly manufacturers whose cases arose in the Federal Courts in all parts of the United States, and came finally in many cases before the U. S. Supreme Court. His professional career was successful but he was obliged to abandon it in 1898 to give his whole time to his own manufacturing interests, as president of the Reed and Barton Manufacturing Corporation, of the United States Fastener Company, and of the Theodore B. Starr, Inc. He was also interested in factories in Europe, which at times demanded his personal supervision. He became a director in the Waltham Watch Company, also president and director in several other metal concerns. For eleven years he was president of the Home Market Club of Boston, a member of the National Association of Manufacturers and the Boston Merchants' Association and the Economic Club. In connection with his business trips to Europe, he did a great deal of traveling; in 1904 passed five months with his family in England and on the continent, motoring from place to place. In 1906 he took the southern trip to Europe with his family, passed the winter in southern France and Italy and the summer in the British Isles, traveled over six thousand miles in his car in Italy, France, England, Scotland, and Wales. As a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society he made himself responsible for the collection and proper preservation of certain historical documents of great value for which the resources of the Society were not adequate.

He is a member of a number of clubs, associations, and historical societies. Among these may be mentioned: Brae Burn Country Club (director and vice-president); First Corps of Cadets Veterans Association; Boston Athenæum Association; Massachusetts Historical Society (was member of the council); American Antiquarian Society; Colonial Society of Massachusetts; Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants (Governor four years); General Society of Mayflower Descendants (Deputy Governor General); Pilgrim Society of Plymouth; New England Society of New York; New England Historical and Genealogical Society; Old Colony Historical Association of Taunton; Society of Colonial Wars; The Sons of the American Revolution; Bostonian Society (life member); Massachusetts Horticultural Society (life member); Wianno Club, Cape Cod (president); Club of Odd Volumes; Merchants' Club of Boston; Beacon Society of Boston; and Middlesex Club of Massachusetts.

In May 1920, he was appointed by Governor Coolidge as his personal representative at the tercentenary celebration of the sailing of the Pilgrim Fathers, in England and Holland. He was received in audience by the Queen of Holland, and took part in the various festivities at Southampton and Plymouth, services at the house of the Reverend John Robinson, receptions by the University of Leyden and by the Burgomaster of Leyden, and many meetings, dinners, and luncheons, at all of which he was received with the distinguished consideration due the Deputy Governor of the Commonwealth.

The importance and value of the early records of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts which the Historical Society has been enabled to collect and publish through Dowse's liberality, says Mr. Ware, Secretary of the Class of 1873, Harvard University, are ably set forth in the following extract from the Press:

"In publishing its historical records Massachusetts has been strangely backward, and in no direction has the neglect been greater than in the legislative records, which must ever form the backbone of the people's history under representative government. The story of the spread of population from the coast inward, of the laying out of towns and settlement of their boundaries, of the migration to frontier places and the determination of the many questions arising between settlers and Indians, between town and town, . . . can be described only from legislative records.

"Unfortunately our legislative files, consisting of the petitions and memorials from town or individual, of the surveys prepared on the order of the General Court, of the reports made by a Committee of the House or Governor's Council, and of the bills and motions laid before the House, are very imperfect and become more imperfect the farther back in time the investigator goes. Of the daily journal of its proceedings kept by the House of Representatives, which began to be printed in 1715 and continued in an unbroken series until 1777, no complete file can be found in the Commonwealth. The office of the Secretary of State has none of the printed journals before 1730, and were all the existing broken sets in Massachusetts brought together, a complete set could not be made. For generations these volumes have been rare and few of them have ever been sold publicly. Yet for provincial, local, and family history they are invaluable, supplying what can be found in no other place.

"The Massachusetts Historical Society is now making good this neglect and has issued the first volume of a series which will eventually make available the full journals of the House. This notable undertaking, so valuable to the historian and genealogist, is made possible by a fund generously supplied by Mr. W. B. H. Dowse, who is himself interested in the history of Massachusetts and thus measures his interest. The public spirit of Mr. Dowse and the Society in thus placing at the public disposal this rich deposit of our history is to be commended."

He erected a library in Sherborn in memory of his father and mother in 1913, on the one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of his father, the Reverend Edmund Dowse, D.D., for sixty-five years pastor of the Pilgrim Church in Sherborn, for sixty-seven years Chairman of the School Committee in Sherborn, and for twenty-five years Chaplain of the Mass. Senate. In 1924 he erected a memorial in Sherborn in honor of all those from Sherborn who died in the various wars of the United States from 1674 to date.

IRELAND

The Dowse Family

IN IRELAND *

INTRODUCTION

THE above way of spelling the name has been used in Ireland even down to the present day without any variation. Tradition has it that the Irish family is of Dutch origin. Persons of the name settled in Lincolnshire, England. They fought under Cromwell in Ireland, and received grants of land in Queen's County and Carlow County for their services. It is said that the first person of any note bearing the name was John Dowse. He was familiarly styled, "John the Leveller," from his ardent desire to level all monasteries and like buildings.

In Fairbairn's "Crests of Great Britain and Ireland," the Dowse Crest is thus described, "Dowse, English, — issuing from clouds two dexter hands brandishing scimitars, (in proper colors)." It is not known to have been used to any extent in England and more probably belongs to the name in Ireland. Some persons still use a seal of similar design, and others use a part of the English Coat-of-arms, namely, one greyhound, courant.

The Dowse family of Ireland apparently begins with one ANTHONY DOWSE, who was a member of the Committee for the affairs of Ireland, appointed by the House of Commons on the third of September, 1642. This Committee consisted partly of members of the Commons and partly of so-called "Adventurers." Either Anthony or Samuel Dowse, supposed to have been his son, subscribed to raise a private army for their estates in Ireland, after the Rebellion of 1641.

* See note on page 284, infra.

The will of Anthony Dowse, Haberdasher, from London, 1676, is listed in the Index to the Prerogative Court of Ireland.

In the following pedigree, the tradition that Samuel Dowse, was son of Anthony is assumed to be fact.

2. i. SAMUEL², b. as early as 1655, perhaps earlier.
- ii. JOHN. The records of St. Michan, Dublin, give the baptism of Honor, dau. of John Dowse, gent., and Honor his wife, 3 Dec. 1682, and the burial of Honor, wife of John Dowse, gent., 20 Dec. 1698. It seems possible that he might also be a son of Anthony Dowse.

These people were called "undertakers," being Protestant settlers to whom the confiscated lands of the Irish rebels were granted.

GOOD-BYE, DOWSE

From Punch, November 23, 1872

DICK DOWSE, DICK DOWSE,
Is it lavin' the House?
How'll we ever at-all-at-all manage widout you?
Give Punch hould of your hand,
While he tells to the Land
Ologone! Dick, awick, how he's peltin' about you.

Get Socrates mellow,
And he'd just be DICK's fellow,
For figure and feature and forehead so high,
Wid as good a pritince
To logical sinse,
But there's more nor the sage in our broth of a boy.

For Socrates, Solon,
Jugurtha, Timol'on,
Caisar, Augustus, or young Alcibiades,
Had divle a bit
Of the likes of your wit
Nor more nor a tom-cat or one of the Pleiades.

For whiniver DICK's pate
Shot up from his sate —
Like the sun in a state of sublimest good-humour
The worst Prose in the House
Sat as still as a mouse,
And the sleepest Mimer woke up at the rumour.

The Reporters' long faces
Got short'nin' like blazes
At this Similing Oasis such sandy stuff afther:
Why! even the Bobby
Snaked in from the Lobby,
And almost destroyed himself chokin wid laughther.

Whilst fluent SIR JACK,
 You'd stretch in a crack
 On the broad of his back wid your classical knowledge; *
 Or — you funny ould thief —
 At a tip from your Chief,
 Talk and BALL, to his grief, upon Trinity College.

But DOWSE, DICK DOWSE,
 You're lavin' the House,
 To be grave as a judge from this out to the end,
 And put on the black cap,
 You unfortunate chap!
 Well, here's luck to your Lordship — for Punch is your friend.

NOTES ON THE DOWSE PEDIGREES

The name, though spelt Douce in early days, appears to have always been pronounced in England as it is at present. In the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries the name began to be spelt phonetically, Douce or Dowse. The branch which is descended from Sir Francis Dowce (temp. James I and Charles I), in the middle of the eighteenth century reverted to the ancient way of spelling the name, viz. Douce; but kept to the ordinary pronunciation. From the pedigree in the College of Arms the Dowses of Collingbourne Ducis always spelt their name Dowse.

The Dowses of Wiltshire appear first to have been of Ludgershall, on the borders of Wiltshire and Hampshire.

King Charles I in order to counteract the influence of his Barons in Parliament created a certain number of his Royal Castles into boroughs. Ludgershall was one of these boroughs and in the Parliament of 1304-1305 Adam Douce was the burgess who represented that borough. The borough consisted of the Castle and the Manor, and as a M. P. in those days was not a post sought after, it may be presumed that Adam was a retainer of the Governor of the Castle and obeyed orders. In the Parliament of 1314-1315 Ludgershall was represented by a Walter Douce. This Walter seems to have been in request as a juror on the inquisitions which were held on the death of a Crown Tenant, to inquire into his affairs. As the duty of a juror was to give evidence as to the property of a deceased tenant, I think Walter may have been Bailiff to the Manor, and therefore well acquainted with the Royal property.* In 1351-1352 a Roger Douce of Ludgershall paid 15*d.* in taxes.† From Ludgershall the Dowses appear to have spread westward in Wiltshire, eastward into Hampshire and northward into Berkshire. Collingbourne Ducis is about a mile further northwest of Ludgershall and Collingbourne Kingston is a mile further north.

North Wilts was the center of the wool trade and cloth manufacture up to the eighteenth century, Bradford on Avon being the principal market. The cloth manufacturers, or Clothiers as they called themselves, were the sheep farmers who made their own wool into cloth. Adam Smith, at the dawn of the Industrial Revolution of the eighteenth century, when he speaks of manufacturers in his book The Wealth of Nations means farmers. No farmer then lived solely by his land.

The Dowses of Collingbourne Ducis were Sheep Farmers and Clothiers.

Richard Dowse, the first of the Collingbourne Ducis pedigree was probably born between 1430 and 1440. He is mentioned in an ancient deed ‡ as being a party with Master John Lyttel, Rector of Collingbourne Ducis, and John Hamlyn, in a grant to Richard Seymour, Esquire. He died in 1492, leaving a will.* From it he appears to have been a well-to-do yeoman. He leaves bequests to the Cathedral at Salisbury and to St. Elizabeth at Winchester, one for making seats in the church at Collingbourne Ducis; he also remembers the Rector and his two Chaplains, Sir John and Sir William; he leaves 20s. and 300 Sheep to celebrate an obit every year for his soul and for the soul of his wife, Elizabeth. To his wife Edith 300 marks and a dowry of 3 marks, to his son Stephen 10 marks, to his son John his best cloke, and to his daughter, Margaret Luttel 20 sheep.

From his leaving his sons only small legacies I infer that they were the children of his second wife Edith, and under age.

John Dowse is the first in the pedigree which is registered at the College of Arms, London. He leased some Crown lands in Collingbourne Kingston, and therefore on his death an Inquisition was held to inquire into his affairs. From it one learns that he died on March 10, 1538, and that his eldest son and heir, Richard, was nine years old.† He is not mentioned in the Subsidy Rolls of 1522–1524 as paying taxes, so he may not have been living in the Collingbournes then.‡ There is not another Subsidy Roll till 1542.

The next in the pedigree, Richard, is shown in the Subsidy Roll of 1558 as assessed at £20 worth of goods and being taxed thereon 20s. He is also shown in the Rolls of 1570–1571 and 1575 and 1576.§ In 1558 there was living at Collingbourne Ducis a Thomas Dowse, who belonged to the Dowse family of Hampshire, and who, as far as I know, was not a connection of the Dowses of Collingbourne Ducis. This Thomas had married Christian, daughter of Thomas Chafin of Bulford, Wilts, by his wife Avis, sister of Nicholas Titchborne of Hampshire. Another daughter of Thomas Chafin, named Eleanor, had married — Bowreman of Brading, Isle of Wight, and somewhere about 1560, Richard Dowse of Collingbourne Ducis married Elizabeth, daughter of Eleanor and — Bowreman of Brading. So the above-mentioned Thomas Dowse was brother-in-law to Eleanor Bowreman, and uncle by marriage to Richard's wife, Elizabeth. Eleanor's husband having died it was arranged for her and her son, John Bowreman, to live with Richard Dowse and his wife at Collingbourne Ducis. Out of this arrangement a family quarrel arose, which necessitated two Chancery Bills.|| The statements in these Bills are very involved, and bring in much extraneous matter; but from them I understand that Richard had married Elizabeth without a dower and relied on some promises of his mother-in-law. After some years Eleanor quarrelled with Richard, saying he had treated her shamefully while she had lived in his house, and finding she could no longer live with him, asked him to buy the lease of a farm for her, for her life, the life of her son John and the life of one Robert Gervil. Instead Richard had bought the lease in his own name, for his life, the life of her son, and the life of his daughter Christian. Richard counters by explaining the great expense he has been put to in bringing his mother-in-law and her goods and chattels from Brading to Collingbourne Ducis, and for building a suitable chamber to his house for her. He says he had to hire three carts, which took seven days on the road and cost £20. He then adds the following little incident, perhaps to show his honesty. On the first day of the journey his mother-in-law put a bag into his sleeve. On arriving at his house she asked for the bag, which he gave her. She then counted out fifty pounds, which she gave to her brother-in-law Thomas Dowse. She then counted out three score and ten pounds, which she gave to him, and he understood it was to pay for the great expense he had been put to, and towards the payment of his wife's dower. Some years after, his mother-in-law gave him £140 to buy the lease of a farm in his name, for his life, and the life of her son, and the life of his daughter Christian, which he also understood was towards his wife's dowry.

Richard appears to have lost the suit, for in 1590 his daughter Christian, then the widow of John Mundy * brings an action against her father Richard Dowse, and John Ridgeway, in which she says that the Court in the suit of her grandmother, Eleanor Bowreman, ordered that the lease of the farm bought by her father should be made out for the life of her grandmother, the life of John Bowreman, and for her life. Her grandmother and John Bowreman enjoyed the farm up to the time of their respective deaths. She then entered into possession and let the farm to John Ridgeway, but now John Ridgeway, having confederated with her father, refuses to pay her the rent, saying her father, Richard Dowse, is the rightful owner.

Richard Dowse must have died soon after, probably about 1591, as in the Subsidy Roll of 1592-1593 the name of his son Thomas is shown.

Thomas, the eldest son of Richard Dowse, was in 1623 granted the right to bear arms.† He died in 1626.

His second son, also a Thomas Dowse, was in 1625 living at Faraham, near Portsmouth, in Hampshire. In that year he brought a Chancery suit against his brother-in-law, the Rev. John Mompesson, to recover some money he had lent him.‡ This Thomas Dowse had a son Walter Dowse, mentioned later.§

Probably it is owing to their short period of prosperity that I have found so little about the Dowses of Collingbourne Ducis. They are not shown in the tracts of Sir Thomas Phillipps, in one of which he gives a list of Wiltshire Gentry in the reign of Charles I and II, and they are not mentioned in the printed Herald's Visitation to Wiltshire in 1623, but that account is not official and contains several inaccuracies. It was quite by chance that I learned in the College of Arms, London, that the Dowses of Collingbourne Ducis had been granted the right to bear Arms at the Visitation of 1623, and that they had a registered pedigree. And it was the merest curiosity that induced me to get a copy of it. The Arms described in the Heraldry Books of Burke are bogus, were never granted by the College of Arms and are quite unlike those that were granted.

Another Thomas Dowse, a nephew to the Thomas Dowse mentioned above as being brother-in-law to Eleanor Bowreman, owned a farm at Collingbourne Ducis, and in 1582 one of his sons, afterwards created Sir Francis Dowse, was living on it and continued to live there till 1612, when he probably went to live at Nether Wallop, Hants. In 1642 he was living at Great Bedwyn, six miles and a half north of Collingbourne Ducis. I think this probably intimacy between the two Dowse families influenced the career of Thomas Dowse who came to Ireland.

Richard, the eldest son of Thomas Dowse, was born 1587,* and seems to have been an easy-going man. He married at St. Thomas', Salisbury, June 29, 1615, Martha, daughter of the Rev. Thomas South of Swakeley or Swallowcliffe, Wilts.† It was perhaps to stock a farm that in 1616 he borrowed £300 from his father and gave him a bond for £500.‡ In 1628, after his father's death, he makes a piteous complaint in a Chancery Bill, that his wife's aunt, Jane Tooker, left £200 to his wife in trust, for the education and maintenance of his children; that his wife had received £100 of it, but though he is in bad circumstances and cannot support his wife and children, the trustee, Richard South, will not let him have the remaining £100. Richard South answers, that Aunt Jane in her will expressly stated that "the said £200 shall not come into the hands of Richard Dowse or of his father, Thomas," and that he knows Richard Dowse is in bad circumstances, and he would like to give him the £100, but under the terms of the will he does not dare to do so.§ From the tone of the complaint Richard does not seem to have inherited a large property from his father. In 1630, in another Chancery Bill,|| Richard complains that he borrowed £100 from his father, and was induced to give him a bond for £200; that he repaid his father, but forgot to see the bond destroyed. His father made his will in 1626, and died shortly after, leaving about £1000 worth of property (the will is not now in existence), and making his wife, Complainant's mother, and John Mompesson, executors. The Complainant lived about twenty miles from Collingbourne Ducis and had not seen much of his father of late. Now his mother, John Mompesson and his younger brother declared that the £100 was never paid as the bond was not destroyed.

It is a pity this will has not come down to us, as it would be interesting to see how Thomas Dowse left his property and what he had. Richard evidently implies that his father was influenced against him in making his will and the not making his eldest son one of the executors is certainly marked.

The Statute of Merchant Bonds, Salisbury,* shows Richard borrowed money from Richard and Edward South, and I daresay from other people. I understand these bonds were used as safeguard that the money borrowed would be paid by a certain date; otherwise the debtor could be sued for the full amount of the bond. In 1641 Richard Dowse sold his property in the Manor of Collingbourne Ducis to his nephew, Walter Dowse, for £400. In the same year Walter Dowse gave his uncle Richard a bond for £1500,† so that beside the land for £400 Richard Dowse must have sold Walter other property worth £350, making a total of £750, for which Walter Dowse gave his bond for £1500. From a deed I find that Richard was living in 1653. The register of the church at Collingbourne Ducis only begins in 1653 and the burial of Richard is not in it. So it is likely that he ceased to live there when he sold his property. There are no entries in the church register of any of Richard Dowse's children. It may be only a coincidence, but in 1665 a William Dowse died in Dublin, and a Richard Dowse was Ensign in the army that served in Ireland before 1649, being given a land debenture for his services, which he sold. A Richard Dowse died in Dublin in 1704. In the pedigree, William and Richard are the names of the other two children of the above Richard Dowse. Walter Dowse sold the lands he had bought from Richard Dowse shortly afterwards, and the last Dowse entry in the church register is in 1665.

As I had no idea till I arrived in Ireland that the Dowses of Collingbourne Ducis were connected with the Dowses of Ireland, I had not been specially interested in them, and what I have put down above is what I learned while investigating the second of the Dowses of Hampshire, so that I should not be surprised if there is not something more to be discovered.

* Statute of Merchant Bonds, Salisbury, Richard Dowse, as before, gave a bond for £400 to Richard South of Lockerley, Generosus 1629; also one for £400 to Edward South of Swakeley, Armiger, 1631.

I have mentioned before that Sir Francis Dowse lived for many years at Collingbourne Ducis and that in 1642 he was living at Great Bedwyn. One of his brothers, Edward Dowse, a captain in the Royal Navy, was member of Parliament for Portsmouth in the Long Parliament, and I think it was through his influence that Thomas, the second son of Richard Dowse of Collingbourne Ducis, obtained the post of Collector of the Revenue, and in 1648 was one of the Collectors for Farringdon Ward Within, London.* In 1648 Thomas Dowse married Anne, the only daughter of Thomas Cramporne of Sawbridgeworth, Herts. In 1649 Thomas filed a Chancery Bill against Anthony and Daniel Cramporne, in which Thomas Dowse says that Thomas Cramporne died some twenty-two years ago, when his daughter Anne, Complainant's wife, was six months old, leaving his estate in equal parts between his widow and daughter. The widow married Anthony Cramporne, and a Daniel Cramporne was appointed the child's guardian. He complains that Anthony and Daniel Cramporne have used his wife's estate for their own use, to his great loss. Daniel Cramporne answers, that he was appointed Anne's guardian when she was fourteen years old, and in 1647, when she was twenty-one, he went with her through all the accounts of her estate, with which she was satisfied and gave him a release.†

Thomas Dowse was living at this time in the Parish of All Hallows the Less in Upper Thames Street, London.‡ On April 25, 1650, he there baptised his eldest son, Samuel, and in 1652 he was appointed a Commissioner of the Revenue at Wexford, Ireland, where he arrived in November, 1652. There were three Commissioners of the Revenue at Wexford, Mr. Ambrose Andrews, Mr. Bartholomew Hussey, and Mr. Thomas Dowse, each having a salary of £100 a year and quarters.§ On April 26, 1653, it is ordered that Mr. Thomas Dowse is to have the house in the town now used as a store house.|| In August, 1654, Thomas Dowse died and, I think, suddenly, as he made a nuncupative will (i.e. spoken). In it he leaves everything to his living wife, Anne Dowse, and the witnesses are Thomas Sadleir and Ambrose Andrews.¶ From what one has learned of the relations of Anne Dowse with her own people in Hertfordshire, and from what seems to have been the state of her father-in-law's affairs, it is easy to understand that she had no choice but to remain in Ireland. The officers of the garrison at Wexford appear to have helped her, and she got the lease of a cottage and garden in Wexford, at a rent of 12s. a year for six years.* From the answer to a petition she made to the Commissioners of the Commonwealth one learns that she "is left with a great charge of children in a very deplorable condition, having nothing to releave them but some few goods left her by her said deceased husband, amounting to the value of Forty-three Pounds or thereabouts, Which were seized upon for some debts due by her said late husband to the Common Wealth for Customs, Excise and Tythes." Her petition was granted and the goods restored to her.† But she must have been in a very unfortunate condition, left with a family of babies, the eldest Samuel four years old, without means among strangers. In 1658 she filed a Chancery Bill in which she complains she engaged Isaacks Gale, a merchant of Wexford, who went to England the year before to recover for her a debt of £20 due to her by Walter Dowse of Wiltshire, Gentleman, and other monies due to her; but now Isaacks Gale refuses to say whether he has recovered the money or not, and also refuses to give her back her bond or receipts.‡

It is unfortunate, but I am sure it was not Anne's fault, that the relationship between her late husband and Walter Dowse is not stated in the Bill. She, no doubt, entered into details, but the unsympathetic lawyer would write down only what he considered essential. But the Bill tells enough for it is to be presumed that it was to his cousin that Thomas lent £10 and after the custom of the time, as instanced in the bond transactions of Richard Dowse with his father and with his cousins, Richard and Edward South, took his cousin's bond for £20. I regret to say that I am told it is highly improbable that any more definite proof of the relationship will ever come to light.

One can see that the prospects of the young Dowse family in Ireland were not of the brightest, nor were their chances of success in life enhanced by the Restoration, when all the friends and companions of their father had to fly or retire into obscurity. So it is not surprising that in the existing documents of that time, there is little mention of them and none of Samuel Dowse. Thus for the early Irish pedigree I rely on a letter written by my great-grandfather, Richard Dowse of Dungannon, to a son Thomas in London. He writes in 1815: "My Great-Grandfather, Samuel Dowse, was an Englishman, who settled in the reign of Queen Anne at Craan in co. Wexford." He then details the pedigree of his branch of the family up to his time. At the end of the letter he adds, as an afterthought: "My Gt.-Grandfather Samuel had a brother, who settled in co. Waterford, and altered the spelling of his name."

In a Chancery Bill of 1673 a William Dowse is a defendant.* He appears to have been an overseer, superintending the cutting down of some woods near Cloghman, co. Wexford. I think there can be no doubt that this William must be the brother of Samuel who afterwards settled in co. Waterford and changed the spelling of the name to Douse.

In 1679 a Jeremiah Dowse is ordained a priest at Leighlin.† He may be another brother of Samuel, but I cannot help thinking that the name ought to have been written Dawson in the Leighlin Register Book and not Dowse. My reasons are that he is shown as being a B.A. No Jeremiah Dowse graduated in either England or Ireland at that time. Further he never was presented with a living and I can find no trace of him after his ordination; but in July, 1679, a Jeremiah Dawson, a graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, and A.B., was presented with a living of Rathdrum.

I was formerly of opinion that my great-grandfather, in his letter to his son Thomas, meant that Samuel Dowse came to Ireland in the reign of Queen Anne. But since I found out that Anne, the widow of Thomas Dowse, remained in Ireland with her children, the presumptive evidence is so strong in favour of her son Samuel settling in Ireland that when my great-grandfather says a Samuel Dowse settled at Craan in the reign of Queen Anne, it seems a certainty that he is the Samuel, the son of Thomas and Anne Dowse. Samuel Dowse, no doubt, considered and called himself an Englishman, and I think that what my great-grandfather really meant was that he knew that his great-grandfather Samuel Dowse was an Englishman and that he settled at Craan in the reign of Queen Anne, but that was all he knew about him, and he did not know when he came to Ireland. The only other Samuel Dowse at that time who might have settled in Ireland is the son of an Anthony Dowse of London, and he had no brother William.

There are legends about Samuel Dowse, but I have not found any evidence that confirms them. He is said to have been in the army of William III. I have searched all the Army Lists and muster rolls extant of the period, and have not found a Samuel Douce in either the English or Dutch regiments in any rank. But it is quite possible that he served in a local levy; that there were some is evident from a petition of a Captain Knox.‡ He says he raised a Company from among the Protestants of Wexford in 1690 and held Wexford for King William, and afterwards commanded the company at the siege of Limerick. On enquiry at the Record Office, Dublin, I was told they had no records of the local levies of that time. There is also a story that Samuel Dowse received a grant of land for his services in the army. William III attempted to give some of his favorites grants of confiscated land, but Parliament intervened and the confiscated lands were put up at auction to the highest bidder. No Dowse is shown as buying any of these confiscated lands. The story perhaps arose from the grants of land which formed a part of the pay of the Officers and men of Cromwell's army.

Though so little is known of Samuel Dowse he must have been liked and thought well of in his day, as the name of Samuel was so popular in the succeeding generations, both in the Wexford and Waterford branches.

My great-grandfather says Samuel had two sons, William and Robert. William, he says, settled in the Manor of Wingfield, co. Wexford (probably at Ballinabarney), and had a son Matthew, who married his cousin, Sarah Dowse, my great-grandfather's aunt.

My great-grandfather says that Robert Dowse, Samuel's second son, had Craan on his father's death, and died himself in 1718, leaving a young family.

Richard Dowse of Craan, eldest son of Robert, prospered during his long life and is said to have left a considerable fortune to his grandchildren. His tombstone in Kilpipe churchyard records that he died December 21, 1801, aged ninety-two years.

The same stone also records the death of Elizabeth Dowse on February 25, 1784, aged seventy-two years. I suppose this Elizabeth was the wife of Richard, though it does not say so on the tombstone. The branch of the family descended from this Richard say they have never heard of a Dowse of Craan before him. Richard in his will says he holds Craan on a lease which expires with him, but there are no Dowse leases existing earlier than 1806. I have not been able to find out on what terms Richard held Craan, so I have let my great-grandfather's statement stand; for, though I have found nothing to prove it, I have found nothing to disprove it.

Perhaps a possible solution is that Robert Dowse died in not very affluent circumstances, and the two elder children, Sarah and Richard, were taken charge of by their uncle William of Ballinabarney, while the widow, Mary Dowse, having given up the farm at Craan, went with her four younger children to live at Camolin, with her father Thomas Tobin. Richard, in the course of time, was able to lease Craan again, but the continuity having been broken, he came to be looked upon during his long life as the first Dowse of Craan.

This may also explain how it was that Robert's youngest son, Thomas, settled so far away from the parish of Kilpipe, which may be looked upon as the Ludgershall of the Irish Dowses.

Robert, second son of Robert Dowse of Craan, died unmarried in London. Henry, third son of Robert Dowse of Craan, lived with his brother Thomas and died, unmarried, in 1803, aged ninety and is buried at Ferns. Thomas, fourth son of Robert Dowse of Craan, settled at Ballingale on the River Slaney in the parish of Ferns. He died in 1807, aged ninety-three years and is buried at Ferns.

I do not think it is necessary to say anything of the later Dowses, as there is a good deal of documentary evidence about them. But I have made tentative pedigrees and made some notes on the Dowses of co. Waterford and on those who, I think, are descended from William, the brother of Robert Dowse.

I may add that my father in some notes he made on the family says, a story was current in his day that the Irish Dowses came to Ireland from Bourne in England. This story might be some mutilated tradition of their having come from Collingbourne Ducis.

NOTES

I think it probable that William, the brother of Samuel, had two sons, the eldest, William, and obtained a lease of Ballyduffs. He made a will and died in 1740, leaving a widow and six children, all under age.*

* Diocese of Waterford, Will, October 14, 1740. Record Office, Dublin.

His eldest son, John Douse, inherited Ballyduffs, and from deeds I find he had a son William and daughter Elizabeth.* I do not know whom he married or when he died; he left no will. His only son William died in 1785, after making a will.†

William's sister, Elizabeth, married Charles Langley, a Skinner of Waterford, inherited Ballyduffs on the death of her brother, and had issue. I have found nothing about the other children of the second William Douse.

I presume Samuel was the son of the first William Douse, as John Douse of Ballyduffs mentions in a deed Samuel Douse of the Ironworks, Clughereen, and had business transactions with him. This Samuel married in 1696 Mary Popkins.‡ In a Chancery Bill of 1716 § I find Samuel Douse described as of Browsterfield, co. Kerry. Browsterfield was part of some confiscated lands bought by a Sir Francis Browster in 1703, about six miles from Killarney. His son Francis built a house on the property and called it Browsterfield. Samuel Douse was perhaps in Mr. Browster's employ.

The same Chancery Bill says that Samuel obtained a lease of lands in the townland of Clughereen on the Lake of Killarney, about 1718, and Samuel soon after started some ironworks there. In 1751 Samuel Douse died, having made a will in which he leaves everything to his son Samuel.||

From a Chancery Bill ¶ I learned that John Douse was a son of Samuel Douse of Clughereen. In 1722 John tried under the act of Queen Anne against the growth of popery, to get some land from a Maurice Hussey. In 1723 he married Judith Riggs by whom he got some land called Coolshanavally, near the city of Cork.†† He seems to have been an easy-going man, and from numerous deeds and Chancery Bills appears to have spent a good part of his time in raising money on his wife's property.‡‡ The property seems eventually to have got into the hands of his father, and was sold by his brother Samuel in 1754. As Samuel Douse, who died in 1751, does not mention his son John in his will, it is possible that John Douse died in his father's lifetime, without issue. However, I have come across a John Douse in London who, I think, may be the same John, but as yet I have not been able to prove it.

Samuel Douse the second was an attorney in Dublin, and from a deed I find he married there Ann, the daughter of H. Kemp of Dublin. On his father's death he succeeded to the Clughereen ironworks and managed them so well that he lost everything in them. Eventually in a deed he gave up all his leases for the benefit of his creditors.* He died in 1772 and in his will left all he possessed to his creditors.†

In a deed I found that Samuel the second had a son Samuel. I have been told by a Miss Moriarty that this Samuel the third made a fortune in London, married and had an only child, Ann, who in 1809 married in Dublin Stephen Trant Moriarty, merchant of William Street, Dublin.‡

My great-grandfather in his letter to his son says that the Dowses who settled in co. Waterford, altered the spelling of the name. This seems borne out by their deeds, in which the name is nearly always spelled Douse.

NOTES

The Ferns Church Registers only begin in 1774,* but I think all the early Dowses are buried there, the probable reason being that it was the only graveyard for members of the church of Ireland in the neighborhood.

* See p. 299.

I am told that the present graveyard at Kilpipe was only opened the latter part of the eighteenth century, the old graveyard of Kilpipe, five miles away being only used by members of the church of Rome. I paid two visits to Ferns churchyard, in the hopes of finding some Dowse inscriptions, but failed to find any. The churchyard is in the neglected state which appears the proper thing in Ireland, covered with a luxuriant growth of nettles, coarse grass, and brambles, the tombs falling to pieces and with many hidden pitfalls. Both days I was there were rather soft, and I had difficulty in making my way about, but I think I examined all the stones. Most of the tombstones of members of the church of Ireland were large flat slabs of a soft stone, which had weathered badly, facing upwards and the lettering nearly or quite illegible. The stones also seemed to have been used for sharpening tools upon. So there may be several Dowse tombstones but they cannot be identified. However, the Register records the burial of a Samuel Dowse in 1779, of a Thomas Dowse in 1780, and an Ann Dowse, formerly Daylon, in 1783. Samuel and Thomas were probably the sons of William of Ballinabarney, son of Samuel Dowse. Ann Daylon may have been the wife of Thomas. My great-grandfather only makes mention of Mathew as a son of William Dowse, because Mathew married my great-grandfather's Aunt Sarah, and as he was only writing to his son about his own branch of the family, it did not appear to him necessary to say anything about the other children of William Dowse.

Mrs. Wilson, a descendant of Richard Dowse of Craan (d. 1801), tells me her great-grandfather, Thomas Dowse of Barnadown, used to visit his cousin, Edward Wingfield Dowse, at Cookstown. That makes it extremely probable that Edward Wingfield was a great-grandson of William Dowse of Ballinabarney, as he would then be second cousin once removed to Thomas Dowse of Barnadown. Thomas Dowse of Kilmolin, father of Edward Wingfield, in his will dated 1784 * mentions his brothers, Robert and Samuel Dowse. In 1909 Mr. William B. H. Dowse of Boston, U. S. A., sent me several pedigrees of Irish Dowses which had been obtained from the respective families about 1880. Among them is one which says they are descended from a Robert Dowse of Friarstown, co. Carlow, who was the son of a Thomas Dowse of co. Wexford. I am inclined to identify this Robert with the Robert, brother of Thomas Dowse of Kilmolin, with the Robert Dowse who married Alice Hopkins † and with the Robert Dowse of Tullow, who was buried at Ferns in 1814, aged eighty-five. The religious census of 1766 does not appear to give any Dowses as then living in co. Carlow, so probably this Robert Dowse went to co. Carlow some time after his marriage.

Mr. John Dowse, now of Ballinabarney, tells me that his great-grandfather was the Samuel Dowse who married Susan Woodbourne in 1770.* The pedigree from this Samuel is what he has given me. It is possible that this Samuel was the brother of Thomas Dowse of Kilmolin. The Church Register of Enniskerry begins in 1677 and the first Dowse entry is the baptism of Mary, daughter of Thomas and Margaret Dowse of Powerscourt, on April 20, 1758.† Thomas was probably in the employ of Lord Powerscourt. His wife brought him a good dowry. Two deeds show that she owned No. 12 Henrietta Street, Dublin,‡ then occupied by Sackville Gardiner, second son of the Right Hon. Luke Gardiner. It is now a very disreputable tenement house. She also had lands in co. Dublin, which she sold in 1761 for £3710.§

In 1758 Dowse leased from Lord Powerscourt lands in Kilmolin for £30, for his life, his wife's life, and the life of Hester Mangher, his wife's daughter. He was greatly upset at the idea of his son, Edward Wingfield, marrying Frances Clark, the daughter of a glass seller in Mary Street, Dublin, and in his will says that if his son marries Frances Clarke he leaves him five shillings only. Thomas Dowse died suddenly after dinner, on Sunday, June 29, 1786, aged sixty-four years. His son's marriage might have been the cause.

I have been told that Edward Wingfield Dowse was agent to Lord Powerscourt. He lived at Cookstown, close to Enniskerry. In 1796 he executed a deed in which he says he owes Lord Powerscourt £7000, and to secure payment assigns to Lord Powerscourt all his lands, his several leases, his stock of cattle, sheep, horses, etc., and all his household furniture in his dwelling house at Cookstown.|| In this he mentions his sons, William and Edward Dowse. In 1818 he is party to a deed in which his brother-in-law, B. F. Morgan, raises some money on mortgage. He then describes himself as of Feltram Castle, co. Dublin, late of Kilmolin, co. Wicklow.¶ I have not come across anything further of this branch, and I do not know whether they are extinct or not.

In 1833 a Thomas Dowse of Ballinabarney died. In his will he leaves his property to five nephews, Edward and William Smith, William and Thomas Haskins, and John Hopkins; an annuity of £5 to his cousin, Richard Dowse of Garryho. co. Wicklow, and a legacy of £5 to Richard's son, Matthew Dowse. The Kilpipe Church Register shows that this Thomas Dowse of Ballinabarney was buried there in 1833 aged eighty-one years, and so was born in 1752.* He may have been the son of that Samuel whom I have made the third son of William Dowse of Ballinabarney.

Mr. John Dowse, now of Ballinabarney, tells me that Mathew Dowse lived at Ballyrory, in the Manor of Wingfield. Perhaps a William Dowse, mentioned in the Religious Census of 1766 as of Ballinabarney,† and Richard, his cousin, mentioned in the will of Thomas Dowse (d. 1833), were sons of Mathew and Sarah Dowse of Ballyrory, and Richard may have been the Richard Dowse of Barnadown, buried at Kilpipe in 1839, aged ninety-five years, and so born in 1744. He may have come from Garryho, which is only two or three miles away, to Barnadown, to ensure receiving his annuity of five pounds left him by his cousin, Thomas.

Among the pedigrees sent me by Mr. William B. H. Dowse of Boston, U. S. A., is one of the Mathew Dowses. They trace back to a Mathew Dowse who married a Sarah Stone, and who would coincide as regards dates with the Mathew, son of Richard Dowse, to whom Thomas Dowse left a legacy of five pounds in 1833. See note on p. 295 supra.

In the foregoing pedigrees I have attempted to trace the male descent only of the various branches, and accordingly have not mentioned the daughters. I do not pretend, however, to have mentioned all the sons or even all the branches of the family.

ERRATA

A descendant of Lawrence Dowse, whose line of ancestry in this Genealogy is erroneous, has asked me to prepare corrections of the more glaring mistakes for insertion in such of the volumes as can be located.

It may be as well to state that the arrangement of the English families was my work but not the order of these families in the book. The ancestry of Lawrence Dowse, the immigrant, should have immediately preceded the account of his descendants, the other families either being put in an appendix or in a section by themselves. In brief, I worked out the descendants of Lawrence Dowse down to the fourth generation in all lines and to a later one in some of them. My work can be distinguished from the rest because I always include the will or administration if any exists and the land records of each individual. When I had done a certain amount of work, Mr. W. B. H. Dowse and I differed about the procedure, he, having previously said to get all biographical details, stated that he wanted all of them cut out. I, believing that the value of a genealogy is in putting in all proofs found, could not agree with him, so turned over to him the very rough manuscript to use as he saw fit. I afterwards furnished him with later findings on several things on which I had been working and was rather dismayed to find that, whereas the final statements were used, the arguments that were used before the final proofs were discovered were never cut out of the manuscript. See the account of Hon. Jonathan Dowse, beginning on page 122, for an instance of this.

Corrections:

On page 124, as can be seen by the argument preceding the tangled statement, line 12 should read, "They are Dowse arms, though no arms have been found belonging to Lawrence Dowse's forbears,". The next sentence should be crossed out, then it should read, "One of the quarterings is that of the Winslows," and the rest of the sentence after, "the Hon. Jonat. Dows Esqr, 1725," should also be crossed out. It would be well to then place an asterisk after the 1725, and write a footnote stating that the Arms are those of Dowse of Hampshire, to which family Lawrence Dowse did not belong and those of Katherine (Winslow) (Herbert) Dowse, second wife of Hon. Jonathan Dowse.

On page 133, the beginning of the fourth paragraph should read, Ebenezer Dowse owned a house and land in Billerica, not Benjamin Dowse.

The greatest mistake is in the lines descending from Eleazer⁴ Dows (*Ebenezer*³, *Samuel*², *Lawrence*¹), on page 176. His distant cousin, Eleazer⁴ Dows (*Jonathan*³, *Eleazer*², *Lawrence*¹), appears on the next page, 177. The compiler to whom the rough manuscript was given made an error in writing forward the descendants of the first Eleazer and gave to both of these men of the same name, the same ancestry and never caught his error in all of his proof-reading of galley and page proof nor in his indexing. It would be well for anyone in tracing back the line of ancestry of any individual in this book following the fourth generation to use only the numbers of the individuals. That is, when anyone is found through the index as head of a family, to find the number at the left of his name in a preceding list of children, take the number of the father of these children and find that in another preceding list of children and so on until the immigrant Lawrence Dowse is reached, paying no attention to the pedigree line given in parenthesis after the name of the head of each family.

The errors in the pedigree line occur on the following pages, and the name should be spelled Dows.

Page 210, No. 402, Juliet-Buckingham⁷ Dowse. She is also out of order and should precede No. 406. No. 419, David⁷ Dowse; No. 425, Tracy⁷ Dowse.

Page 225, No. 532, Edwin-Livermore⁸ Dowse; No. 542, Juliet-Ector Orr, of the 8th generation from Lawrence Dowse; but not born Dowse.

The lines as given in Azro-M. Dows' "Dows Genealogy" are correct.
