INTRODUCTION.

In collecting together this history of the descendants of Daniel (6) Alden and his ancestors, it is with the hope that sometime the genealogy of the entire family founded by John Alden and his wife Priscilla may be published, at which time this data may be of assistance.

For the biographical sketches of John (1) Alden and Joseph (2), we are greatly indebted to the articles published in "The New England Historical and Genealogical Register," by Mrs. Charles L. Alden of Troy, N. Y.; the "Story of the Life of the First John Alden of America," published under the direction of Augustus E. Alden; valuable data culled from the "Memorial of Descendants of Hon. John Alden," published by Ebenezer Alden, M. D., in 1867; and also to many of my co-descendants for contributions and assistance.

The reader in tracing the lines of Alden ancestry will be aided by noting the bracketed numbers which refer to the individual biographical sketch and which are arranged consecutively. The collateral family lines, in each case, give only the direct descent to the connection with the Alden family.

The index contains the names of all persons referred to in the text, no matter how remotely associated with the Aldens or their collateral families.

SIXTH IN DESCENT FROM JOHN AND PRISCILLA

Also brief sketches of his ancestors and collateral family lines

HON. JOHN ALDEN, ancestor of most persons bearing the name of Alden in this country, was one of the Plymouth Pilgrims, and the last male survivor of those who came in the Mayflower in 1620.

He was not of the Leyden Church, but, as Bradford in his "History of Plymouth Plantation" informs us, "was hired for a cooper at Southampton, where the ship victualed; and being a hopeful young man was much desired, but left to his own liking to go or stay when he came here; but he stayed and married here."

He was born in 1599 in England. His ancestors* have not been traced as far as known to the writer. Tradition says that he was of fine Saxon type, the tallest man in the Colony.

He was then only twenty-one years old, the youngest signer

*Undoubtedly he was of early English stock. The name was well known at the time of the Norman invasion in 1066. In Domesday Book, the record of the census ordered by the Conqueror in 1086, the names Alden, Allden, Aldene, and Aldenus, appear in nearly all of the eastern counties from Hertfordshire to York,—these were the counties that felt most the impress of the Danish invaders in the ninth century. Many of them are written as "tenants in capite," that is, as holding lands directly from the King, and many more as having been land-owners in the time of Edward, the Confessor, or succeeding years.

Thus it is evident that a large number of Aldens were of prominence and long standing during the Saxon rule; but, under the despotism of Norman reign, they dropped from importance, with very many of their countrymen, into common place among the multitude. However, the name did not become hidden in obscurity, as later it appears again in the old districts. Nor did the Aldens entirely lose position, as is adequately proved by their recorded armorial bearings, especially among the Aldens of Hertfordshire.

Nothing is known of the family connections of the Pilgrim Alden. It was John Alden of Hertfordshire, a lawyer of the Middle Temple, to whom the coat-of-arms usually designated in this country as the Alden Coat-of-Arms, was granted in 1607. That he was the head of the family is probable and, while it is hardly to be supposed that John of the Mayflower Company was one of his household, yet it is not beyond possibility that he was indebted to the lawyer John for the education that enabled him to act so creditably in the public affairs of the Colony. This, however, is all a surmise.

Arms granted to John Alden of the Middle Temple in 1607.

"He beareth Gules, three Crescents within a bordure engrailed Ermine by the name of Alden.

"Out of a ducal coronet perpale gules and sable, a demi-lion."

of the civil compact drawn up in the cabin of the Mayflower while lying in Cape Cod (now Provincetown) Harbor a few days before the company disembarked on the bleak shore that was thereafter to be their home. He was also the oldest survivor of all those who affixed their signatures to that famous document.

He lived in Plymouth until his removal to Duxbury in 1627 to the farm at "Eagle Tree Point" about eight miles distant from Plymouth. His house in Duxbury was destroyed by fire, the location of the same being near the site of the house of Jonathan Alden, his son, with whom he was living when he died. The house now standing, and known as the "John Alden House," was probably built by his grandson, Col. John Alden, about 1700. This house and part of the original farm is now controlled by the Alden Kindred of America, and it is of interest to note that this property has never left the possession of some of his descendants up to the present time.

In 1633 he was chosen a member of the Board of Assistants to the Governor and continued to hold that position with a few interruptions as long as he lived. From 1666 to 1687 he was first of the Board of Assistants, and was styled Deputy Governor, and on him devolved the duty of presiding in the absence of the Governor; and on these occasions he ruled with dignity and perseverance. Holding offices of the highest trust, no important measure was proposed, or any responsible agency ordered in which he had not a part. He was in 1646 made a member of the Council of War for Plymouth and served in that capacity for many years; many times an arbitrator, a surveyor of lands for the Government, as well as for individuals; and on important occasions was appointed to act as agent or attorney for the Colony. In 1641 he was elected a Deputy for Duxbury to the General Court and continued to serve as such until 1650. He was chosen Treasurer in 1656 and held that office for three successive years, having succeeded Miles Standish in that office.

In those days the salary of public officers was very small, and a refusal to serve was not received under penalty of fine. Constant devotion to the public service so reduced his estate that the Court took notice of it and, valuing him so highly, felt that he could not readily be dispensed with, and immediate action was taken as appears in the following record:

"In regard that Mr. Alden is low in his estate and occasioned to spend time at the courts on the Contrey's occasions and so hath done this many years, the Court have allowed him a small gratuity, the sum of ten pounds to be payed by the Treasurer."

He was possessed of sound judgment and of talents which were by no means ordinary and disputable. The writers who mention him bear ample testimony to his industry, integrity, and exemplary piety, and he has been represented as a man of great humility, and eminent for the sanctity of his life. He was decided, ardent, resolute and persevering; indifferent to danger, a bold and hardy man of incorruptible integrity: a firm supporter of the clergy and the church, and everything of an innovating nature received his determined opposition.

It has been said that he owned but very little property, because the inventory of his estate shows only £50. This is not so. He divided his estate among his children and in his last days he lived with his son Jonathan, as mentioned previously. In 1626, he, Standish, Brewster, Holland, and others of the principal men of the Colony, agreed to pay the Colony's debts contracted in England and elsewhere to prevent the ruin of the Colony by lack of credit; and during the year bargained with the people for the consignment of the trade to them, they agreeing to free the others from the payment of the Colony's debt.

He died at Duxbury September 12, 1687, "in a good old age, an old man, and full of years; and was gathered to his people,—and his sons buried him."

Jonathan, his third son with whom he resided on the old homestead, administered on his estate, and made a final settlement with the heirs June 13, 1688.

The settlement is as follows:

"We whose names are subscribed, personally interested in the estate of John Alden senior of Duxbury, Esquire, lately deceased, do hereby acknowledge ourselves to have received, each of us our full personal proportion thereof from Jonathan Alden, Administrator thereof, do by these presents for ourselves, our heirs and executors, acquit, discharge fully the said Jonathan Alden, his heirs forever of and from all rights, dues, demands whatsoever, relating to the aforesaid estate.

"In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed and sealed this 13 day of June Anno Domine 1688.

John Alden (Seal).

Joseph Alden (Seal).

David Alden (Seal).

Priscilla Alden (Seal).

William Paybody (Seal).

Alexander Stāndish (Seal) in the right of Sarah, my wife, deceased.

John Bass (Seal), in the right of my wife Ruth, deceased.

Mary Alden (Seal).

Thomas Dillano (Seal)."

He married, probably in 1621, Priscilla, dau. of Mr. William Molines,* or Mullens, who with his wife came also in the Mayflower, and both died in the February succeeding their landing. This marriage was the second or third in the Colony.

Tradition represents Priscilla to have been very beautiful in her youth; and John also was a comely person; and considering his other accomplishments, it is not surprising that when he was sent by Capt. Standish, after the death of his wife, to solicit her hand in marriage, she preferred the messenger to the message.

“As he warmed and glowed, in his simple and eloquent language,
Quite forgetful of self, and full of the praise of his rival,
Archly the maiden smiled, and, with eyes overrunning with laughter,
Said, in a tremulous voice, ‘Why don’t you speak for yourself,
John?’ ”

As only eight children are named in the above-mentioned papers of administration of his estate, it was supposed until recently that he had no more. Bradford, however, states in his history that, at the time of his writing, John Alden and his wife Priscilla were both living, and had eleven children; and that their eldest daughter was living and had five children. In the document copied above, her name is written Priscilla (undoubtedly meant for Elizabeth).

Children:

1. Elizabeth, b. 1624.
2. John, b. abt. 1625.
3. Joseph, b. 1627.
4. Jonathan.
5. Sarah.
6. Ruth.
7. Mary.
8. David.
9. 10. 11. Names unknown.

*Bradford says of the Molines family:

“Mr. Molines and his wife and his sons, and his servant, dyed the first winter; only his daughter Priscilla survived, and married with John Alden, who are both living and have eleven children, and their eldest daughter is married and hath five children.”

It is supposed that the Molines were Walloons, or French Huguenots, for Baird’s History of Huguenot Emigration to America says: “William Molines and his daughter Priscilla, afterward wife of John Alden, and Philip De la Noye, and others, remained in Leyden. It was then that the French Huguenots went to Guiana.” There is some probability that either William Molines or his wife Alice, were English, for after this they went to England and joined the Pilgrims there. They embarked in the Speedwell, but in the readjustment of passengers after the Speedwell gave out, we find them in the Mayflower.

When Mr. Molines died, he left a will which was proved in Dorking Co., Surrey, Eng. We find by this will that he left a married daughter in England, Sarah Blunder, also his son William who was to have his father’s share if he came to America. We do not know if Sarah Blunder followed her father, but his son William did and received his father’s share of land and also a grant of land in 1633 from Plymouth to the first born of “the old servants.”

II.

44 JOSEPH ALDEN (2), of Bridgewater, Mass., the second son of John (1), was born in 1627 some time after May 22nd, the date of the division of the cattle, as in this list his sister Elizabeth's age is given as three and his brother as age one. His name does, however, appear on the list of those able to bear arms August, 1643. This list contained the names of those between the ages of sixteen and sixty.

He was a freeman in Duxbury in 1657. He served repeatedly at the "Grand Inquest" until 1687. He was one of the surveyors of highways. He is third on the list of grants of land on the north side of the town in 1683. These lots ran from Taunton line eastward seven miles, consequently he lived very near Taunton. He received his father's share of land in Bridgewater deeded to him by his father April 5, 1679.

He married, probably in 1657, Mary Simmons, daughter of Moses Simmons (who came in the "Fortune") and Sarah, his wife. She survived her husband. It is not known where Joseph and his wife were buried. Joseph Alden died February 8, 1697.

In his will he speaks of his wife and three sons, but this does not prove that he had no daughters as it was the custom to give the daughters their portion when they married. Mitchell conjectures that he had daughters, Elizabeth and Mary; and Mrs. Charles L. Alden of Troy, N. Y., ably presents her reasons for listing the names of Sarah, Mercy, and Elizabeth.

Children:

Isaac.

Joseph, born about 1667.

Sarah (possibly).

Mercy (possibly).

Elizabeth (possibly).

John, born 1674.

Mary (possibly).

and their son John was born near the time of the departure of the Pilgrims for America in 1620. The mother and child were not able to accompany him. She, however, joined him later at Plymouth. This accounts for his being recorded as a single man in the list of Pilgrims arriving in the Mayflower.

He was one of the Deputies of the General Court of Plymouth.

They had the following children:

DANIEL ALDEN, the second, (5), was born Sept. 5, 1720, in Bridgewater, Mass., the son of Daniel Alden, the first, (4). His early life was passed in Bridgewater whence he early removed to Stafford, Ct. There he was a deacon in the Congregational church, a magistrate, was much engaged in public business, and often served in the Legislature. He was universally respected. About 1782 he sold his farm at Stafford and removed to Cornish, N. H., where he resided until 1790 when, owing to failing health, he left his farm and went to live with his oldest son, Daniel, at Lebanon, N. H., where he died the same year on May 18, 1790, at the age of 70.

*Humphrey Turner, according to Rev. Samuel Deane in his history of Scituate, arrived with his family at Plymouth in 1628. He had a house-lot assigned him in 1629 and erected a house and resided there until 1633, probably the latter date being the date of the laying out of his house-lot on Kent Street in Scituate.

"He was a useful and enterprising man in the new settlement and often employed in public business."

mouth, Mass. She was born March 30, 1725. She was a woman who retained a large amount of her youthful strength and vigor during her long and active life. At the age of 75 she rode horseback from Lebanon, N. H., to Stafford, Ct., simply to visit friends at her old home town and, at the age of 91, still made butter and cheese as of old. Dr. Ebenezer Alden in his book "Memorial of the Descendants of the Hon. John Alden" states "She retained her memory and other mental faculties to the last; was a devoted Christian, had a great respect for her Puritan ancestors, and never grew weary of answering inquiries relating to their character and condition. To her, my venerable grandmother, I am indebted for many facts relating to her husband's ancestry as well as her own." She died May 6, 1817, at Lebanon, N. H., at the age of 92. On her gravestone at Lebanon is the following inscription:

Samuel, born 1768.

He was a member of the first church, represented the town several years as deputy to the General Court and was commissioner, constable, etc.

Two of his sons were named John, and designated as "John" and "Younger Son John," so named, tradition says, at the instance of godfathers. Both brought up families and died at good old age in Scituate.

Humphrey Turner was born in England, where he married Lydia Gamer. He and his wife died some time before 1673. They had eight children.

John Turner, known as "Younger Son John," son of Humphrey. He married Ann James April 25, 1649, and died at Scituate 1687. They had nine children.

He was unmarried.

LT. COLONEL EZRA ALDEN (8), Lebanon, N. H., was born Dec. 8, 1787. He was the son of Daniel (6). His early life was passed as a schoolteacher, later becoming a farmer. He was successful in amassing a goodly amount of means for his time and place. He had a studious mind and gradually collected together a library with which he during his later years spent much of his time in study. He was appointed Lieutenant Colonel of the 23rd Regt. of the N. JULIUS ALDEN (11) of Waterville, Maine, was born at Lebanon, N. H., Jan. 4, 1796, the son of Daniel (6). He received his early education in the public schools. When 16 years of age went to Hanover, N. H., and learned the business of druggist with his uncle, Samuel Alden. He came to Waterville, Me., about 1825 and, with Lucius Allen, also of Lebanon, N. H., established a drug and apothecary business under the firm name of Alden and Allen. After a few years, he dissolved with Allen and received into partnership T. O. Saunders, forming the firm of Alden & Saunders for one year only. Afterward he continued the business under his own name until 1847. From this date he had sundry occupations. He was a devout member of the Congregational Church. He was a man of medium height, of light complexion, active temperament, and upright carriage which he retained to the time of his death. He died March 10, 1880, at Waterville, Maine, of pneumonia.

He married April 17, 1826, Elizabeth Louisa Nourse, daughter of David* and Sarah (Pike)† Nourse of Waterville, Maine. She transporting freight from the coast to the inland town of Waterville, as that was practically the only means of moving heavy freight during those early days when the river alone furnished an avenue of commerce. He died of cholera morbus Oct. 9, 1824, at the age of 54. Sarah, his wife, died May 29, 1833, at the age of 63.

They had the following children:

David, Jr., born Dec. 2, 1811, drowned June 19, 1820.

†The "Records of the Pike Family Association of America 1906," claim that John Pike of Newbury, Mass., descended from Sir Richard Pyke who was living during the eighth year of King Richard, the Second, in the year 1385, and show the line of descent down to John Pike, eighth in descent from Sir Richard, and first of the line in America, who came to this country from Southampton April 6, 1635, in the ship "James" arriving in Boston August, 1635.

He settled at first in Ipswich but after a short stop at that place removed to Newbury and settled on the banks of the Parker River and was made a freeman in 1642. He was a highly educated man and wrote a fine hand, unknown among the uneducated of his times. He left England at the time of the great Reformation, and has often been classed as among the many "dissenters" who left their native land for the "freedom to worship God." He was a man of pronounced opinions, bold in his assertions, but as history shows, educated a lawyer, he undoubtedly knew how to keep within the bounds of prudence in his intercourse with the element of the times.

It must be remembered that the Church and State were practically the same in those days, and that the laws of the land were largely scriptural, and that the law was argued from the Bible standpoint.

He was conversant with theological reasonings and, as the theological reasonings for the preservation of peace as adopted by the lawyers and the theological reasonings for the salvation of souls as adopted by the ministry must differ in some of their essential points, it is not to be wondered at that on May 5, 1638, after having listened for a time to a certain discourse, "It is ordered that John Pike shall pay two shillings and six pence for departing from the meeting without leave and contemptuously," and before this, Feb. 24, 1638, "John Pike, Robert Pike, and three others, were fined two shillings and six pence apiece for being absent from town meeting at eight o'clock in the morning, having had due and fit warning." But he must have risen high in the esteem of his fellow citizens, for in 1647 he was one of the chosen to administer "the prudential affairs of the town," and in 1648 to "end small causes," which he did in an exemplary manner as the court records show.

His will was probated Aug. 3, 1654, in which he mentions daughters, Dorothy who married Daniel Hendricks, Ann who married John Fiske, Israel who married Henry True, and sons John and Robert.

SECOND GENERATION.

Capt. John Pike, son of John, and second of the American line, was born at Bridgewater, England, (presumably) in 1605, if he is the one who sailed "from ye port of London Nov. 26, 1635, for Barbadoes, aged thirty." He settled in Newbury, Mass., where he married Mary Tarville. Well educated, he soon became one of the leading men of the place. He was educated a lawyer, was elected selectman in 1647-1648, was chosen to end small causes in the town during the years 1651, 1654, 1656, 1657, 1660. Was elected Deputy to the General Court in 1657 and 1658, which position he most ably filled.

He was brought up a Congregationalist, but later in life became a Presbyterian. Quoting from Coffin's "History of Old Newbury"—"when in Newbury there was a contention in the church regarding church discipline because the pastor and teacher had changed their minds after the first few years, from the Congregational to the Presbyterian form." It seems the matter was carried into Court for adjustment and, he being summoned as a witness testified, "That he was present at the gathering of the church of Newbury, and that he heard the pastor, Mr. Parker, preach from the eighteenth chapter of Matthew and 17th verse whereat the preacher held forth that the power of discipline belonged to the whole church and he (John Pike) strongly favored this doctrine, he taking notes of what was said."

Early in 1665 he removed to Woodbridge, N. J., and on May 21, 1666, articles of agreement were signed between Governor Carteret, John Pike, Abraham Tappen, and Joshua Pierce, in behalf of themselves and associates of Woodbridge and Piscataway, whereby a colony was established over which he was chosen Judge and Governor, which position he held for many years.

After his return to Newbury in 1671, he was chosen a member of Governor Carteret's Council, and in 1675 was appointed Captain of the Militia and by this appellation he was generally known.

He had the following children by his first wife:

George Henry, born Aug. 30, 1866, Tunbridge, Vt., (26).

Frederick W., born June 28, 1873, Waseca, Minn. (27).

FRANCES LOUISA ALDEN (19) of Waterville, Maine, was born April 18, 1829, at Waterville, Maine, the daughter of Julius (11). Early in life she suffered an attack of scarlet fever which left her deaf. She had remarkable talent as a painter in oil of flowers and interiors, and many of her paintings have been exhibited and sold in the best sale studios of New York and Philadelphia. She was unmarried. She died of pneumonia Nov. 30, 1882, at Waterville, Maine.

CHARLES HENRY ALDEN (20) of Waterville, Maine, was born April 13, 1836, at Waterville, Maine, the son of Julius (11). He received his education in the public schools of Waterville and Hebron Academy. He learned the trade of printer and practiced the same from 1854-59, being associated with the "Waterville Mail," a weekly publication. In the year 1860, he entered the employ of his brother, Arthur Julius, in the jewelry business and in 1867 they formed the firm of Alden Brothers and continued in business together until May, 1910, when they retired, being widely known for their integrity and fair dealing. He was of a studious temperament, of an extremely friendly disposition, a pleasing conversationalist, surrounding himself with many friends.

He was always very much interested in Masonic matters, being a member and Past Master of Waterville Lodge, No. 33, F. & A. M., and Past Generalissimo of St. Omer Commandery of Knights Templar.

He was unmarried, and died at Waterville, Maine, June 15, 1921.

ARTHUR JULIUS ALDEN (21), of Waterville, Maine, was born April 23, 1838, at Waterville, Maine, the son of Julius (11). He received his early education in the public schools and Waterville Academy. When only fourteen years of age he was apprenticed for a year at the upholstering and carriage trimming business. In 1854 he was apprenticed to C. W. Wingate to learn the watch and jewelry business, and so well did he labor that in 1859 when only twenty-one years old he was made a partner in the watch and repairing department. The following year, 1860, he bought out the Wingate interest and conducted the business alone although his brother, Charles H. Alden, entered his employ that year to learn the business and later, in the fall of 1867, they organized a co-partnership under the firm name of Alden Brothers. Then continued a remarkable partnership, existing for forty-three years, both members of the firm being alive when they retired from business May 1, 1910, selling out to F. A. Harriman who still conducts a jewelry store at the same location. Thus Arthur J. was in business, as apprentice and proprietor, in the same store for a period of fifty-seven years, the record for continuous business by any one individual in Waterville up to the present time.

He was always interested in the City's affairs although not a seeker after office, the only public position he ever occupied being Councilman in 1895. He was a Director of the Peoples National Bank from 1893 to 1921, at which time the control of the bank was obtained by interests back of the Kennebec Trust Company. There was a general reorganization of the Board of Directors but they, realizing his keen judgment, urged him to remain on the reorganized Board. He felt, however, that at his age he would not be able to serve the Board for long and that then was a very fitting time to retire therefrom. He was also on the Advisory Board of the Waterville Savings Bank ever since its incorporation in 1869.

He was always a lover of fine bred horses and took a great deal of pleasure in driving a good horse, he having owned some of the finest gentlemen's drivers in that section, as well as some of considerable speed. When others began to give up the horse for the automobile, he still preferred the horse and always kept one in his stable as long as he lived.

He was a member of the Congregational Church, which he joined in 1878, and in which he took an active part.

He was also a member of the Waterville Lodge, No. 33, F. & A. M., which order he joined in 1862.

A man of light complexion and slight build, about 5 feet 8 inches tall, erect carriage, and of active temperament even up to the end of his life.

He was much respected and loved by all who knew him. He died July 11, 1922, at Waterville, Maine.

He married Nov. 19, 1867, Ellen Wentworth, daughter of George and Sophia T. (Lovejoy) Wentworth.* She was born in Waterville,

*From the Wentworth Genealogy, by John Wentworth, LL. D., published 1878. WILLIAM WENTWORTH'S (the emigrant) presence in this country is first evidenced by his signature with thirty-five others to a combination for the government of Exeter, N. H., on the fourth day of July, 1639. (Among these thirty-five persons was Rev. John Wheelwright, he being the leader). Rev. John Wheelwright, banished from Massachusetts, had with others purchased of the Indians the title to certain lands, two conveyances from the Indians having the same date, viz: April 3, 1638. The settlement was made in 1638 around the lower falls of the Swanscot River. It was because this territory was then outside of any actual government that the "Combination" was established. The original document is still preserved among the records of Exeter, N. H.

The Combination at Exeter continued for three years. Massachusetts had always quietly regarded the Newichawannock and Piscataqua Rivers as its rightful boundary, but for prudential reasons had not enforced its claim. But the confusion into which the Dover settlers had fallen led that people to desire the strong government of Massachusetts. After repeated conferences between the parties, a union of Dover and Portsmouth with Massachusetts was accomplished in 1641. This extension of jurisdiction of course covered Exeter, although it was not there made operative until 1642.

Mr. Wheelwright was still under sentence of banishment from Massachusetts and it was necessary for him again to remove. He, therefore, in 1642 removed to Wells in the Province of Maine, to which Massachusetts could lay no claim. With him went several of his adherents at Exeter and among them William Wentworth, who lived there from 1642-49 and in 1650 moved to Dover, N. H., where he resided the rest of his life.

He was one of the selectmen in 1651, 1657, 1660, 1664, 1665, 1670. He was "Commissioner," an office in which "small causes" were adjudged, in 1663. He was lot-layer in 1657, 1660 and 1661, an office which required much time and care in the period when great numbers of town grants, vague and often conflicting, were to be located. He was the first named of five men who in 1656 were chosen by the town to arbitrate between the conflicting claims of lands which had become a serious difficulty.

The office, however, by which William Wentworth was best known was that of Ruling Elder of the Church of Dover, especially as it resulted in his officiating as preacher for many years of his life.

(The offices of Pastor and Ruling Elder should not be confused. According to the Annals of the American Pulpit—"It devolved on the Pastor to inculcate the doctrines and present the consolations of religion; on the Ruling Elder to assist the Pastor in the government of the church, particularly that over the members, to prepare and bring forward all cases of discipline, to visit and pray with the sick, and, in the absence of the pastor and teacher, to pray with the congregation and expound the Scriptures." "The office of Ruling Elder later died out of the Congregational Churches.")

Elder William Wentworth was remarkably instrumental in saving Heard's garrison from destruction by the Indians on the 28th of June 1689. Although it was a time of peace, the unusual number of Indians gathered at Cocheco (part of Dover) which was a trading post, excited the suspicions of the people. It was noticed also that there were many strange faces among them. The confidence of Major Richard Walderne somewhat allayed their doubts, but many nevertheless gathered into the garrisons, of which there were five at Cocheco. Elder Wentworth went to the Heard garrison about a mile from his house. On the evening of the 27th, squaws requested permission to sleep by the kitchen fires in the several garrisons, which custom was not unusual. They were admitted into four, including Heard's. In the darkest hour before the morn the squaws opened the doors to admit the Indian braves. Elder Wentworth was awakened by the barking of a dog. Suspicious, he hastened to the door and found the Indians entering. Alone, and seventy-three years of age, he drove them out, shut the door and, falling on his back, held it until the other inmates of the garrison came to his assistance. While he was so lying, two bullets passed through the door and over him. It was the only garrison saved. Twenty-three persons were killed and twenty-nine carried away as captives.

For some time after the massacre, Cocheco, except the garrison, was untenable. Indian hostilities continued and, as this was the frontier post between Portsmouth and Canada, the place was too much exposed to be at once re-occupied. It may be due to that fact that he was living in Exeter in 1690 to 1693.

He died about 1697 at Dover, N. H., where he had once more returned.

BENJAMIN (2), son of Elder William Wentworth, was probably the youngest child and according to tradition was the son of a second wife. He inherited his homestead from his father, it being part of the Elder's large tract. (This homestead was about two miles northeast of Cocheco Falls, Dover, N. H., and East of Garrison Hill. It descended from him to his son, Benjamin [3]. He willed same to his sons, Benjamin [4] and Bartholomew [4], and it next descended to Bartholomew [5].)

Benjamin was a constable in Dover, N. H., in 1711 and 1713, and surveyor of highways 1703-1717.

He married Sarah Allen, from what place it does not appear, but tradition says from Salisbury, Mass. She died, aged 91, on July 12, 1770.

The New England Journal of Aug. 5, 1728, gives this account of his death:

"We are informed that some days ago Mr. Benjamin Wentworth riding over a bridge (otherwise called the boom) in the river at Cochecho, N. H., fell into the said river where both he and his horse were drowned."

Their children were:

He was in command of a company at Port Royal, 1707, and did [with Major Shadrach Walton] one of the few brave things of the expedition. [see Farmer's Belknap, page 1741]. He was killed by the Indians Sept. 17, 1707. Pike's Journal says: "Capt. Samuel Chesley, his brother, James Chesley, and six more stout young men were slain by the Indians as they were cutting and hauling timber not far from Capt. Chesley's house.

*For the following families see footnotes to pages as indicated—Dunham 13, Molines 11, Nourse 25, Pike 27, Shaw 15, Smith 49, Speidel 51, Turner 17, Wentworth 39.

An Indian killed James Chesley and was slain upon the spot by Robert Thomson. Philip Chesley and three others escaped." Belknap says: "A party of French Mohawks, painted red, attacked with a hideous yell a company who were in the woods, some hewing timber and others driving a team, under the direction of Capt. Chesley who was just returned the second time from Port Royal. At the first fire, they killed seven and mortally wounded another. Chesley, with the few who were left, fired on the enemy with great vigor and for some time checked their ardor, but being overpowered he at length fell. He was much lamented, being a brave officer.")

Esther, or "Hester," (doubtless child of second wife), married Aug. 9, 1705, John Hall, son of Ralph, son of Deacon John Hall.

Mary, married May 26, 1701, (second wife) Ralph Hall, son of Deacon John Hall of Dover. They had no children.

COUSINS.

Thomas Cousins came to Wells, Maine, sometime between the time of the first settlement in 1640 and 1670. Later, in 1684, he was granted a hundred acres by the town on Little River. He was a Congregationalist and we find his name among the charter members of the Second Congregational Society of Wells, incorporated in 1750.

Ichabod Cousins, son of Thomas, was granted land in 1734. He enlisted in the French and Indian War in 1744 under Captain John Storer and embarked on the expedition led by Sir William Pepperell against Louisburg, returning home the following year after the capture of the city. In 1758, he built the first house on the west side of the river where Kennebunk Village of the present is located. Like his father, he was one of the founders of the Second Congregational Society in 1750. He married Ruth Cole about 1716. She was born Nov. 15, 1694, the daughter of Thomas and Abigail Cole. It is related that Thomas Cole and his wife Abigail, together with two other married couples, who had been on a trip to York in 1696, were all shot down by the Indians as they were making their return journey home. Ruth was the granddaughter of Nicholas and Jane Cole. Nicholas was born about 1626 and died in 1688.

Capt. Nathaniel Cousins, son of Ichabod, was born in 1739 and died in 1834 at the age of 95. He was a carpenter by trade and framed many buildings and also in later years worked in the ship-yards as long as his strength allowed. In 1756 he, like his father, enlisted in the French and Indian War under Capt. James Littlefield and was one of the soldiers under General Abercrombie in his rash attack on Fort Niagara in 1758, although only engaged at a distance in preparing breastworks. He also engaged in the Revolution. He was in the eight months service at the siege of Boston in 1775. In 1776, he was commissioned a Second Lieutenant in Capt. John Hubbard's company, Col. Ephraim Doolittle's regiment. Was Lieutenant in Capt. Tobias Lord's company at Falmouth from January 1st until Nov. 25, 1776. He was commissioned Captain in the 3rd York County Regiment, Col. Cutts in command, in 1779, and enlisted July 6, 1779, as a Captain in Major Littlefield's detachment from York County on the Bagaduce expedition. He was discharged from the service August 1st, 1779. Dec. 25, 1780, he was appointed a member of the committee authorized by the Town of Wells to agree on any bounty which it judged necessary to induce enlistment in the army, and be it said to the credit of this body that it succeeded although others had failed and by March, 1781, it obtained the number required of the town. At the March meeting, 1781, he was appointed on a committee to provide for the families of non-commissioned officers and soldiers in the Continental Army. In 1787, he was chosen one of the Selectmen of the Town of Wells and Kennebunk.

The people of Wells were much opposed to the War of 1812, and on July 27th of that year voted 246 to 4 against the war. Capt. Cousins was a member of the committee appointed to draw up a memorial addressed to the President of the United States stating their views on the question but still standing loyally by the Government, whatever its final decision might be.

Olive Cousins, daughter of Capt. Nathaniel, married Benjamin Wentworth.

FAUGHT.

The Faught family, according to the "History of Kennebec County," originated with Philip Faught who emigrated to this country from a point on the Rhine in Germany, landed in Boston in 1751. In 1756, he came to Dresden, Maine, where a German colony was located.

Frederick<sup>2</sup>, one of his sons, came to America with the family and settled on the Kennebec in Sidney, Maine, where he spent his life.

Among his children was Frederick and Clarissa. Frederick<sup>3</sup> was born in 1786. He, like his father, followed the vocation of a farmer. He settled on the "Middle Road," one mile south of Bacon's Corner, where he raised a family. He died in 1861. He married Susan, daughter of Marlborough Packard, of Union, Mass., and granddaughter of Nathan and Martha D. (Perkins) Packard. Nathan was the son of Solomon Packard, born in 1689, and grandson of Zaccheus whose father, Samuel Packard, came from England with his wife and settled in Hingham, Mass., in 1638.

Their children were:

Marlboro P.
 Frederick,
 Luther R.,
 Lemuel Porter,
 Chessman (died young),
 Albert,
 George N.,
 Caroline P.,
 Frances Ann,
 Nelson (died young).

Clarissa, daughter of Frederick,<sup>2</sup> was born June 27, 1790, and married Daniel Thayer of Sidney, Mainè.

Deacon John Hall was born (by deposition) in 1617, was a deacon of the first church of Dover for nearly forty years, while William Wentworth was an elder. He was a Selectman, Town Clerk for at least sixteen years (ending with 1685) and died about 1693-4. His wife's name is not known.

Third Generation.

HEZEKIAH, son of Christopher, was born between 1695 and 1701. He married July 16, 1722, Hannah Austin of Haverhill, Mass. She was blind in her old age. She died December 1, 1805 at Amherst, N. H., at the extreme old age of 101 years, 7 months and 13 days.

They had the following children:*

Hezekiah, born Feb. 22, 1722-23, died March 4, 1722-3.

A child, born and died Nov. 27, 1723-4.

Hezekiah, born Oct. 29, 1729, (married April 9, 1751, Hannah Phelps and settled in Amherst, N. H. His son Jonathan Lovejoy was blind during the latter days of his life.)

*The notes of Charles H. Lovejoy state that Hezekiah and Hannah (Austin) Lovejoy had eleven children, but lists only eight children as above.

Abiel, (sometimes spelled Abial) born Dec. 16, 1731, in Andover, Mass.

*Francis, born Oct. 20, 1734, married January 24, 1765, Mary Bancroft.

Phebe, born Oct. 24, 1737.

Fourth Generation.

ABIEL†, son of Hezekiah, generally spoken of as "Esquire" Lovejoy, was born December 16, 1731, at Andover, Mass. He came to Maine sometime about 1778, settling in Sidney, Me., where he took up five hundred acres. Upon this farm on the shore of the Kennebec river is located the oldest burial ground in Sidney, now almost lost by the growth of the pine trees which have all but obliterated all evidence of the graves. He was Selectman and Treasurer in 1780, and Moderator at the town meeting of Vassalboro 1782, as Sidney was a part of Vassalboro up to 1792. He was a Representative to the Massachusetts Provincial Congress from 1777 to 1786. He was quite wealthy for his time and owned several slaves, among them Salem, Boston and his wife Venus and their children whom Squire Lovejoy brought with him from Massachusetts when he came to Maine.

When Massachusetts passed the act freeing the slaves it naturally applied to the Province of Maine. Squire Lovejoy accordingly called before him two of the oldest, Salem and Venus and offered them their liberty. Salem replied, "You've had all de meat, now pick de bones." They accordingly remained the rest of their lives with him. Sidney holds many a traditional story and saying of these slaves. He married Dec. 14, 1758, in Charlestown, Mass., Mary-Brown, daughter of John and Mary (Cole) Brown, and granddaughter of William and Mary (Lathrop) Brown. Mary Lathrop was the daughter of Benjamin Lathrop and granddaughter of Rev. John Lathrop of Barnstable, Mass. William Brown was the son of Hugh Brown.

Squire Lovejoy was blind for some years before his death in 1810. His mother, Hannah Austin, was also blind, and his cousin Jonathan, son of Hezekiah, was blind for twenty years. His sons Nathaniel and Abiel were also blind before they died.

* Francis of the fourth generation was the father of Daniel who married Elizabeth Pattee. They were the parents of Elijah Parish Lovejoy, born in Albion, Me., Nov. 8, 1802, the hero and martyr who was killed at Alton, Ill., Nov. 7, 1837, in opposition to slavery and in defense of the freedom of the press, also of his brother, Owen, who was a congressman from Illinois.

†The "History of Kennebec County" states that Abial of the fourth generation, was born in England which I think is an error as the carefully prepared charts and data collected by Charles H. Lovejoy of Sidney, Me., and the charts of Alexander Graham Bell show he was born in this country, and descended from John Lovejoy, who came to America before 1644.

They had the following children:

Nathaniel, born Aug. 8, 1759.

Polly D., born April 30, 1761, died Nov. 19, 1780.

Frances, born Aug. 12, 1762.

Francis, born Jan. 13, 1768, at Pownalborough, Me. Married Betsey Smith, daughter of Eliab Smith of Waterville, Me. (The first deaf mute of the family)*

Abigail, born Jan. 1, 1770, married Dec. 1, 1794, William Bacon.

Sarah, born Feby. 12, 1772.

Hannah, born Nov. 19, 1773, married Nov. 28, 1793, Ebenezer Bacon, Jr., brother of William.

A daughter, still born, March 1, 1775.

Stephen, born April 26, 1776, married Jan. 14, 1798, Hannah Hastings. He was a colonel in the War of 1812.

William, born Aug. 14, 1778, married 1801, Etta Lovejoy of Fayette, Me., his second cousin.

Jacob, born Oct. 31, 1780, married July 23, 1818, Sarah Townsend.

Betsey, born April 23, 1782, married Jan. 19, 1800, David Sturgis.

A daughter, born March, 1784, died the same month.

Phebe, born Oct. 1, 1785, married Sept. 12, 1803, Ebenezer Morse.

Fifth Generation.

NATHANIEL, son of Abiel, was born August 8, 1759, and married Mary —. He was blind during the latter days of his life, as were his father and grandmother before him.

They had the following children:

Polly, born 1783, died in infancy.

Sewell, born 1820, died 1888. He was a member of Company A, Seventh Maine Regiment from Jan. 1864, to the close of the Civil War, altho his field service closed at the battle of the Wilderness where he was wounded. He married Pamela, daughter of John and Phebe (Burden) Page. They had three children, Clarence F., Ella P., and Julia E. (Clarence had one child Ada P.)

Amelia, born 1839, died June 22, 1856.

Anna, who married ——— Upham.

James, who moved to Texas.

The names of the other three children have been lost from the records.

STACKPOLE.

“The History and Genealogy of the Stackpole Family,” published by Everett S. Stackpole, furnishes the following data:

James Stacpole, the Emigrant, according to tradition was “taken prisoner on the coast of Ireland, when a boy only 14 years old and brought to this country.” The story has some probability since it is well-known that many were brought from Ireland and Scotland by force (as stated by Rev. Joseph B. Felt in his history of Ipswich, Mass.,—“Among the crying wrongs to some of our race was that of stealing young people, transporting them to America, and selling them into servitude,”—he then gives specific instances).

There is an account of the family of James Stackpole of Waterville, Me., found in North’s History of Augusta, probably furnished by James Stackpole who graduated from Bowdoin College in 1819, in which he states that his "immigrant ancestor was James Stackpole of Sligo, Ireland, who came over in 1680." He evidently simply reported a tradition. Where and how James Stackpole lived before the year 1680 is not actually known. In April of that year, he is first mentioned in the "Cochecho Province Rates" as taxed two shillings and one penny.

In 1680, he settled as a squatter in Dover, now Rollinsford, N. H., on land that had been granted in 1656 to Joseph Austin. None of the Austin family ever lived here. May 20, 1710, he received a deed from Thomas Austin, only son of Joseph Austin, who conveyed to him "for twenty pounds of current money all that tract of land granted to said Joseph Austin in 1656." This lot purchased contained one hundred acres of rich land. That the price paid was only a nominal one is shown by the fact that only four years later, Nov. 30, 1714, he sold forty acres of upland from this lot to William Frost for one hundred and twenty pounds.

James Stackpole built a house on the above property just north of the creek called Stackpole Brook some time before he took deed to the property from Austin. About the time the Indians came down on Salmon Falls in 1689 he moved to the other side of the river for protection and for several years kept an "ordinary," or tavern, a few rods west of the old cemetery at Great Works.

According to deposition, he was born about 1654. He married some time before 1680 Margaret, daughter of James and Margaret Warren of the parish of Berwick. James Warren deposed Sept. 13, 1701, aged eighty years, that he had lived in upper Kittery "near fiftie years." He came then in 1651 when Richard Leander brought his Scots from the Lynn Iron Works to run the sawmill at Great Works. He had been taken a prisoner in the battle of Dunbar by Oliver Cromwell Sept. 3, 1650, and sent with one hundred and fifty prisoners to Boston on the ship "Unity." So many of them settled in Upper Kittery that it was called "the Parish of Unity" before it was called Berwick. There is evidence that James Warren came from Berwick, Scotland. He died in 1702 and his wife in 1713. Their children were 1st, Gilbert born 1654, married Sarah, daughter of James and Elizabeth Emery; 2nd, Margaret, married James Stackpole; 3d, Jane, married Warren Grant; 4th, James, married 1691 Mary, daughter of John and Mary (Chadbourne) Fost of Dover; 5th, Grizel born, March 6, 1662, married Richard Otis as his third wife. He and a daughter were killed in the Dover Massacre of 1689, and Grizel and her babe, Margaret, were carried captives to Canada.

James Stackpole and his son, Philip, signed a petition April 25, 1729, for a new parish in the northeast part of Dover. The petition was granted Dec. 19, 1730. It was incorporated as a town April 22, 1754. Rev. James Pike was the first pastor of the Church.

James Stacpole died in 1736.

His children were:

James, died 1706, unmarried.

John, married Elizabeth Brown and lived in Biddeford,

Catherine, married Alexander Junkins of York,

William,

Margaret, married Jonathan Young of York,

Philip, married Mercy Thomson,

Honor, married Joseph Freathy of York,

Samuel, died in 1758, probably unmarried.

Philip Stacpole, son of James (1), was born on or about 1690. He married first Mercy Thomson about the year 1712, probably the daughter of John and Sarah (Emery) Thomson. He married a second time between 1750 and 1755, Martha, widow of Thomas Stevens of Somersworth, N. H. She died Sept. 24, 1792, in Dover at the age of 101 years.

Philip Stacpole was a member of the first school board of Somersworth, N. H. He was one of the selectmen with Paul and William Wentworth in 1737, 1741 and 1742. He was chosen to the same office again in 1748 but refused to serve. He was again elected selectman in 1750. He was one of a committee on valuations of estates in 1753 and one of the overseers of the poor in 1754, 1755 and 1758; collector of taxes in 1753. He was sergeant of the militia in 1746. The various offices prove that he was considered a man of ability and integrity. In the division of common land in Dover in 1733 he received three hundred and twenty-eight acres.

His will is dated August 25 and Sept. 30, 1761.

The children of Philip and Mercy (Thomson) Stacpole were as follows:

Joshua,

James, born 1714, married Elizabeth Pierce,

Lydia, married ——— Frost,

William, married Anne Gray,

Elisha, probably died young,

Otis,

Philip.

Sarah, born in 1718. She married, as his second wife Oct. 17, 1743, Sergeant John Hall who was born in 1706, the great-grandson of the original settler, Deacon John Hall of Dover. She died January, 1804. They are both buried in a small cemetery in Somersworth, N. H.

For their children, see sketches of the Hall family.

THATCHER.

From the Thatcher Genealogy and also original data.

ANTHONY THATCHER, a brother of Rev. Peter Thatcher, came from Salisbury, England. The name of the father of Anthony and Peter is not known, nor is the place of their birth, but it is supposed to have been Somersetshire.

Besides these two brothers, there were Clement, William, Thomas, John, Anne (who married Christopher Bath), and Dorothy who married Richard Sears and was in this country in 1682, settling at Sesuet (now East Dennis), Mass., and from whom have descended a numerous family.

In the will of his brother Thomas, which is dated Jan. 8, 1610, he is spoken of as being in the separation and residing in Holland. To have taken such a decided stand in religion as is indicated in the will, he must have been at least sixteen, so there is no doubt that he was born previous to 1595.

He embarked for America on the 6th day of April, 1635, at Southampton in the "James" of London and arrived at North Ipswich June 4th. After remaining a short time at Ipswich, his cousin Avery received an invitation to preach at Marblehead and they with their respective families (except a nephew Thomas who went by land) embarked for that place Aug. 11, 1635, and were wrecked off Cape Ann, and all but Anthony and his wife were drowned. After his shipwreck he probably remained in Marblehead for a time as his son John was born there in 1638-9.

From notes in the Plymouth Colony Records we find that a grant of land at Mattacheesit (now Yarmouth) was made to him and others Jan. 7, 1638-9. From the records we find that he took a prominent part in the affairs of the town and colony and was employed in various public offices. He represented the town of Yarmouth in the General Court at Plymouth in 1643-1647, 1651-2, 1654, 1659-1663, and 1665.

The exact date of his death is not known but it must have been some time between June 30, 1667, and Aug. 22 of the same year as H. C. Thatcher of Boston has a paper signed by him bearing the former date, and the inventory of his estate was taken at the latter date.

For his first wife he married Mary (——) who died at Salisbury, England, in 1634.

Their children were:

William (born previous to 1620),
Mary,
Edith,
Peter.

These were all drowned in the shipwreck.

Benjamin, who was left in Salisbury and buried there Sept. 4, 1639.

For a second wife he married Elizabeth Jones six weeks previous to sailing for America. She survived him a few years.

Their children were:

John, born March 17, 1639, died May 8, 1713.

Judah, born ———, died Nov. 4, 1676,

Bethiah, who married Jabez Howland of Duxbury and settled in Bristol, R. I.

Second Generation.

John, the oldest son of Anthony, was born March 17, 1639. He was at an early age appointed an officer in the Militia and for more than twenty years served as one of the Selectmen of the Town of Yarmouth. In the year 1668, he was chosen as representative for the Town of Yarmouth to the General Court, and was elected annually to that station to the year 1683, except the year 1673.

He married Nov. 6, 1661, Rebecca Winslow of Mansfield, daughter of Joseph Winslow and niece of Governor Winslow. She was born July 16, 1642, and died July 15, 1683; and Lydia Gorham, daughter of Col. Gorham of Barnstable Jan. 1, 1684.

The children by his first wife were:

Peter, born May 20, 1665, died May 26, 1736.

Joseph, born April 26, 1667, died May 12, 1702,

Rebecca, born June 1, 1669,

Bethiah, born July 10, 1671,

John, born Jan. 26, 1674-5,

Elizabeth, born June 19, 1677, died May 18, 1710.

Hannah, born Aug. 19, 1676, died July 11, 1689.

Mary, born Aug. 3, 1682, died Sept. 7, 1682, and another child who died young.

The children by his second wife were:

Lydia, born Feb. 11, 1684-5, died Sept. 3, 1724,

Mary, born Feb. 5, 1686-7, died June 28, 1778,

They had the following children:

Sophia, born Aug. 1797, died Aug. 27, 1881. She married
William Lovejoy of Sidney, Maine.

Almira, married David Towne.

The following letter written by my Great-Aunt Anna Upham, granddaughter of James and Achsa (Hardy) Thatcher is of interest:

“James Thatcher, your Great-Great-Grandfather, was born on Cape Cod. When a young man he learned the shipbuilder’s trade. After he married Achsa Hardy they moved to Vassalboro, Maine. He bought a little farm and settled down to work his trade. His land extended from the road back to the Kennebec river. He had a shipbuilder’s yard and built many ships. He was employed by the Government to build two warships. After those were built he made two privateers and sent them out. Both of them were taken by the English and that was the ruin of his earthly wealth, but his brother, Henry Thatcher of Cape Cod, redeemed the farm and gave him a lease of it free as long as he or his wife and children should live. He and his wife died in 1858, and his daughter Betsey, who never married, lived there alone for a few years, then she went to live with a niece and the heirs of Henry Thatcher claimed the farm, and that was the close of the Deacon James Thatcher farm, as it passed out of that name.

“James Thatcher was a very pious man. He was a deacon in the Congregational Church at Vassalboro for forty years.

“Your Great-Great-Grandfather only had three children, all girls—Betsey, who never married; Sophia, who married William Lovejoy and had ten children (my brother James of Texas and I are all that are left); Almira, who married David Towne, and they had eight children.

“Your Great-Great-Great-Uncle Peter was very odd and peculiar. He had a fine team and he and his wife were on their way to church one Sunday. The horse got frightened, ran and threw them both out injuring them severely. Uncle said he would never ride after a horse again as long as he lived—and he never did.

“I will tell you a little incident I have heard my grandfather relate:

“One of the Thatchers, with his wife, not long after they had settled on the Cape (there were only a few women there in those days) were going to some part of the Cape and they stopped for the night with a family who had a little girl baby in the cradle. Mr. Thatcher said, “There, wife, that baby will be my second wife.” His wife said, “I hope it will be a long while.” “So do I,” was his reply. Years passed on. His wife gave birth to twelve children, and she died. Now his son was paying attention to this very girl that his father had said was to be his second wife, and the father would not be induced to give up his intended wife, so the father went too. The father had two very fine horses, a black and a white, and when the father found the white one tied at the girl’s home he went away, and when the son found the black one tied at the girl’s home he went away. Finally, the father said to his son, “if you will give up the girl, I will give you either horse you like.” So the son took the black horse and the father married the girl and had a family of eleven children.’

“I have given you as correct a family history as I can recall. I hope this will please and interest you.

“Your loving,
AUNT ANNA.”

WHITMARSH.

The Whitmarsh Genealogy states that on March 20, 1635, Rev. Joseph Hall and twenty-one families sailed from Weymouth, England, for New England. In this company were "John Whitmarsk, aged 39 yeare, Alce (Alice or Elsie?) Whitmarcke, his sonne age 11 yeare, Jane, his daughter, aged 7 yeare, Onseph Whitmarke, his sonne, aged 5 yeare, Rich Whytemark, his sonne aged 2 yeare."

On July 8, 1635, the General Court of Massachusetts passed an order permitting them to settle at Wessagusset, which was incorporated under the name of Weymouth Sept. 2, 1635. The town records show that John Whitmarsh owned several pieces of land before 1644 at which time he is spoken of as deceased. Mention is also made of "John Whitmarsh, the sonn of the aforesaid John Whitmarsh," and of other sons, Nicholas and Simon.

John Whitmarsh, son of John, married Sarah (——) and lived in Weymouth. He was a freeman in 1691 (unless this refers to his son, which is probable).

Their children were:

John, born Dec. 23, 1655,

Ebenezer,

One not named (died young),

Zachariah,
